Lewis Bars Dawson as Trustee of Miners' Fund

By The Associated Press

John L. Lewis reportedly blocked the seating of former Federal Judge Charles I. Dawson as the coal operators' trustee of the miners' welfare fund at a stormy three-hour session yesterday.

Lewis, Dawson and Senator Stlyes Bridges (R., N. H.) refused to talk about what went on at the meeting. Dawson had sought to succeed Ezra Van Horn as the operator representative.

(Dawson, upon return to his Louisville, Ky., home by plane last night, said: "I am not concerned about my membership on the board. When the board has its next meeting, I will be there.")

Dawson was elected by a vote of the coal operators who signed the 1948-49 contract. That pact expired June 30, and Bridges has refused to vote to use any welfare royalties—estimated at 13 million dollars—collected since that date. It is virtually the only money left in the fund. Only $850,000 remains in the treasury from collections on coal mined before the contract ran out.

Lewis vs. Bridges

The votes of Lewis and Bridges would nullify each other on the board yesterday on any issue involving the recognition of Dawson as a member. Some observers speculated that Lewis may have decided Dawson would line up with Bridges and refuse to allow pensions or welfare benefits from the 13 million dollars.

Van Horn resigned in a letter to the coal operators and not to the trustees—a point which Lewis was quick to use as an argument against the legality of seating Dawson.

Van Horn was in Washington most of the day, but returned to Cleveland last night.

Next Session on December 2

Another trustee session is scheduled for Friday, December 2. Dawson may take the fight for his seat into court before that, in the opinion of some persons aware of the setback.

In effect, yesterday's action postponed a showdown between Lewis and Bridges over using the miners' padlocked funds.

Lewis has insisted that the dwindling welfare fund continue to pay the miners' hospital bills.

But Bridges, as a cotrustee with Lewis, has challenged the legality of spending the money in the absence of a formal contract between Lewis' UMW union and the coal operators who pay for the fund.

All payments to miners from the fund, except emergency hospital costs, were cut off on September 16 by vote of Lewis and Bridges. Many office workers employed by the once-wealthy welfare fund were laid off last week because money collected before June 30 is almost gone.

Some legal question arose in the minds of union attorneys as to whether Van Horn could quit the board simply by a letter of resignation addressed to the operators.

Van Horn has charged in a court brief that Bridges and Lewis, by voting together against him in the past 18 months have used the welfare fund unwisely.

The welfare royalty of 20 cents a ton, and the 5 and 10 cent collections before that, have yielded nearly 150 million dollars—all of which has been spent since about January, 1948.

U. S. Spending Policy Assailed by Byrnes

James F. Byrnes, former Secretary of State, last night criticized the Administration spending policies and called for cuts in taxes and the public debts. His recommendations were made in an address before the Southern Governors Conference at Biloxi, Miss. (Story on Page 14).

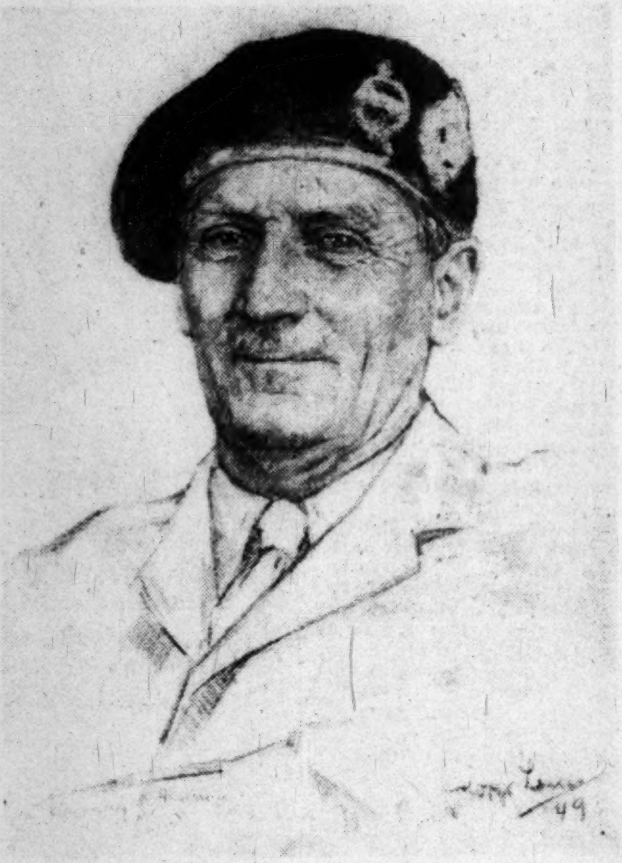
Montgomery, Hero of Alamein, Arrives for 10-Day U. S. Visit



Monty of El Alamein: a portrait by George Lonn, distinguished Canadian artist. Reprinted with his special permission

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

British Field Marshal Montgomery, Viscount of Alamein, and victor of same, arrived here yesterday for a 12-day round of engagements which will make those he fought in the African desert seem quiet affairs in comparison.

"Monty" arrived in New York on the Queen Elizabeth, jaunty in his famed black beret and khaki uniform. He flew at once to Washington, where he arrived during the afternoon.

Officially, the purpose of his visit is to address the annual meeting of the English-Speaking Union on November 29. Between now and then, however, he will visit a host of "old friends," including United States top brass, here and in New York.

Accordingly, speculation was lively that he would have much to say to them on the question of western European defense. He is chairman of the Commanders in

Board Favors Liberalizing Of Parking

Permission of parking on public space between the building line and the sidewalk in the residential and business areas, where it would not create a hazard, was recommended last night by the Commissioners' Traffic Advisory Board.

The board also recommended to the Commissioners:

Reexamination of drivers with District permits who are convicted or forfeit collateral in traffic accidents resulting in injuries.

Repeal of congressional acts relating to traffic and enactment of legislation giving the Commissioners general powers to issue traffic regulations in conformity to the Uniform Vehicle Code. Nathan M. Lubar, chairman of the laws and regulations committee, explained that Title 40 of the District Code includes laws now obsolete because of rigid definitions which conflict with the Uniform Vehicle Code being adopted by many States.

The board asked the Commissioners to instruct the corporation

Clark Bars Himself From Dennis Case

Disbarment Upheld

SUPREME COURT upholds disbarment of attorney despite Court of Appeals charge of "kangaroo" proceeding. Page 6.

Revises Stand

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark has reversed himself and decided not to vote on the pending Eugene Dennis case involving the effects of the Government's loyalty program on Federal employes serving on juries here.

He made the decision, it was learned, after consultation with other Supreme Court justices. Attorneys for Dennis, general secretary of the Communist Party, had sent to the justice a paper entitled "Suggestion of Disqualification," but it never was officially filed with the court, nor has Clark read it, it is understood.

The question of participation in a case is entirely up to the conscience of individual justices.

Dennis, convicted in District Court here of contempt of the House Un-American Activities Committee, contends he could not get a fair trial from a jury including Government employes who, in order to meet the loyalty tests, have to oppose communism.

The former Attorney General was on the bench when the case was argued two weeks ago, causing some surprise to court observers. An hour earlier he had told this reporter he intended to take part since he had taken no direct hand in bringing or prosecuting the case.

During the argument Dennis'

Chest Total Now $2,890,195; Mrs. Truman Makes Awards

The Community Chest campaign inched up three more percentage points yesterday as workers were urged to "see the job through—make this a true crusade for humanity."

Chest workers brought in $129,529.35 in new money at three report luncheons, making the grand total now subscribed $2,890,195.76, or 72.40 percent of the goal. Previous high was 69.15 percent of the $3,991,719 goal.

Highlight of the luncheon was presentation of "Oscars" to individuals, departments and agencies which have done unusually outstanding work in the campaign.

At the residential unit luncheon at the Willard Hotel, awards were made by Mrs. Harry Truman. At the Government unit report luncheon, the awards were made by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury John S. Graham.

Residential Unit workers were turned away from the Congressional Room as a packed house heard Mrs. Theodore Wedel, unit chairman, warn that "People will give if they are asked; but they certainly won't give if they are not asked."

She said the Residential Unit campaign "is going to have to keep on. We must get to 100 percent. The community needs it."

Names, Dates Given

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—Whittaker Chambers pictured Alger Hiss today as a Communist stooge, a liar and a spy for the Russians.

Chambers, the Government's chief witness in Hiss' second perjury trial, testified that the handsome, 45-year-old defendant:

1. Went to work in the Justice Department and later in the State Department at the behest of a Communist underground chief.

2. Turned over State Department documents to a Soviet spy ring at regular intervals as late as 1938.

3. Entertained Chambers in his home nearly a year after the last date on which Hiss says the two men met.

Under cross-examination Chambers testified that he and a literary agent named Max Lieber once set up a writers' project "as a cover-up for a Soviet apparatus in Japan." No details were given about the alleged Russian activities.

Gives Names and Dates

The short, stout Chambers—once a Communist courier by his own admission, later a $30,000-a-year editor and now a Maryland farmer—gave names, dates and a wealth of details as he testified for the second day.

Hiss, who rose to high State Department office, listened with scarcely a sign of emotion. Once or twice he smiled broadly. His graying wife, Priscilla, also named by Chambers as playing a role in the spy drama, sat soberly beside her husband.

Chambers said Hiss joined the Justice Department in 1936 and the State Department the next year in accordance with the wishes of "J. Peters."

He identified Peters earlier as head of the Communist underground in the United States. Peters, also known as Alexander Stevens, left the country nearly two years ago.

Chambers' Account

Chambers gave this account of how he gained access to State Department secrets in 1937:

"Mr Hiss would bring documents from the State Department to his home at the end of the day's work. I would then take the documents to Baltimore, where they would be photographed. I would return them to Mr. Hiss at his home that same night."

Hiss made the documents available, Chambers related, at the instigation of Col. Boris Bykov, identified by the witness as the former mastermind of the Soviet underground in this country.

Chambers said he introduced Hiss and Bykov at a restaurant in New York's Chinatown in 1937.

"The substance of the conversation," Chambers said, "was that the Soviet Union was acutely endangered by the rise of fascist powers. It needed help, and would be tremendously helped if Mr. Hiss could obtain documents relating to the Far East and other areas."

Hiss denied to a grand jury last year that he ever gave Chambers any State Department papers. The jury didn't believe him and indicted him on a perjury charge. It also accused him of lying when he said he didn't see Chambers after January 1, 1937.

Chambers today said he called

U. N. Grants Sovereignty To Libyans

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—The United Nations Assembly voted overwhelmingly today to make a sovereign nation of Libya, the biggest colony of the African empire lost by Italy in the war.

Libyan independence will be effected not later than 1952 under the binding decision left to the U. N. under terms of the Italian peace treaty.

The Assembly voted also—over bitter Ethiopian protests—to send Italians back to Africa as trustees for 10 years over Italian Somaliland, and set up a U. N. commission to decide within a year what to do with Eritrea.

The final vote on the three-point program for disposal of the old Italian colonies on the Mediterranean, Red Sea and Indian Ocean coasts of Africa was 48 to 1, with nine countries abstaining.

Ethiopia Opposed

Ethiopia voted alone in the negative on the whole proposition but did not oppose the section giving independence for Libya.

The U. N. thus completed action on the future of the African lands wrested by Briitsh Empire troops from German and Italian forces in the war.

The U. N. decision here is final. The United States, Britain, France and Russia agreed in the peace treaty signed with Italy to accept the decision of the General Assembly if those four powers could not agree among themselves by September 15, 1948, on what to do with the conquered Italian colonies.

The nine countries abstaining on the whole resolution were White Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, the Soviet Ukraine and the Soviet Union—all in the Moscow bloc—plus France, New Zealand, Sweden and Yugoslavia.

The Assembly voted 49 to 0 for the section giving Libya independence by January 1, 1952. The Russian bloc abstained on this section. The majority decision was reached following weeks of arguments and many compromises.

Italian Somaliland is slated for independence at the end of 10 years. The Assembly decided Italy should have the task of guiding its former possession to freedom, assisted by a U. N. council made up of Colombia, Egypt and the Philippines.

During the long weeks of committee argument there were proposals that Eritrea be split with part going to landlocked Ethiopia for an outlet on the Red Sea and part to the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. But these proposals never mustered enough votes to pass the two-thirds hurdle in the Assembly.

The decision on the colonies was the first binding legislative action

Shah Starts Wrong Speech But Recovers

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—The Shah of Iran made a human mistake today. He started on the wrong speech for the U. N. General Assembly and laughingly admitted it.

The Shah was introduced by Carlos P. Romulo, Assembly president. The Persian monarch started off reading a text, then paused, fumbled in his pocket and pulled out another text. Several in the crowded chamber laughed. He opened the new text, said, "I thank you with a full heart . . ." and was off on the right speech.

Jimmy LaFontaine Dies at 81; District's Biggest Gambler

James A. LaFontaine, the biggest gambler this town ever saw, died in Maryland General Hospital, Baltimore, yesterday at the age of 81.

Death came to the legendary figure four days after he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and eight weeks after he entered the hospital suffering from abdominal ailments and a heart condition. On Thursday doctors said it would take a miracle for him to live out the night.

His name became synonymous with big-time gambling as the proprietor of "Jimmy's Place" just over the District line on Bladensburg rd.

There for 30 years off and on, and mostly on, Jimmy LaFontaine operated — illegally — the biggest gambling casino between Saratoga and Miami.

A gambler all his life, Jimmy LaFontaine succumbed to unbeatable odds, after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage Wednesday morning. He had been in failing health for a year.

Unprecedented Bid For Aid in Freeing Diplomat Reflects Frustration Here

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

Secretary Acheson has sent an unprecedented "personal" appeal to the foreign ministers of 30 countries to help get American Consul General Angus Ward out of jail in Mukden.

The 30 countries, including Soviet Russia and four of her satellites, are all those that have diplomatic or consular representation in China. The appeal, made public by the State Department yesterday, was sent Friday night to the heads of American diplomatic missions in 30 countries. The Soviet satellites which received it were Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Bulgaria.

Reflects Frustration

It politely assumed that each of the 30 governments—including the Soviet—"undoubtedly" felt concern over the treatment of Ward and the four consular employes who were arrested with him. And it asked each of the foreign ministers, "as a matter of urgency," to express his concern "to the highest Chinese authorities in Peiping through such channels as may be available to you."

The unusual form and nature of this appeal reflected the frustration of American officials at not being able to help Ward or even to communicate with him. The State Department reported yesterday that American Vice Consul William N. Stokes in Mukden had still been unable to get permission to visit Ward in jail.

American Consul General Oliver Edmund Chubb at Peiping, the capital of Communist China, also reported that he had not yet had so much as an acknowledgment of a protest he delivered on November 3 to Chou En-lai, Foreign Minister of the Communist regime.

Soviet Influence Suspected

The suspicion is growing at the State Department that the Chinese Communist government at Peiping cannot control the local authorities at Mukden, who may really be under orders from Moscow. But officials here cannot prove their suspicion.

They could have interceded directly with Moscow, as they did recently on behalf of two officials of the Economic Cooperation Administration who had been arrested in Soviet-controlled northern Korea. But they did not want to go on record publicly as assuming

Over 100 Poles Liquidated In Warsaw Spy Ring Roundup

Warsaw, Poland, Nov. 21 (AP).—The Foreign Ministry said tonight that an espionage group of more than 100 persons had been "liquidated" after the arrest Friday of Andre Simon Robineau, secretary of the French Consulate of Stettin, Poland.

Part of wire recordings of Robineau's alleged confessions, with reproductions of documents the government says were signed by him, were exhibited to foreign correspondents at a special news conference. The documents apparently incriminate certain Poles.

Jerby Putrament, Polish Ambassador to Paris, today delivered to the French Foreign Office a protest on the arrest of a Polish plane crew which landed Friday at Le Bourget airfield near Paris. The plane was to have carried Robineau back to France for a vacation, but he was arrested at the airport here before taking off

It was previously reported here that the French authorities had suspected foul play since Robineau was on the passenger list and the French Embassy here was not informed of his arrest until Friday afternoon.

The Polish note claimed that the French attitude was "so absurd that it deprives the act of the French authorities toward the air crew of all traces of legality."

The immediate freeing of the crew was demanded with a request to the French Foreign Ministry that the persons responsible for the arrest be punished. At the same time, compensation was demanded for the crew and owners of the Polish plane.

Commodity 'Pool' Battle Looms in FAO

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Director General Norris E. Dodd of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization yesterday tossed his controversial proposal for an International Commodity Clearing House into the opening session of the annual FAO conference at the Shoreham Hotel.

Dodd gave evidence that he intends to fight for his suggestion in the face of outspoken opposition by United States fiscal agencies, the Commerce and Treasury Departments, the Federal Reserve Bank, the Export-Import Bank, etc., as well as the Economic Cooperation Administration.

To this end he released, late in the afternoon, changes in the suggested articles of agreement for the ICCH. Significantly, these reduced the capital stock of the proposed international corporation from five billion to one billion dollars—the chief argument against the idea by the American agencies. The original proposal called for the larger sum to be contributed by the member nations in their national currencies.

Importing countries would buy necessary food from the ICCH at either full price in their own currencies or at reduced prices in the currency of the supplying nation. ICCH would hold this currency

A Bear in Front, A Bear Behind— A Tale Is Told

St. Cloud, Minn., Nov. 21 (AP). Andrew Kunkel, 21, of Pearl Lake, comes up with a deer story that's a bear.

Kunkel, hunting near Aitkin, said he was standing on a hollow stump, about seven feet high, and watching for deer. He heard a noise in the brush. Out stepped a big bear.

Kunkel shot. The maneuver caused him to slip inside the stump. His gun fell outside. His feet wedged and, unable to get out, he yelled for help, but no one came.

After being in the stump about six hours, he again heard noises. He looked up. Backing into the stump was a bear. Kunkel said he seized his hunting knife and jabbed at the bear's handiest area, at the same time grasping a paw. The stabbed bruin shot away from the stump, freeing Kunkel.

Kunkel said the bear charged off into the brush. Kunkel picked up his rifle and went back to camp.

U. S. Declares Panama Coup Constitutional

By the United Press

The overnight change in the presidency of Panama, effected Sunday, was recognized as "constitutional" yesterday by the State Department.

The department said that Robert F. Chiari, the former vice president and new president, holds office legally and that American diplomatic relations with Panama would continue unchanged.

State Department spokesman Michael J. McDermott conceded that former President Daniel F. Chanis, jr.—who had held office for four months—resigned under duress. But he added that "Chiari assumed power constitutionally."

He said the interested diplomats had agreed to issue a statement pointing out that they had no intention of mixing in Panama's internal affairs but had visited the police barracks during the changeover to plead for observance of constitutional procedures.

Monnett B. Davis, American Ambassador to Panama, was commended by the State Department for working with other diplomats to prevent bloodshed in the coup d'etat.

In Panama City, meanwhile reliable sources said yesterday that Chiari would seek an immediate showdown with Panama's potent military leaders—a move which might transform the country into a "police state."

Former President Chanis was forced to resign after he had demanded the resignations of police leaders.

It was believed that Chiari planned to appoint former presidept Ricardo Adolfo De La Guardia commander of the police if Remon resigned.

There was no indication, how-

2 D. C. Realty Experts See Apartment Surplus by Spring

By Conrad P. Harness
Post Reporter

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Two Washington, D. C., realty experts today predicted that FHA-type garden apartments in Washington suburbs would be scrambling for tenants by next spring.

Speaking before the United States Savings & Loan League in convention here, Thornton W. Owen, appraiser for Perpetual Building & Loan Association, said apartment construction in Washington, where stimulated by FHA mortgage aids, was about through.

The door is still open to builders wishing to build Negro apartments, however, Owen said.

Oliver M. Walker, president of the Washington Real Estate Board, agreed that Washington is on the verge of being overbuilt in apartments. Walker and 20 other local realtors are here for the forty-second annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Walker predicted that rent controls would not be extended beyond the present June 30, 1950, expiration date. If controls are lifted, he declared, owners of some postwar apartments built at the peak of high construction costs will have to reduce rents. Landlords with low prewar rentals will seek to raise rents enough to equalize the rental scale between pre- and post-war apartments.

Walker cited the case of two large apartment developments, one in Virginia and one in Maryland.

Mitchell Invited To Renew His Concert Contract

The Board of Directors of the National Symphony Orchestra voted unanimously yesterday to invite Howard Mitchell to renew his contract as conductor for the 1950-51 season.

The board's decision was announced by its president, Raymond E. Cox, in the following statement

"The board's action reflects the many expressions of enthusiastic support and appreciation for the notable work Mr. Mitchell has already accomplished in presenting to the public of Washington imaginative and comprehensive programs of orchestra music played with superb feeling and understanding by the orchestra. The board of directors is certain that the public will respond with enthusiasm to its choice of conductor for the forthcoming winter season."

Mitchell, when informed of the board's action, said, "I receive this news with deep gratitude."

Maryland to Offer FAO Campus Home

The University of Maryland is going to make a man-sized effort to get the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) located on its campus at College Park.

President Harry C. Byrd of the university will appear before the FAO Conference at the Shoreham Hotel Wednesday to present Maryland's bid.

He will offer:

1. A site, free of charge.
2. An interest-free three-million-dollar loan, by the State of Maryland, to finance construction of headquarters buildings with approximately 129,000 square feet of floor space. The cost would be amortized by renting the buildings to FAO at an annual rate of $250,000 for about 12 years.

Free Tuition Offered

In addition, Byrd will offer:

1. Free or very liberal tuition fees for members of the FAO staff and their families.
2. Free use of the university library and other facilities, and participation in the world famous extension experimental farms.

An ornate booklet, outlining Maryland's offer, is being kept hidden at the Shoreham ready to be sprung on the FAO delegates when Byrd presents his offer.

The Maryland campus offer is only one of four sites the United States is suggesting in Washington for the FAO. Two of the others are in Chevy Chase, and the fourth is a site now owned by the Agriculture Department on Reservoir rd.

Last summer the Agriculture Department asked Congress to offer FAO a loan of seven million dollars to acquire land and construct buildings in this country. The measure was approved by a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee, but has not been acted on by either house. The sum would be repayable over 30 years.

Denmark Offers Home

In addition, other offers before the conference are:

1. Denmark has offered, free of charge, the famous Bernstorff Mansion in Copenhagen, plus a loan of about $550,000 (since devaluation) to construct additional buildings.
2. Italy has offered space in buildings erected in Rome during the Fascist regime to house the Ministry for Italian Africa—a ministry not now requiring much space.

In payment, it would ask return of the Villa Borghese, home of the European office of FAO, and occupied by the International Institute of Agriculture, a prewar organization now in process of liquidation.

3. Switzerland has offered 333,000 square feet of space near the Palis of Nations in Geneva; 555,000 square feet of land at Lausanne; the Grand Hotel at Vevey, or a large site at Montreax. All would be free of charge except the Grand Hotel at Vevey. The Swiss also offer a loan to finance new building plus an outright gift.
4. Austria is reported about to make an offer of a site at Innsbruck.

High Cost of Moving

5. The United Nations has offered accommodations at its site in New York, plus the loan of staff members for use during the annual FAO Conferences and other meetings. The charge would be limited to costs of these services.

A report by an FAO committee estimates that it would cost $1,337,000 to move to Rome, $1,144,000 to move to Copenhagen; $1,283,000 to move to Switzerland; $415,000 to move to New York; $5000 to stay in Washington or $8000 to move to the University of Maryland.

However, due to lower salary costs, cheaper money, etc., it would cost $517,000 less each year to operate in Rome; $824,000 less in Copenhagen; and $230,000 less in Switzerland.

'Hostility' To Business Is Assailed

Post Reporter

Government "hostility" to big business threatens expanding enterprise, which is necessary to provide full employment, Herman W. Steinkraus, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, warned yesterday.

Steinkraus, spokesman for a large segment of American big business, told the House Subcommittee on Study of Monopoly Power that size in itself is no criterion of a monopoly.

He suggested the following characteristics as reflecting a true monopoly:

1. Has no interest in new and better processes and products.
2. Shows no disposition to work for lower costs and selling prices.
3. Can maintain profits without fighting to maintain volume.
4. Does not bring unused capacity into use whenever sales revenue can be increased enough to cover the cost of doing so.

Steinkraus said that "if and when such cases can be brought to light, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States stands ready to support any properly corrective changes."

J. Carter Fort, vice president and general counsel of the Association of American Railroads, urged Congress to retain the Reed-Bulwinkle Act, passed over President Truman's veto last year.

The act permits railroads to set rates through conferences between competing companies without fear of antitrust prosecution. The rates must be approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"Such experience as there has been emphasizes and confirms the desirability and indeed the necessity of the statute in the interest of an adequate, efficient national transportation system with just, reasonable and nondiscriminatory rates," Fort declared.

Jacob Aronson, vice president and general counsel of the New York Central Railroad, told the subcommittee no law had been subject to more misinterpretation than the Reed-Bulwinkle Act.

The law, he said, does not give the railroads a free hand to set their own rates, but definitely gives the Interstate Commerce Commission supervisory power.

Biffle Sprains Wrist

Leslie L. Biffle, Senate Secretary, got back from the Mayo Clinic last weekend with encouraging news. The bursitis from which he has been suffering is responding to treatment. He got home and slipped on a rug. Now a bad sprain of the right wrist—same arm bothered by bursitis—is complicating things.

New Eisenhower Boom in Vermont

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 21 (AP).—A new Eisenhower-for-President movement was started here tonight.

A public meeting in the City Hall Auditorium was held to boost Dwight D. Eisenhower for the 1952 Republican nomination, although a wire sent to the retired Army general a week ago was not answered.

George Abbott, a real-estate broker, said the telegram sent to Eisenhower, now Columbia University president, asked him to sanction the Eisenhower-for-President club.

"We're going ahead with the movement, anyway," Abbott said, "until such time as Eisenhower says he will refuse the Republican nomination in 1952."

until enlarged trade or restored currency convertibility permitted clearing the account.

Under the change, the contribution of the United States would be reduced from about one billion to about 200 million dollars. Several other modifications were suggested to meet criticism of the original plan advanced by several of the FAO member nations.

Dodd, in his opening address, urged the delegates from the 58 nations that make up FAO to take prompt action, either favorable or otherwise, on the matter.

"If governments are not ready to act together," he said, "then I earnestly suggest that we record this as a fact. Then we can turn our energies to other fields in which there is more hope of mutually beneficial results."

In spite of Dodd's plea, few among the delegates expect any favorable action in this two-week meeting. Several powerful elements, particularly the British delegation, are opposed at this time at least. The American delegation, which at best is only mildly interested because of the attitude of the fiscal agencies, apparently is content to let the opposition from the United Kingdom and others delay the proposal.

An indication of the lack of outspoken antagonism by the United States was contained in Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan's welcome.

"As this conference opens," he said, "I want to say again that the United States believes strongly, and increasingly so, that the objectives of the FAO must be met. A tangible symbol of this belief is the fact that the President of the United States will participate personally in this conference as he did a year ago."

Word that President Truman will speak this afternoon created unusual interest. A year ago he gave the first indication of his now famous Point Four at the FAO meeting, and at the same time extended an invitation to Russia and Argentina to join the group.

Whether he will touch on Point Four or on the ICCH proposal today became a matter of intense discussion.

This year's conference set a record for getting a quick start. In two hours after the plenary session met, it had elected Dr. Oscar Gans, Cuban Ambassador, chairman. Although the conference is meeting here, Cuba is the official host. At last year's session it was voted to meet in Cuba this month. Those plans were changed to conserve FAO's dwindling finances.

By late afternoon it had tentatively accepted an agenda for the meetings, elected the chairmen of the three commissions and started hearing floor speeches.

Among Gans' first statements after election were recommendations that the conference take definite action on the ICCH proposal and on the choice of a permanent site for the FAO.

"Under the United Nations, there is no agency more responsible than FAO to fight against the negative features of the present economic system, and to strive for the permanent establishment of a world of plenty where hunger will have ceased and where agriculture will really be, in the words of Jose Marti, the architect of Cuba's independence, 'the only constant, true and entirely pure source of wealth,'" Gans said.

Li May Organize New China Regime

Hongkong, Nov. 21 (AP).—Well-informed quarters speculated today that ailing Li Tsung-jen might form a third Chinese government and seek American aid in opposing both the Communists and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Li, acting President of the Nationalist regime since Chiang "retired" last January, flew to Hongkong and entered a hospital Sunday.

He long has been at loggerheads with Chiang, vainly urging active warfare against the Reds instead of Chiang's prevailing policy of cautious withdrawals.

Although Li came to this British colony for the announced purpose of treating a stomach ailment, his departure from Nationalist China created consternation in Chungking, the provisional capital.

Foreign observers arriving in Hongkong from Nationalist territory said it was a fair speculation that Li might form an anti-Communist, anti-Chiang organization and go to the United States to seek substantial material aid.

With him in such a venture miht be Gen. Pai Chung-hsi, his close friend and commander of a 200,000-man army that is the best the Nationalists still have; Gen. Chan Chai-tong, administrator of Hainan Island, and the prominent Generals Usuer Yueh and Yu Han-mow, both now believed to be in South Kwangtung Province.

According to these observers, who may not be directly identified, Li is expected soon to go to Washington to bolster the aid pleas of his personal contact man, Kan Chieh-hou, who has been there for several months.

Actual fighting news continued scanty. The Nationalist Defense Ministry acknowledged the Reds had crossed the Chien River, a defense barrier 95 miles east of Chungking, and that two large Red forces had joined at Chienchiang, 130 miles east.

Chinese Reds' Fight For U. N. Seat Advances

Flushing, N. Y., Nov. 21 (U.P.).—The Chinese Communist campaign to grab the Nationalists' United Nations seat—and its veto power—advanced an important step today when Poland asked the U. N. to circulate the Communist demand to the U. N.'s 59 members.

The next logical move would be a formal proposal—doubtless also by a Soviet bloc member—to unseat the Nationalist delegation and recognize a Communist delegation as legal U. N. representative of China.

Such a move might come late this week when the General Assembly's main Political Committee is due to take up the Nationalist charge that Russia is threatening its independence.

Text of Acheson Note Asking 30 Nations to Help Free Ward

The text of the State Department announcement on Secretary of State Acheson's message to 30 foreign governments on the Angus Ward case follows:

THE following is the text of a personal message from Secretary of State Dean Acheson to the Foreign Ministers of all countries which have either diplomatic or consular representatives in China. The United States chiefs of mission at the posts listed below were instructed on the night of November 18 to deliver the message to the respective Foreign Ministers urgently:

Ankara (Turkey), Athens (Greece), Bankok (Siam), Berne (Switzerland), Brussels (Belgium), Bucharest (Romania), Cairo (Egypt), Canberra (Australia), Caracas (Venezuela), Copenhagen (Denmark), Havana (Cuba), The Hague (Netherlands), Lima (Peru), Lisbon (Spain), London (England), Manila (Philippines), Mexico City (Mexico), Moscow (Russia), New Delhi (India), Oslo (Norway), Ottawa (Canada), Panama City (Panama), Paris (France), Prague (Czechoslovakia), Rangoon (Burma), Rome (Italy), Sofia (Bulgaria), Stockholm (Sweden), Vienna (Austria), and Warsaw (Poland).

ANGUS WARD
. . . His release sought

"I would like to emphasize the importance of concerted action by those governments which respect international law to protest the treatment being accorded United States consular personnel in Mukden, China.

"Since late November, 1948, the entire United States consular staff and their families have been detained under house arrest inside the consular compounds. All communication between the staff and the United States Government have been strictly controlled by the local authorities, and there was one period of almost seven months when no communication of any kind was possible. At the present time communication is permitted at the will of the local authorities and it is not possible for the consular staff to report their situation in an effective manner.

"BECAUSE of this treatment, it was impossible for the consulate to perform any of its functions and, on May 19, 1949, the United States Consul General at Pieping, under instructions from the United States Government, notified the appropriate authorities there that the consulate was being closed and asked that arrangements be made for the safe exit of the consular personnel and their families. On June 21, 1949, the Communist authorities at Mukden notified the Consul General that he and his staff would be permitted to depart and that transportation facilities would be made available.

"These assurances have not been honored. On October 25, the Chinese Communist press and radio announced that Consul General Angus Ward and four members of his staff had been arrested on October 24, 1949. So far as is known, they have been in prison since that time.

"The local authorities at Mukden have not permitted the consular staff to make a report concerning the facts in the case. So far as this Government has been able to determine, the consular staff has not been permitted to get in touch with Mr. Ward or the four members of his staff and has not been informed of the date of any hearing which may be held or permitted to make arrangements to protect Mr. Ward's interest at such hearings.

"This Government has not been informed in any way, except by press and radio reports, of the reasons for the arrest of Mr. Ward and the four members of his staff. The efforts of the United States Consul General at Peiping to determine the facts in the case and secure the release of Mr. Ward and the others have been completely ignored.

"THE international practice of civilized countries for many years has recognized that consuls should be accorded all the privileges necessary for the proper conduct of their duties. Although consuls do not have diplomatic immunity, it has been the universal practice, because of the public and official character of their duties, to permit them and their staff freedom of movement, and in the event that any criminal charge is made, to permit them to remain at liberty on proper arrangements for ba'l, with unlimited freedom to communicate with their governments with respect to official business.

"The treatment accorded to Mr. Ward and to the American consular staff in Mukden is in direct violation of the basic concepts of international relations which have been developed throughout the centuries. As such, it is of direct and immediate concern to all countries interested in diplomatic intercourse, particularly to those with missions or consulates in China.

"I ask you, as a matter of urgency, to express to the highest Chinese authorities in Peiping through such channels as may be available to you the concern which your government undoubtedly feels over the treatment of the American consular staff in Mukden who have been arbitrarily deprived of their freedom for one year.

"I am sending a similar communication to the Foreign Ministers of other countries which have representatives in China."

that "certain threads have led our authorities to one of the foreign embassies in Warsaw. On November 18 at 8:30 in the morning at the Warsaw airfield an official of the French Consulate in Stettin was arrested.

"Andre Simon Robineau was apprehended when intending to leave Poland. After being detained, he admitted espionage and revealed that his position in the French Consulate served as a cover for these activities."

French diplomats here have described the charges as without foundation and have cast doubt on whether Robineau had made any confession.

According to the Polish statement, Robineau said the position of secretary archivist at the French Embassy was held by Aymar de Brossin de Mere who, he was quoted as saying, directed espionage for the French intelligence services and was Robineau's direct superior.

Acheson Calls on 30 Nations To Aid in Freeing Diplomat

outright Soviet control over Manchuria.

Accordingly they decided to send a round-robin appeal to Russia and to every other country that might help to get Ward released. The appeal went not only to Russia, but to India, which as an Asiatic power is believed to have friendly relations with some of the Chinese Communist leaders, and even to the traditionally neutral nations like Switzerland and Sweden.

Old hands at the State Department could think of no precedent in American diplomatic history for the Acheson message. President Roosevelt addressed the heads of states collectively in the spring of 1938, asking that they pledge themselves not to commit aggression, but no Secretary of State had ever before used the technique in a collective personal appeal to the Foreign Ministers.

The message was unusual in its substance as well as in its form. For it seemed to be stating a case and making a record that could easily be embodied in a later appeal to the United Nations, if the United States chose to ask the U. N. for help.

It recalled that the entire American consular staff and their families had been under house arrest in Mukden since November of last year. It said communications had been cut off altogether for almost seven months, and that the Chinese Communist authorities at Mukden had violated their assurance of last June that they would let Ward and his staff leave.

"Violates Basic Concepts"

The message went on to remind the other governments—including the Russian — of the "universal practice" of letting foreign consuls carry on their business with freedom of movement, even though they do not have diplomatic immunity.

The treatment of Ward and his staff, said the message "is in direct violation of the basic concepts of international relations which have been developed through the centuries."

All this suggested that the United States might yet appeal to the U. N., on the same ground, if the present method failed to produce results. An Assembly resolution on the subject would, of course, imply a formal condemnation of the Chinese Communists, and would surely be opposed by the Russians and their Communist followers in the Assembly.

What the United States now wants is to get Ward out, and the Administration feels the present unconventional appeal offers the best hope, even though it is a faint hope, of success.

Mother Claims Child Held as Debt Hostage

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 21 (U.P.).—A mother charged today that an Albany couple is illegally detaining her 3-year-old daughter as security for a debt.

Mrs. Ann Sazynski obtained a State Supreme Court writ ordering Mr. and Mrs. William Sabbott to produce her daughter, Marguerite May, in court Friday.

She said the Sabbotts had refused to release the child because she owed money for the child's room and board.

House Group Favors Reich in Western Union

Berlin, Nov. 21 (AP).—A U. S. Congressional committee said here tonight it would recommend including West Germany in the Western European Union, but advised against any early withdrawal of occupation forces.

The four-man group is a study mission of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Representative Joseph Pfeifer (D., N. Y.) told reporters Germany should "by all means" be included in the Western Union. He said he also favored eventual rearmament "within the context of a United States of Europe."

"We have found no evidence to support any prospect of early withdrawal of United States occupation forces," a committee statement said.

McCloy's Adviser On Finances Quits

SHEPHARD MORGAN
. . . Quits adviser's post

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 21 (AP). Shephard Morgan, financial adviser to the United States High Commissioner for Germany, resigned today. He charged that Commissioner John J. McCloy refused to carry out an agreement defining his authority.

Morgan is a vice president of the Chase National Bank in New York.

Morgan said he and McCloy had agreed in September that the financial adviser should be responsible to the commissioner

In a letter to McCloy, Morgan said:

"Our conversation of Friday last made it clear that you refuse to carry out the agreement we made . . . Now that this agreement has been withdrawn, I hereby resign as finance adviser, effective at the close of business today.

"I expect to finish off current work in my office by December 1, without attending any meeting as finance adviser. On that date, I request my separation from the service be complete, subject only to the usual allowances and considerations incidental thereto."

Baltimore Harvard Man Dies In New Hampshire Plane Crash

Sunapee, N. H., Nov. 21 (AP).—Wreckage of a Harvard student's plane was found atop Bald Mountain today—the body of the young pilot 150 feet away with his parachute half-open.

Searchers said John M. Moses, 18, of Baltimore, apparently tried to jump to safety as his small plane—a converted Army trainer—crashed into tree tops last night.

An explosion and fire left the single-engined plane in ruins. Moses apparently had been blown against a tree. The plane's engine was 50 yards from the wreckage.

One parachute was attached to Moses' body. Another one was found in a tree with the rip-cord pulled, indicating the first chute failed to open properly.

Ground parties made their way up the steep mountain through wilderness—guided from the air by a plane searching the area since Moses vanished last night on a flight from Bridgeport, Conn., to Boston.

State troopers and volunteers carried the body slowly down a logging road along the slopes of the rugged mountain.

Moses' plane—a Christmas present from his parents a year ago—apparently clipped the tree tops.

It crashed with such force that it bounced about 100 feet on the rocky summit of the 1900-foot peak.

A search pilot spotted the wreckage shortly after daybreak. Circling overhead, he led ground parties to the crash site and dropped them supplies.

Moses, son of a Baltimore, Md., attorney, was said to be an experienced flier with more than 13,000 miles flight time during the past year.

Ditch Removal Job Postponed In Silver Spring

Work on the elimination of a stagnant Silver Spring ditch, feared to be a source of polio, has been postponed pending a conference between State and county officials today.

Originally scheduled to begin yesterday, the work was set back, State Roads Commission District Engineer Edward G. Duncan said, after property owners in the 200 block of E. Franklin ave., where the ditch is located, protested against the proposed line of the underground pipe to be installed.

Duncan will confer with Montgomery County Manager Irving G. McNayr in an attempt to work out suitable plans, he said.

Neighbors recently sought State and county help in removing the ditch after four members of one family contracted polio in three weeks.

Justice 'A Weapon,' Czechs Tell Judges

Prague, Nov. 21 (AP).—Czechoslovakia's Communist told the nation's judges today to use justice "as a weapon against the class enemy."

Then, the same Communists at the same conference adopted a resolution accusing Americans of violating the principles of justice by trying and convicting top Communist leaders in the United States.

This took place at a conference of Ministry of Justice employes. A report on their proceedings was carried in the newspaper Pordelnk.

Later in the day the judges and chief justices of Czechoslovakia promised to "reeducate" themselves along Marxist-Leninist lines and use the law to defend the Communist government and "the world front of progressive powers." The judges met here to discuss what they could do to help "in the building of socialism."

"We shall use the law for defending the Republic, its people's democratic regime and the world front of the progressive powers headed by the Soviet Union and Comrade Stalin," said the judges' message.

The government confiscated today the United States Information Service's Czech-language bulletin, which had carried the text of an American-British resolution in the United Nations advocating "full freedom for expression of political opposition" as necessary to world peace. This the Czech authorities found "an alarming report which could menace the security of the state and the public order."

Secretary Types While Munsey Building Smokes

Six fire trucks and a rescue squad vehicle raced to the Munsey Building, 1329 E st. nw., at 5:30 last night. Crowds lined the streets. Persons flocked out of the building with stories of thick smoke on the eighth floor.

And in Room 817, a slim, green-eyed young secretary sat at her work, blissfully unaware that the cause of the whole furor was smoldering just a few feet away.

Too embarassed to tell reporters her name, the young woman didn't know a thing about it until firemen burst in and found an overheated transformer in a flourescent light fixture. In an adjoining office, her bosses, members of the law firm of Williams, Myers and Quiggle, didn't smell anything either.

Down the hall, a secretary who called the firemen said the smell was so heavy she had trouble breathing.

ever, that Remon would step down.

United States Ambassador Davis conferred with Chiari for half an hour this morning, reportedly to discuss the government's of the equipment needed to crush an open police revolt.

The weekend crisis followed several weeks of criticism of the national force by government civilians as well as opposition leaders because of the commercial monopolies allegedly operated by police officials.

Police officials continued to run their principal "concession"—the Panama City municipal slaughterhouse—in defiance of a Supreme Court order directing them to throw the business open to all.

Strikers to Run Buses Free for Santa's Visit

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 21 (AP).—Santa Claus is scheduled to arrive in this city of 106,500 tomorrow and his coming will bring a five-hour respite to a 6-day-old transit strike.

The company and union members agreed today to operate the trolleys and buses from 4 p. m. to 9 p. m., during Wilmington's big pre-Christmas parade and everyone who rides will ride for free.

The dispute, itself, however, is no nearer settlement.

Austrian Treaty Negotiations Said to Be in Final Stages

The long-drawn-out negotiations for an Austrian treaty were reported within a hair's breadth of success last night—but Western diplomats were keeping their fingers crossed.

Outwardly, the only obstacles to a treaty now are three paragraphs still in dispute between Russia and the Western powers. If the Foreign Ministers' deputies in New York can agree on these paragraphs, the way would seem to be clear for a treaty under which the Russians would have to withdraw their troops from Austria, Hungary and Romania within 90 days.

But there have been so many deadlocks and disappointments since early 1947, when the weary negotiations began, that officials of the Western powers are keeping optimism sternly in check. The determining factor, as they see it, is whether Russia really wants an Austrian treaty now—and they still have no convincing clew.

The three remaining disagreements are so small that they could be cleared up in a single afternoon. They are:

(1) The West favors, and Russia opposes, letting Austria use foreign technicians in the small armed forces which the treaty allows her.

(2) The West favors, and Russia opposes, making Austria pay the claims of any United Nations nationals arising from the Soviet acquisition of Austrian properties.

(3) The West favors, and Russia opposes, continued help to political refugees along with other displaced persons still left in Austria.

Austria Cuts Schilling Value, With 3 New Rates to Dollar

Vienna, Nov. 21 (AP).—The Austrian government today announced devaluation of the schilling. There are three new rates in relation to the United States dollar.

The country became the thirty-second to revalue its currency since Britain cheapened her pound from $4.03 to $2.80 to increase her foreign trade.

The new values of the schilling are as follows: tourist rate, 26 to the dollar; trading rate, 21.36 to the dollar, and basic rate for import of most Marshall Plan goods, 14.4 to the dollar. The former rate was 10 to the dollar.

U. S. Soldiers are "Tourists"

The government officially recognized American soldiers on occupation duty in Austria as "tourists." Finance Minister Dr. Eugen Margaretha said the United States Army will pay its occupation costs at the rate of 26 schillings to the dollar. This tourist rate will vary with changing quotations on the money market.

Army purchasing of schillings has been this country's major source of dollars. The United States Army has been buying more than 20 million dollars worth of schillings per year for official use.

The government said the Marshall Plan administration here has agreed that imports paid for at the basic rate of 14.4 to the dollar may be sold in the Austrian market under present prices. The government claimed this would avoid an expected increase in the cost of living which otherwise appeared inevitable.

Tax Slash Sought

Dr. Margaretha said he would ask Parliament to reduce income and corporation taxes by 20 percent in view of the devaluation.

(The World Monetary Fund said in Washington yesterday it approved Austria's currency changes "as a considerable simplification of the exchange system." The fund said the Austrian action would leave "one effective export rate" and "only three rates" for imports into Austria, whereas before there were "hundreds" of effective rates for Austrian money.")

Shah Says Iran Needs Arms From U. S. to Insure Survival

New York, Nov. 21. (AP)—The Shah of Iran said tonight that his oil-rich homeland must have military aid from the United States to assure its survival.

He did not mention his Russian neighbors to the north, but it was obvious they were uppermost in his mind.

The handsome young ruler, made his first frank public plea for U. S. aid in a speech prepared for delivery before the Council of Foreign Relations.

"Is Iran's glorious record of achievement—rock-ribbed and ancient as the sun, now to be imperiled, to be exposed to mortal hazard for the want of modern defensive facilities?" he asked. "Surely the possession of modern defensive equipment is a legitimate aim which menaces no one. All nations able to do so are striving to possess and expand it."

If the United States would provide Iran with military aid, the Shah said, his country would know how to use it in the event of any aggression.

He pointed out that the defense of Iran "critical to general strategic consideration affecting the entire Middle East," is now inadequate and that "Iran lack assurance of survival."

Earlier today the 30-year-old monarch rode bareheaded and smiling through a ticker-tape parade to City Hall, New York's traditional welcome to celebrities, and spoke before the General Assembly of the United Nations at Flushing.

He told the U. N. that it "represents the most solemn pledge ever made to maintain peace upon this earth. With peace, he said, "we can do all . . . do not fail us."

He was warmly greeted by U. N. delegate at his brief appearance, and admitted afterwards at a press conference that he was so impressed by the world organization that "I started to read the wrong speech."

Sen. Thomas Says Reception In Spain Was to His Liking

Paris, Nov. 21 (AP).—Senator Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.) today said the Spaniards, in contrast with the Swedes, had outdone themselves to furnish information to his touring United States Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

Thomas, chairman of the Armed Forces subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee, did not mince matters about the Swedes.

"The Swedes didn't seem to care whether we were there, but the Spaniards pursued us everywhere to give us information," he said.

Previously, in Vienna, he had said a certain country, which he did not name, had not been especially helpful to his committee. Tonight, at a cocktail party given by Charles Bohlen, Embassy counsellor, Thomas unburdened himself with less restraint. He named Sweden as the country where the reception of the Senators had not been to his liking.

"They gave us a cocktail party," he said of his stay in Sweden. "You can't talk seriously at a cocktail party."

But aside from Sweden, the Senator said he was pleased with the whole trip.

Plea for Prompt Lowering of Fare To Pentagon Lost

The Supreme Court yesterday refused an Interstate Commerce Commission request that the Capital Transit Co. be ordered to restore at once lower joint fares to the Pentagon and other Government buildings in nearby Virginia.

The court last week ruled the transit line must do so, as well as pay off those who have received 6-cent and 3-cent receipts during the long court fight.

The transit firm has announced it will ask a rehearing. It has 25 days from last Monday in which to file legal papers. If the rehearing then is denied the lower fares will go into effect.

Eisler Loses Final Appeal From Contempt Conviction

The Supreme Court yesterday closed the law books on Gerhard Eisler's appeal from a contempt of Congress conviction.

Thus the Communist leader will have to serve his year in jail and pay a $1000 fine if the Government ever is able to lay hands on him. He skipped bail, fleeing to Europe on a Polish ship, while the court was considering his case last May.

The court then put the case in a state of suspension despite Government pleas to dismiss the appeal. Now it has done what the Government requested. Eisler's attorneys asked the court to decide the case on its merits, not to dismiss it.

In another action yesterday the court decided, 6-to-2, that Georgia must give a trial to a railroad breakman who stepped on a big clinker alongside the track and was injured in a fall.

The court recessed until December 5 when another two weeks of arguments will be heard.

Supreme Court Upholds Patent Office Disbarment of Vernon M. Dorsey

The Supreme Court yesterday upheld the Patent Office's disbarment of patent attorney Vernon M. Dorsey in what the Court of Appeals had termed "a kangaroo court" proceeding.

The justices split, 6 to 2, in ruling that charges of unfairness in the hearing are "wholly without support."

A dissenting opinion by Justice Robert H. Jackson, in which Justice Felix Frankfurter concurred, included a discussion of the evils of Washington "ghost writing." Said Jackson:

"I should not like to be second to anyone on this court in condemning the custom of putting up decoy authors to impress the guileless, a custom which as the court below cruelly pointed out flourishes even in official circles in Washington . . . Ghost-writing has debased the intellectual currency here and is a type of counterfeiting which invites no defense.

Obligation a Question

"Perhaps this court renders a public service n treating phantom authors and ghost-writers as legal frauds and disguised authorship as a deception. But has any man before Dorsey ever been disciplined or even reprimanded for it? And will any be hereafter?"

(Jackson's associates while he served as Attorney General said last night the justice is one of the few men in Washington who can cast stones at ghost-writing without breaking his own glass house. They said they could document the fact that Jackson never permitted any ghost-writer to work for him.)

One of the issues in the Dorsey case was whether the 80-year-old attorney was obligated to tell the Patent Office that a paper he presented there was ghost-written. It involved patents on automatic glass making machinery. Dorsey was one of the attorneys for the Hartford-Empire Co., a machinery firm, in a case which went to the high court some time ago.

Dorsey and three other attorneys were disbarred by the Patent Office from practicing before it. Only Dorsey carried the case to the Supreme Court, Jackson pointed out.

The Court of Appeals, by 2-to-1, last January ripped apart the disbarment order which was based on grounds of gross misconduct. It declared the agency acted "without process of law of any kind except bureaucratic lynch law."

"The Patent Office," the Appeals Court contended, "in a desperate effort to alibi its confessed failure to perforn its duty waited more than 18 years until the evidence had largely disappeared to bring stale charges against appellant (Dorsey) and then proceeded to try and convict him before a 'kangaroo court.'"

But the majority ruling yesterday, delivered in an unsigned opinion, said the Appeals Court had drawn a too thin line between "substantial evidence" and "substantial probative evidence."

The majority said Congress made the Commissioner of Patents, not the courts, "primarily responsible for protecting the public from the evil consequences that might result if practitioners should betray their high trust."

Jackson argued "the worst that can be said of Dorsey is that he took advantage" of loose practices at the Patent Office to use the disputed ghost-written article as evidence without disclosing its authorship.

Clark to Skip Dennis Appeal

attorney, George W. Crockett, jr., declared the local District Attorney, who is charged under law with bringing such contempt proceedings, was "under the over-all supervision of the Attorney General." Clark had made the point the United States attorneys do the actual work. Crockett was one of the lawyers in the New York Communist trial sentenced to jail for contempt of court. Dennis also is under jail sentence in that case, expected to reach the Supreme Court on appeal.

Clark is understood to have talked the matter over with his colleagues after the oral arguments. He is reported to have concluded that it might be better not to take part since the case appears to hinge on what Crockett termed the "inherent coercion" of the Government loyalty program on all Government employes.

Clark also is known to have felt he "might be subject to some criticism" for voting in the case. He also is known to have considered the fact that he had appeared on radio programs discussing contempt cases before he went on the bench.

Crockett's "Suggestions of Disqualification" was not made available to reporters at the court since it technically had not been filed. But Crocokett, in New York, said it contained excerpts from Clark's statements and speeches as well as from a radio interview. Crockett said none of the statements referred specifically to the Dennis case, however, but only to the loyalty program, Communists and contempt of Congress in general.

Clark's action means that the Dennis case will be decided by a seven or eight man court. Justice William O. Douglas, recovering from a horseback riding accident, did not hear the arguments but he may take part in the decision if he wishes.

In a similar case a year ago, the court, in a 5-to-4 split, upheld the practice of Government employes serving on trial juries. Communism and the loyalty program were not involved, however.

Since then, two justices, Frank Murphy and Wiley B. Rutledge, have died. They had split on the case. Clark succeeded Murphy and Justice Sherman Minton took Rutledge's seat.

During the oral argument in the Dennis case, Justice Robert H. Jackson, who wrote a fiery dissent in last year's case, called the Dennis case "political" and gave every evidence of unchanged feelings.

Egg Splatters Priest Making Campaign Speech

Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 21 (U.P.)—A Roman Catholic priest ousted from the New York Archdiocese for "illicit and unauthorized political activity" was splattered by an egg tonight while speaking at a rally in behalf of a Unitarian minister running for mayor of Lawrence.

The priest was the Rev. Clarence Duffey, who was speaking at a rally attended by some 2000 persons in front of City Hall for the Rev. Amos C. B. Murphy. Murphy was reported to have supported Henry A. Wallace in the last presidential election.

The egg allegedly was thrown by an off-duty policeman in civilian clothes. No charges were preferred against the officer.

Murphy, a school committee member and former pastor of the Lawrence Unitarian Church, is running in Tuesday's four-man primary for mayor. He is at present without a church.

Loyalty Firings Hit 123 Since March '47

A total of 123 Government employes have been dismissed since President Truman's loyalty program was set up in March, 1947, the Civil Service Commission reported yesterday.

The commission's regular monthly report showed that 85 employes were cleared by the loyalty review board on appeals; jobs were denied to 48 on loyalty grounds; and 12 appeal cases were referred back to agency boards for further study.

A total of 170 cases, according to the report, are still in process of appeal.

The new total of dismissals was raised by 21 over the preceding month's total of 102 firings.

The commission said in yesterday's report that 6076 cases have been handled by the various Federal loyalty boards since the boards were set up. Of these, 5693 were cleared of all charges.

A total of 848 persons quit during investigation, the commission reported.

Sanity Test Set In Holdup Case

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

PATRICK J. PARKER, 18, arrested in Plainville, Mass., Sunday after, police said, he held up a liquor store to get the fare to Montreal. The youth, a Brown University freshman, said he wanted to kill the man charged with blowing up a plane in which 23 persons died in September. Parker says he is the son of Russell J. Parker, of Rye, N. Y., former vice president of the Kennecott Copper Co., who was killed in the crash

Roosevelt College Mortgage Written Off

Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP).—Roosevelt College officials disclosed today that the attorney who once elected a chicken wire fence to make the line between his and the college's property has written off a $60,000 mortgage he held on the school.

Abraham Teitelbaum, wealthy Chicago attorney and real estate holder, settled the $60,000 mortgage he held on the north 52 feet of the Auditorium Building. That old Michigan ave. landmark was bought by Roosevelt College in 1946.

on the Hisses about Christmas, 1938, in their Washington home and told them he had broken with the Communist Party. Hiss and his wife, Chambers said, tried to talk him out of it.

Recounting some of his own Communist activities, Chambers said he applied for a passport in 1935 when he was planning a trip to England "to work in the Soviet apparatus."

He said "J. Peters" gave him a birth certificate in the name of David Breen and he used this in making his passport application.

Hiss' lawyer, Claude B. Cross, told the jury in his opening address last Friday that David Breen died at the age of 3½. He described Chambers' use of the birth certificate as "ghoulish."

The witness also testified that Hiss, in 1935, gave an old Ford roadster to the Communist Party.

Cross objected to questioning about the car, but Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard overruled him. Chambers was not permitted to testify about the car in Hiss' first perjury trial, held before Judge Samuel Kaufman.

The first trial ended last July with the jury deadlocked eight to four for conviction.

Chambers said Hiss turned over to him not only original State Department documents, but, in some cases, typewritten copies or para-

"I returned only the originals to Mr. Hiss," he said. "I burned the typed documents. From time to time Mr. Hiss also gave me small handwritten notes. Those I would turn over directly to Colonel Bykov . . .

"Mrs. Hiss would type the documents. The practice continued until I broke with the Communist Party in 1936."

Chambers said he took a Government job before breaking with the party. He explained:

"I wanted to establish an identity for myself because I was afraid I would be killed and because I knew it was more difficult to kill a man with an identity."

Secretary Snyder Talks to Quirino

Manila (Tuesday), Nov. 22 (AP).—Treasury Secretary Snyder had a two-hour conference with President Elpidio Quirino and the Philippine cabinet last night.

A press release from Malacanan Palace described the discussions as touching on "financial and economic matters of common interest to the Philippines and the United States."

McGrath Sees Price Drop in A. & P. Suit

Attorney General J. Howard McGrath yesterday said millions of housewives would benefit through lower food prices if the Government wins its antitrust suit against the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

He made he statement in a copyrighted interview with United States News & World Report, an independent news magazine published in Washington.

He challenged company claims that a Government victory would mean higher retail food costs. He said the big food chain made a public relations mistake by challenging the action in a newspaper advartising campaign.

The suit, he said, will not force the closing of a single A. & P. store and will not destroy "any efficiencies of mass distribution."

"Beyond that it should result in lower food prices for over 90 percent of the public who buy from other grocers who, because of A. & P. practices, are required to purchase their supplies at higher prices," McGrath said.

He asserted the company already has paid a fine in a civil action based on the Government's charges but that it now is resisting Federal efforts to "correct the situation."

"Once the people understand what our suit is all about, they switch violently to our side," the Attorney General said.

Knowledge Of Vogeler's Arrest Denied

Vienna, Austria, Nov. 21 (AP).—The Hungarian Foreign Ministry in Budapest declared today it "knows nothing about" Robert A. Vogeler, American businessman who disappeared in that Communist country four days ago.

Mrs. Vogeler reported on Sunday the disappearance of her husband, assistant vice president of the International Telephone & Telegraph Co., while en route from Budapest to Vienna. She said he had been playing a hide-and-seek game with Hungarian secret agents who persisted in shadowing him.

Unofficial, but reliable, reports today said it was believed he was arrested at the Austro-Hungarian border about noon Friday. The report said files of the I. T. & T. in Budapest had been confiscated and Vogeler's secretary arrested.

American Legation officials in Budapest have been making inquiries of the Hungarian government about him.

Mrs. Vogeler, living here with her two children and a sister, said her 38-year-old husband had been shadowed constantly by plainclothesmen on his frequent business trips to Communist Hungary.

Mrs. Vogeler also expressed concern that Edgar Sanders, a British accountant for I. T. & T. in Budapest, may have been arrested. She said Sanders would know of her husband's disappearance but she had not heard from him and had been unable to contact him.

There is a growing belief here that Vogeler will be released by Hungarian authorities after possibly signing a "confession" of sabotage or espionage or both.

It was deduced that the Hungarian government may wish to take over the Budapest plant of Vogeler's company.

Peanuts Scheme Sharply Attacked By Conservatives

London, Nov. 21 (NYHT). — The Labor Government's scheme to grow peanuts in Tanganyika, East Africa, was sharply condemned as a failure by Conservative party critics in the Commons today.

The scheme is designed to obtain for Britain much-needed oils and fats from peanuts, or ground nuts, as they are called here.

Conservatives charged today that the project was too costly, was behind schedule and had failed to produce substantial quantities of nuts. Their motion asking for a full inquiry was defeated by a vote of 315 to 161.

Food Minister John Strachey, responsible for the scheme, admitted frankly that mistakes had been made. He said that the first report on progress was "one of solid achievement."

Man's Body Found After 20-Hour Search

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 21 (AP). — The body of Edward R. Thomas, 58-year-old air station employe, of RFD 4, Norfolk, was found lying in a wooded area near his home today after a 20-hour search.

Post Realty Editor Heads National Unit

Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP).—Conrad P. Harness, real estate editor of The Washington Post, was elected president of the National Association of Real Estate Editors today.

Harness

The election was held at a meeting in connection with the forty-second annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Garrett Winter, New York Sun, was reelected vice president. Other officers are Henry C. Dennis, Detroit Times, secretary; Virgil G. Baker, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, treasurer, and James K. Chandler, Cleveland Press, chairman of the board of trustees.

Chandler also was reelected publisher of the Realty Editor, official publication of the association.

New trustees are George Erwin, Atlanta Journal; Frank J. Ruhl, Cincinnati Enquirer; Frank Siudzinski, Chicago Daily News; Naomi Doebel, Cedar Radips (Iowa) Gazette, and John W. Kempson, Newark News.

The retiring president is Ernest A. Baumgarth, Detroit News.

Harness, the new president, has been real estate editor of The Washington Post since July, 1946. Last year he was awarded first prize for the "best real estate news feature of 1948," by NAREE. The Washington Newspaper Guild awarded him honorable mention for best local news stories of 1948-49.

Court Studies Realty Board's Fee System

A District Court's dismissal of antitrust charges against the National Association of Real Estate Boards, the Washington Real Estate Board, a national officer and 16 local board members will be reviewed by the Supreme Court.

The civil suit's dismissal by Judge Alexander Holtzoff last June 28 followed an earlier judgment by Judge Edward M. Curran, also in District Court, that the real estate groups and individuals were innocent of criminal violation of the antitrust laws.

The Holtzoff ruling said the fees charged by the Washington realtors were "in the public interest." He said there was "nothing clandestine or surreptitious in the activity of the Washington board" in charging fixed rates after they are customarily published and made available to the public. The rates are 5 percent on the first $50,000 and 3 percent on all over that amount.

Holtzoff drew a distinction between price fixing in itself and charging set rates for "perssonal services." Realtors were comparable to skilled workers in labor unions who combine to set minimum wage rates which they will accept.

The Government had sought an injunction against the rate-fixing as an antitrust law violation.

Jury Acquits 'Able Liar' of 12 Who Confessed He Slew Boy, 4

London, Nov. 21 (U.P.).—A jury took only 30 seconds today to acquit 12-year-old George Edward Crick of murdering a 4-year-old boy and throwing his body in a river. Both the prosecution and defense said he was such an "able, artful and imaginative liar," his story could not be believed.

George, looking very bewildered, sat in Old Bailey wearing a brown suit and open-necked shirt to answer charges that he killed his playmate, Stanley Victor Graves. The child disappeared on the evening of October 24 and was found drowned four days later.

George stood up and in a whisper pleaded not guilty after High Court Judge Sir James Cassels recounted his story of beating Stanley with a stick and dumping his body into the River Brent.

Crown Prosecutor Anthony Hawke said George told several stories to the police. At first he denied the slaying. Then he said he hit the 4-year-old boy two or three times on the side of the head with a stick. He also said the victim had fallen against his bicycle and hit his head.

Hawke said the accused lad offered to show the police where he had left the body. He was taken on an extensive search, but no sign of the missing boy was found.

Then he gave another version in which he said the victim had "sort of fainted" and that he put him on his bicycle, pushed him into the woods and left the boy against a tree. A police search of the woods again was unavailing.

Hawke said that young Crick's father then said to his son:

"Georgie, is the boy in the river?"

The youth replied: "He slipped into the river, Dad, and I pulled him out. After that I gave him a push and he went in. He went right under the water but came up, said something and floated away. I don't know what is was. I was so scared I went straight home."

Defending Lawyer John Maude told the jury: "The little boy is an able, artful, if you like, imaginative liar.

"With the complex lies, the web he has spun around himself, it is quite impossible to find out just what happened. But when you look outside what he has spun by lying you will find only a story of the children being happy together. . . . People who die even if they are very small may arrive as you see now at the Old Bailey."

New Delay Faced In Coplon Trial To Aid Gubitchev

New York, Nov. 21 (U.P.).—The espionage trial of Judith Coplan and Valentin Gubitchev, which has been postponed for more than four months, is slated to start Tuesday but is almost certain to be delayed once more.

After a week of pretrial maneuvers, Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan set Wednesday to pick a jury. But he prboably will grant a further postponement to allow Gubitchev's attorney to prepare his defense.

Ever since his arrest last March 4, the five-foot Soviet engineer has claimed diplomatic immunity and refused to hire a lawyer. But it was learned today that with a possible maximum prison term of 15 years before him, Gubitchev has hired Abraham L. Pomerant to represent him.

Spring Apartment Surplus Seen for D. C.

Both were started before the war. Prewar two-bedroom units rent for $55-$65. Units built during the war rent for $65-$75. Postwar apartments built in the same project, with the same shopping and transportation facilities, rent for $85-$95, the difference due to higher building costs.

Decontrol would result in lowering the high rentals to a more competitive scale and raising the prewar rentals to compensate for the loss in lower postwar rents, Walker said.

"Under such action," he added, "the only people getting hurt would be a few tenants who have been on a free ride under the lower prewar rental scale. And those people don't deserve any consideration now."

Costs Begin to Rise

Owen said building costs are down generally in Washington, but have just begun to rise. He said a gray market existed in some materials, and that builders were competing once more for labor and materials.

Other realty experts over the Nation, reporting on building trends in their home areas, had an optimistic outlook for the 1950 market.

All speakers reported sales were slow in homes costing $12,000 and up.

Joseph S. Shaw of Atlanta, Ga., said $40,000 homes there had to be reduced to $33,000 to find buyers. V. S. Kiskaddon of Chicago said young people evidenced no desire for expensive housing, being content with a "compact four rooms with enough money left for a new auto."

Expensive Homes Hard to Sell

Owen said some expensive homes built in 1947 in Washington were still on the market, with no buyers in sight, although the prices had been reduced below construction cost. Washington builders, he added, have turned to building for the lower income group which constitutes the largest untapped market.

The welfare state, socialism, deficit financing and increased taxes took beating at the hands of key speakers at the realty meeting.

The United States is within 8 percent of being a socialistic state, and proposals now pending in Washington would increase the threat of socialism, declared Representative Jesse Wolcott (R., Mich.) ranking member of the House Banking and Currency Committee.

He said 32 percent of the tax dollar was now spent for taxation and when the figure reached 40 percent then the United States would be a socialistic state.

e Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.), minority leader of the Senate, said the real estate business had been made a "whipping post by power-hungry Government bosses in their effort to clamp a socialistic straitjacket upon all segments of the building industry."

The realty convention will end Tuesday night. The 1950 convention will be held next November in Miami Beach, Fla.

Customer's Corner

Will A&P be put out of business if the anti-trust lawyers win their suit against this company?

Absolutely! And here's why:

A&P's retail stores will be broken up into seven groups and be sold to still other new owners.

None of the stores and factories can be connected in any way, which will wipe out the savings you now enjoy on the foods A&P makes.

None of the present owners or management, who have made A&P what it is today, can have anything to do with either the stores or the factories.

So, while there may be a food store where A&P is now located, it won't be your A&P store. It will be operated by different owners and under new management.

Make no mistake about it, if the anti-trust lawyers win their suit, it will mean the end of A&P as you know it.

House Probers Told Of Strike Violence

Atlanta, Nov. 21 (AP).—A textile union official testified today that beatings, threats and intimidation have marked a six-months strike at a North Carolinia textile mill.

The official, Director Lewis M. Conn of the North Carolinia Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), appeared before a House Subcommittee. The three-member committee in investigating a strike of 500 workers at the Hart Cotton Mills, Tarboro, N. C.

Conn said the incidents had included the bombing of the home of a strike leader.

He charged " a methodical calculated effort by the absentee owners of the Hart mill to crush the union of their employes."

"The company has spurned every proposal of the union to settle the strike," Conn said. "It had dodged meetings with United States conciliators, threatened to sell the company houses in which its workers live, and has injected new issues at almost every opportunity to avoid a settlement."

The first witness was E. P. Cave of St. Louis, president of the Eli & Walker Dry Goods Co. He said his company owns Hart Mills as well as several other mills and retail stores and acts as wholesaler and jobber. But he denied that the parent company sets the labor policy of its subsidiaries nor reviews their contracts.

Conn promptly disputed Cave's statement that Eli & Walker had nothing to do with Hart Mills' labor relations. He said that union and Government officials were given a "complete run-around" in seeking to determine who was the final authority and that no one would admit having such authority.

Conn said the Hart Mills and the union disagreed on only three contract points: Company refusal for a check off of unon dues; company insistence on a no-strike clause; and company refusal of contractual protection against wage reductions in case of increased work loads.

Byrnes Criticizes Administration Spending; Calls for Cuts in Federal Taxes and Debt

Biloxi, Miss., Nov. 21 (AP).—James F. Byrnes tonight sharply criticized Administration spending and called for a cut in Federal taxes and public debt.

The former Secretary of State made his criticism in a speech before the Southern Governors' Conference.

"Our real trouble is debt and taxes. We cannot cure it by more debt and more taxes. We should devote to cutting expenditures some of the thought we are devoting to taxing and borrowing.

"But cutting expenditures is not seriously considered inthe executive departments and new taxes will not be seriously considered in Congress. So deficit spending will continue," Byrnes said.

The dapper South Carolinian, who recently said he was seriously considering a try for the Democratic nomination for Governor of his own State in next year's primaries, declared the cold war with the Communist bloc and what the Government is doing for the "little fellow" are given as excuses for deficit spending.

"If you eliminate expenditures for national defense, foreign aid and fixed charges like interest on the debt," Byrnes declared, "you will find that we are spending in one year 15 billion dollars for civilian-domestic functions of the Federal government.

A Supreme Court justice from 1941 and 1942, from which post he resigned to become war mobilizer, Byrnes said the United States has collected $159,645,825,033 in taxes in the four years of peace from June 1945 through 1949—"more than two billion dollars in excess of the taxes collected in the 12 years of President Roosevelt's Administration from June 1933 through June 1945. That 12 years included the great depression and World War II.

"The spenders," Byrnes asserted, "while deploring deficit spending, assert as an excuse that there was deficit spending during the Roosevelt Administration . . . but who can forget that in 1933 the banks of the Nation were closed, farmers whose mortgages were foreclosed were deserting the farms, factories were idle and the unemployed walked the streets hungry.

"Only a spender with no sense of responsibility could fail to see the difference. Today . . . we have 'unexampled prosperity.' If the Government canrot now live within its income, what will it do should we have a serious recession in business?"

Byrnes said the United States Government is making the "little fellow" smaller every day. He declared the average working man must work 47 days a year to earn the money to pay his Federal taxes.

Turning to foreign affairs, Byrnes said we must treat the western German republic as an equal and bring it into the Council and Assembly of Europe.

"In declaring an end to the state of war, we should lay down the requirements we will make of the new government. All economic controls by the occupying powers should be removed. It would be a complete answer to the Russian charges, echoed by some people in Germany, that the restrictions are continued by Great Britain and France for the selfish purpose of preventing competition with their industries."

He declared the military security board must remain in operation to restrict the production in Germany of the weapons of war, including atomic energy.

Byrnes asserted that "for the present our security forces should continue in Germany. Our goal must be to bring the eastern zone into the western republic. . . . Should the Balkan states convince Stalin he has tried to cover too much territory, and the Soviets come to realize their bluffs do not work and Germany should be united, we should renew the offer we made to the Soviets in 1946 to enter into a 40-year treaty, providing for four-power control to prevent the rearmament of Germany."

Byrnes declared if the Soviets persist in dividing Germany and should arm the Communists of eastern Germany, "then we must make other decisions.

"If we are going to release from controls the German government we initiated, we should do it generously and not grudgingly. We must encourage this government and not make possible the rising of another Hitler."

Montgomery Asks Special Session

Governor Lane of Maryland was urged last night by the Montgomery County delegation to call an immediate special session of the Legislature to correct the 50-million-dollar school bond issue law.

Delegation Chairman Anders R. Loftstrand, jr., of Rockville, announced the action.

States' Rights Issue Kept Out of Governors' Conference

Biloxi, Miss., Nov. 21 (AP).—States' rights leaders caucused today to study a proposed resolution that would place the Southern Governors' conference on record as favoring States' rights principles.

One of the conferees, Leander Perez of Porte a la Hache, La., a national director of the States' Rights group, said they finally decided against bringing the proposal before the conference.

Perez explained that under conference rules, resolutions must receive unanimous vote and the States' Righters felt the cause might lose prestige if there was an adverse vote.

In a round table discussion on highway safety, the Governors were told there was a possibility the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would lend money to the States to build safer roads.

Gov. Roy Turner of Oklahoma said RFC policy on this subject would be established on an application by his State for a large loan to build a toll turnpike between Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

Highway safety was described by Gov. William Preston Lane, jr., of Maryland as the No. 1 problem facing the country today.

"The very fact that the National Safety Council can with accuracy forecast the number of people to be killed in a given period is a challenge to us to do something about it," he said.

Lane said some way must be worked out to "take potential killers off the highway." The problem must be attacked by cooperation between the States, he added.

Meeting in joint session with the Governors, the Board of Control for Southern Regional Education approved a five-point proposal for extending the two-year-old program. One of the five points proposed that training in nursing education be set up at Meharry Medical College at Nashville, Tenn., and in the State of Maryland.

Former Gov. Millard Caldwell of Florida was reelected chairman of the board.

Dr. John Ivey, jr., of Raleigh, N. C., was reelected vice chairman, and H. C. Byrd of College Park, Md., was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Pakistan Premier Invited to U. S.

London, Nov. 21 (AP).—A high diplomatic official reported today President Truman has invited Pakistan Premier Liaquat Ali Khan to visit the United States next year.

Liaquat Ali Khan is due to go to Moscow in the next month or two.

The President's move was seen as part of a United States bid to win friends in Asia in the cold war against spreading communism.

This Veterinarian Should Put in a Meter

Ballston Spa, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP).—Dr. Harry E. Hansen, a veterinarian, got a call from a downtown drugstore. A farmer there wanted him to look at a sick cow.

Dr. Hansen picked up the farmer and drove him through winding, country roads. As the pair pulled up to the farmer's house, the farmer opened the car door and said:

"You can let me out here, doc. I haven't got a sick cow. You see, you charge only $3 for a visit while a taxi would have cost me $5."

BANANA NUT SALAD

⅓ cup bottled Salad Dressing
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ cup Pet Milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 ripe bananas
4 lettuce leaves
⅔ cup finely cut nuts*

Mix in bowl the salad dressing, salt, mustard and milk. Stir in lemon juice. Chill. At serving time, arrange lettuce on salad plates. Peel bananas, cut in 2-inch pieces. Using 2 forks, dip banana pieces, one at a time, in the dressing. Roll each, as it is dipped, in the nuts. Put 2 pieces on each lettuce leaf. Serve with the rest of the dressing. Makes 4 servings.

*Salted, skinless peanuts, pecans, cashews, etc. can be used.

Citizens Unit to Seek Area Planning Aid

The Interfederation Council last night voted to send a delegation to the District Commissioners to ask them to indorse the Sasscer area bill.

The bill would set up a nine-man commission to study the possiblity of coordination planning in the whole metropolitan area It was introduced in Congress by Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer (D., Md.).

The council took the action after Mrs. Franklin G. Sartwell, delegate from the D. C. Federation of Citizens Association, reported the Commissioners had not yet indorsed it and there seemed to be opposition to the measure in the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

The council had previously appointed committees to discuss the measure with Maryland and Virginia State legislators who would have to approve the bill before it took effect.

In other action, the council accepted without recommendation a report by its public utilities committee which saw no immediate need of an area port authority to govern bridge planning in so far as all bridges planned in the near future will be entirely within the District.

After District Delegate Harry N. Stull announced that Mrs. Sartwell was a candidate for the Star Cup, the council took official cognizance of Mrs. Sartwell's "splendid work" and expressed appreciation for her activities on behalf of the Sasscer area bill.

The council also voted to thank the Engineers Club, 1325 E st. nw., for the use of its facilities where its monthly meetings are held.

Lincoln Park

Commendation of the Veterans Administration for its consideration of the Soldiers' Home grounds for erection of a proposed new veterans hospital was voted last night by the Lincoln Park Citizens Association, meeting at the Epworth Methodist Church, 13th st. and North Carolina ave. ne.

The association voted to ask the dog pound for a roundup of stray dogs in the neighborhood; to request a traffic control survey of 8th and B sts. and Massachusetts ave. ne., and to commend William A. Xanten, superintendent of sanitation, for leaf collection.

Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant 3d, former chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, spoke on development plans for the Lincoln Park district.

Chevy Chase

If there are no more passenger fatalities on scheduled airliners in 1949, it will be the safest year in the airline industry's existence, an airlines executive said last night.

Speaking on air safety at a meeting of the Citizens Association of Chevy Chase, Jennings Randolph, assistant to the president of Capital Airlines, said that without any more fatalities, the airlines will average one passenger fatality for every 100 million passenger miles flown in 1949.

Though the tragic accident at National Airport which cost 55 lives must not be "treated lightly," Randolph pointed out that insurance for air travel is still available at the same rates as for rail and bus travel.

Randolph said he personally felt that National Airport should be reserved to airlines operations as much as possible. Randolph has previously recommended an airfield for personal planes in the Kingman Lake area.

The association voted to contribute $25 to the Community Chest in other business at the Chevy Chase Community Center, Connecticut ave. and McKinley st. nw.

Shepherd Park

The Shepherd Park Citizens Association last night asked the Public Utilities Commission to reconsider its denial of a request for increased service on the S-6 bus line to 16th st. and Eastern ave.

11 P. M. Bandit Caught; Tells Of 6 Holdups

Sharp eyes of two robbery squad detectives brought about the arrest yesterday noon of a man identified as the "11 o'clock bandit" in four hotel robberies. He also was identified in two others, police said, and finally admitted all six.

Poindexter

The prisoner was listed as Hassell Ray Poindexter, 20, a Marine private first class, who has been absent without leave from his station at Portsmouth, N.H., since July 23.

Detective Sergts. Nunzio Bonaccorsy and Arthur Molle were in one of several robbery squad cruiser cars surveying the neighborhood where the four small hotels had been held up in the past week.

At 11th and K sts. nw. they spotted a tall, blond young man wearing a corduroy pork-pie hat and tan jacket. He answered the description of the bandit, they said. When they stopped him for questioning, they said, they found a .25-caliber pistol in his pocket.

At headquarters, he was identified by victims in the four hotel robberies, officers said. These were the Adams Hotel, 1006 I st. nw., robbed Sunday night of $16; Central Hotel, 903 New York ave. nw., robbed Sunday night of $10.50; Crown Hotel, 933 H st. nw., robbed Saturday night of $7.60, and Friday night of $38.

The other robberies in which officers said he was identified were those of Sam's Corner Store, 901 9th st. nw., on October 27, where $1760 in cash and jewelry were taken, and the D. C. Liquor Mart, 907 H st. nw., robbed November 4 of $300. On that occasion, police pursued the bandit to Union Station, but lost him there.

Officers said Poindexter admitted all six robberies. They placed robbery charges against him in the two Crown Hotel holdups. Arraigned before U. S. Commissioner C. S. Lawrence, he was held under $10,000 bond for action of the grand jury.

Officers said that in his pockets they found keys to a storage locker at the Union Bus Depot. Opening it, they said, they found pawn tickets from Baltimore and Norfolk, Va. Poindexter then told them, they said, that he had pawned a $1500 ring taken in the Sam's Corner Store robbery, for $75, and a $75 watch for $10.

E. Germans Get New Anthem By Ex-Hollywood Tune Mixer

Berlin, Nov. 21 (AP).—The Communists have supplied Eastern Germany with a new "national anthem," penned by a former Hollywood song writer.

With great fanfare the Soviet government announced the adoption of a new hymn to fill the void all Germans feel—the void created when the Allies banned "Deutchsland Ueber Alles" at the end of World War II.

Author of the music for the new hymn is Hanns Eisler, who pounded out many a tune in Hollywood before United States authorities got interested in his Communist background.

Eisler returned to his native Europe a jump ahead of trouble in a flurry of deportation proceedings. His brother, Gerhart, alleged former No. 1 Communist agent in the United States, took a powder, too, jumping appeal bonds of $20,000 after conviction in two criminal cases growing out of his activities to flee the country as a stowaway on a Polish liner.

The anthew opens:

Arise from ruins,
And turn to the future.
Let us serve the good, the unanimous Germany.
If we unite brotherly
We beat the people's enemy.
Let the light of peace glare
That never again a mother
Weeps for her son.

To the younger generation now banded into the "Free Communist Youth" along the lines of the old Hitler Jugend, the anthem appeals:

Let us plow, let us build,
Learn and work as never before.

British Told of Paradise Isle

London, Nov. 21 (AP).—The British Colonial Office has found the real paradise in the South Seas.

Its annual report of the colony, comprising the Gilbert and Ellice Island groups in the Pacific, is a cheerful book for the homesteader. Here's how the islands look, in the book:

Housing shortage—none.
Destitution—unknown.
Delinquency—Negligible.
Taxes—very low.
Budget—just about balanced.

The colony has 37 coral atolls and islands, with a population of 36,000, including 304 Europeans. The land area is 375 square miles, scattered over two million square miles of sea.

A boom in copra prices boosted the colony's income.

U. S. Attitude on Formosa To Be Subject of Conference

By Robert S. Allen

United States concern about the fate of Formosa will be discussed at an important private conference in New York this week.

Ambassador Philip Jessup, top State Department troubleshooter, who is going to the Far East next month, will meet with Senator H. Alexander Smith (R., N. J.) who has just returned from there.

Jessup is in charge of formulating State Department policy on the Chinese Communists. Smith went to the Far East as an observer of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and will make a report to the committee. With Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R., Mich.), the former Princeton professor is the only Republican on the Committee championing a bipartisan policy in the Orient.

Jessup is conferring with Smith to get his views on three crucial problems:

1. How to keep Formosa from falling into Communist hands.

2. How to eliminate the division of United States military authority in the Orient. General Douglas MacArthur has command over the strategic islands. The Navy controls on the Asiatic mainland.

3. How to use the 75 million dollars voted by Congress to combat communism in the Orient. The fund was included in the arms-to-Europe bill and put at the discretion of the President.

Formosa is held by the Nationalist. It is the headquarters of Chiang Kai-shek and the main base of the Nationalist air force. Also on the island are an estimated 100,000 refugee Nationalist troops, in a low state of morale and control.

Senator Smith will convey two main views to Ambassador Jessup:

1. Vigorous opposition to extending diplomatic recognition to the Communists.

2. No further United States aid to the Nationalists.

Smith is against establishing official relations with the Communists on the ground they are Soviet stooges. From his observations, he is convinced the Communist leaders are completely under Russian domination, and are being directed and manipulated by the Kremlin.

Idea for Thanksgiving pumpkin-pineapple pie and rich, satisfying coffee

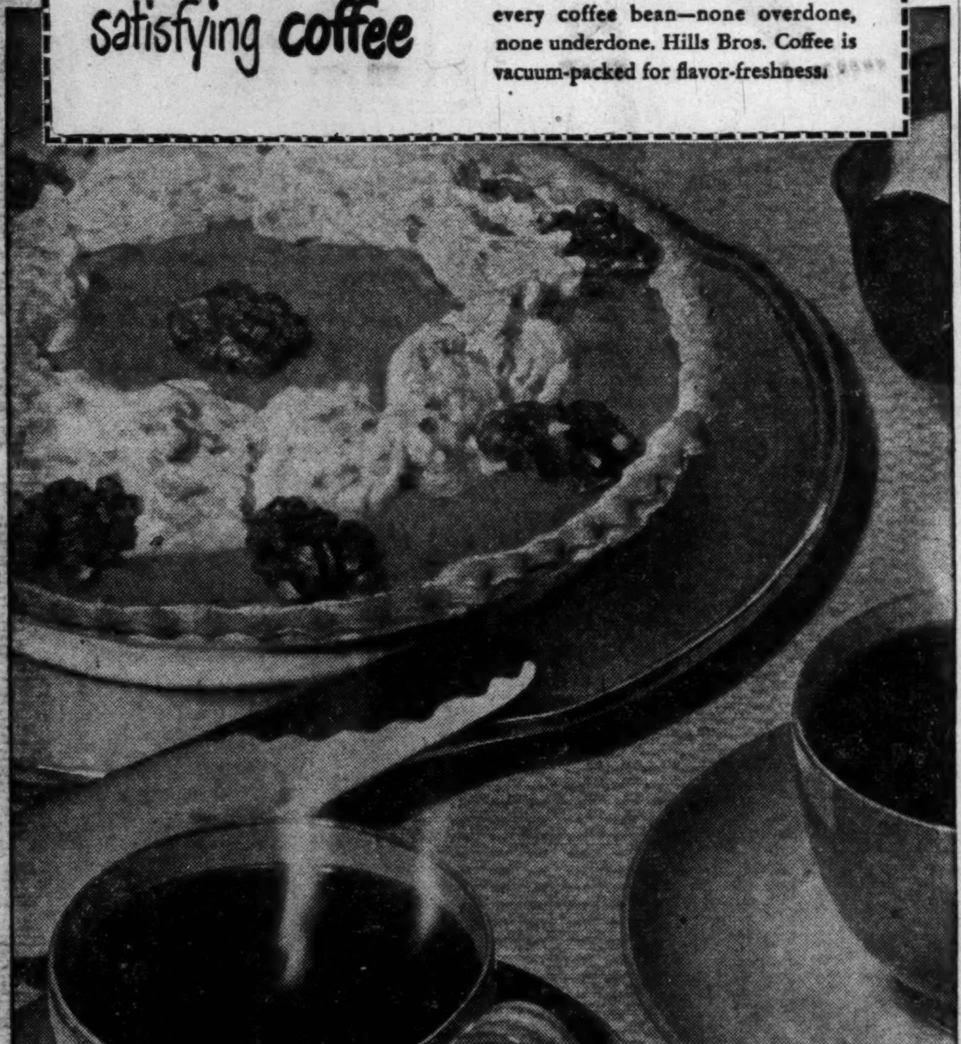
To wind up a wonderful feast—add new zest, with pineapple, to good old pumpkin pie—and enjoy the familiar, pleasing flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee. It's a distinguished blend of the world's finest coffees—and "Controlled Roasting," an exclusive Hills Bros. process, roasts the blend a little at a time—continuously—to insure an even roast of every coffee bean—none overdone, none underdone. Hills Bros. Coffee is vacuum-packed for flavor-freshness.



PUMPKIN-PINEAPPLE PIE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 cup cooked or canned pumpkin
2 beaten egg yolks
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup crushed pineapple (9-oz. can)
Piecrust mix
½ cup heavy cream
Candied cherries or nutmeats

Soften gelatin in cold water. Heat pumpkin in top of double boiler. Mix beaten egg yolks with ¼ cup sugar, add salt, crushed pineapple with juice, stir into the pumpkin. Stir over boiling water 3 minutes. Add gelatin, beat until well blended, chill until syrupy. Beat egg whites, fold in ¼ cup sugar and then fold in the pumpkin mixture. Pour into 9-inch baked pie shell or into pan lined with crumb (corn flake or graham cracker) pastry. Chill until firm and garnish with whipped cream and candied cherries or nutmeats.

Serve with Hills Bros. Coffee

D. C. Baptists Lauded For Evangelism

Greater Washington Baptist churches yesterday were praised for their leadership in evangelism at the opening meeting of the District of Columbia Baptist Convention.

In his address the Rev. Dr. Clarence W. Cranford, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church and convention president, expressed the hope Baptist churches will cooperate next year in an interdenominational evangelistic effort to be sponsored by the Washington Federation of Churches.

Although the transient nature of Washington's population presents a problem to the churches, Dr. Cranford said, it also gives the churches an opportunity to reach persons who will carry the inspiration they receive to every part of the Nation and the world.

More than 200 representatives of the 34 churches in the convention are attending sessions at Metropolitan Baptist Church, 6th and A sts. ne. Sessions will continue throughout today, with a business meeting scheduled for this morning and installation of new officers tonight.

At the afternoon session yesterday, the Rev. Dr. Courts Redford, associate secretary of the Home Missions Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, declared that "nothing except a revival of old-fashioned religion" will save the world. He urged Baptists to "join hands and hearts in the greatest mission program we have ever had in America because America needs it."

Chest Total Now $2,890,195; Mrs. Truman Gives Awards

United Community Services, and principal speaker, asked that the campaign be made a "true crusade for humanity." He told his listeners, "Either we care about what happens to our neighbors or we don't and having made that choice either we are willing to share what we have with those who need it more than we do or we are not willing to share.

"Either we remain a society in which we share of our strength with those who would have need of that strength, or we will pull down each of our own houses in a pile of selfishness and isolation. The 250,000 people served directly by the Community Chest agencies depend upon you to make this campaign good. You depend upon what happens to those 250,000 people for the kind of a community which makes your way of life possible."

Singled out for "Oscars" at the Residential Unit luncheon were Mrs. Louis Arthur, for the Georgetown Visitation Convent alumnae; Mrs. Travis O. Campbell, Mrs. William C. Bowles in apartments, Mrs. Bleike Reed in the downtown area, Miss Lydia Burklin of Friendship House for executive leadership in the agencies, Mrs. Lillian Fitzhugh and Mrs. Grace Lormans, first areas to go over the top; Mrs. John Foley for the Junior League, Mrs. William Mackall for the Girl Scouts, Miss Barbara Penny for the Camp Fire Girls and Miss Ada Farrington, Mrs. William D. Connor and Miss Helen Constant Peck, who have served as campaign secretaries.

At the Government unit luncheon, these agencies received "Oscars" for being 99 percent or more of their quota

3 Gallaudet Students Honored for Poetry

Three students of Gallaudet College, school for the deaf, have received recognition from the National Poetry Association, Dr. Leonard M. Elstad, president of the college, announced yesterday.

Poems by the three students will be included in the association's Annual Anthology of College Poetry, a collection of poetry written by college students throughout the Nation. The three are Taras Bruce Dennis, a senior, and Bernard N. Bragg, a sophomore, both of New York, and Roger M. Falberg, a junior, of Racine, Wisc.

New Mayan Links Shown

Newly found pictorial records of hitherto-unknown sections of the Mayan Indian civilization in Central America were presented last night to a Washington audience at the Carnegie Institution, 16th and P sts. nw.

Host was the United Fruit Co., which in 1946 commissioned Giles Healey, a photographer, to visit the region. He was to make a film of the Lacandon Indians, a dwindling, last-remaining segment of the Mayans. On this assignment, he discovered temples containing murals 12 centuries old.

These he depicted, in a return trip with archeologists and other scientists, on motion picture film.

The finds were at a place now called Bonampak, in a tongue of land which is the extreme end of Mexico, jutting into Guatemala. It is about midway between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, southwest of the Yucatan peninsula.

The United Fruit Co. has titled the films "Zaculeu" and "The Maya Through the Ages."

Clifford to Resign White House Post

Clark H. Clifford, special counsel to the President since 1946, will resign from the $20,000-a-year post early next year to open a new Washington law firm.

President Truman is expected to yield to his White House "ghost writer's" desire to return to private law practice and "make some money" for his family.

The 42-year-old Clifford, who recently received an $8000 salary boost, is married and has three children.

Associates said there has been no personnal "break" between Mr. Truman and his legal advisor but Clifford was said to have advised the President he can no longer afford the financial sacrifice entailed in Government office.

Declining comment, White House press secretary, Charles G. Ross simply told reporters:

"Any announcement regarding Mr. Clifford's plans must await the pleasure of the President."

The former White House Naval aide, who reputedly has "ghosted" many major Truman speeches and helped the President evolve the present "Fair Deal," is expected to go with Mr. Truman to Key West late this month to assist in preparation of the next State of the Union message.

It may be his last major White House assignment.

Clifford came to the White House shortly after Mr. Truman became President as assistant to Commodore James K. Vardaman, then Naval aide. He succeeded Vardaman as Naval aide and in 1946, when he left the Navy, took over Judge Samuel L. Rosenman's former post as White House special counsel.

Soon he was one of Mr. Truman's top advisors. He is credited with having helped map the strategy behind many of Mr. Truman's rounds with John L. Lewis and had a direct hand in the President's legislative bouts with Congress.

Friends of the former Mrs. Carlton S. Hadley of St. Louis, the Cliffords last spring introduced Vice President Barkley to his bride of last Friday.

Never Sausage Garbage

Mexico City, Nov. 21 (U.P.)—The Public Health Department today seized almost a ton of chopped meat in an unlicensed sausage factory on suspicion that it was "of a species not destined as food." Department inspectors said they found "a great quantity" of dog, cat and burro skins behind the factory.

Lawyer Tells of Esteem

Charles E. Ford, Washington attorney who represented LaFontaine in some of his brushes with the law, said:

"The two men I had most respect for in this world were my father and Mr. LaFontaine."

His father, Cornelius Ford, was Public Printer in the Wilson Administration.

Crandal Mackey, who, as Commonwealth's Attorney many years ago, drove Jimmy out of Arlington County, Va., paid him this tribute:

"A fine fellow. The only gambler around Washington who promised to quit and did."

He was referring to a promise LaFontaine made to get out of Virginia.

A little man with a sort of grandpa look, who had a deep abhorrence of gunplay or violence of any kind, Jimmy LaFontaine parlayed a love of sport—cockfighting above all—into his celebrated casino.

This was "Jimmy's Place" at 3200 Bladensburg rd., just over the District line in Prince Georges County, where faro, roulette, craps, poker, or solitaire were played—by men only.

Jimmy's love for gambling was so great that he often sat in on stud poker games and played for modest stakes against the house he owned. He was just as excited about winning 30 cents in an afternoon of knock-rummy as he was about watching a customer drop $5000 in 20 minutes shooting dice.

Philadelphians Moved In

Jimmy reached his heyday just after the first World War and reigned as undisputed gambler extraordinary for 20 years. In the late '30s a group of Philadelphians, members of the Boo Boo Hoff mob, went to the little fellow and told him, in effect, "We're in."

They gave Jimmy a share of the fat profits, were not too rough with him, and eventually won his friendship.

The casino has been shut down for two years or so.

Born in Southwest D. C.

Jimmy LaFontaine was born in southwest Washington on March 12, 1868. His father, James A. LaFontaine, owned a poultry and fruit company at the old Center Market, at 9th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw. It is said that young Jimmy made his first bet there 70 years ago, when he offered a customer odds that a certain chicken would still fly.

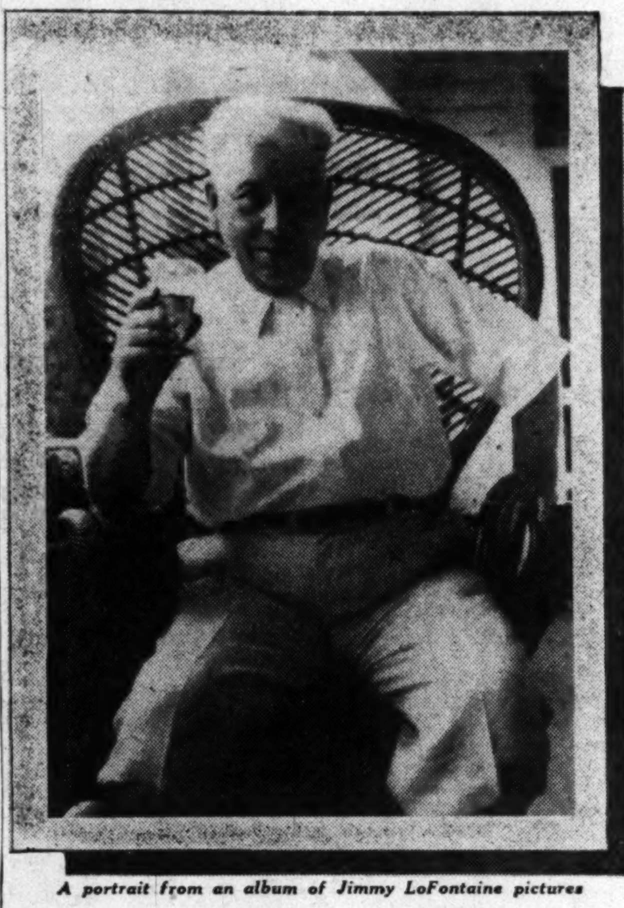
From helping to sell chickens, Jimmy soon migrated into fighting them, and from the day he could afford one game-cock he owned fighting chickens, and fought them all over the country.

Gambling every day of his life, Jimmy was soon following the harness racing circuit, the fights, and other sports. He opened a place known as the Ivy Club in the old Jackson City area, across the Potomac in Virginia.

Trouble Comes With Success

He began to buy real estate with his winnings and in 1919 assumed ownership of "Scotland," the old Wright Rives estate at 3200 Bladensburg rd.

The success of "Jimmy's Place" was instantaneous but with that success came trouble. There was a little matter of the law. For the next 20 years Jimmy's Place never closed up more than a few weeks at a time, but to keep it open took money. By judicious banking, campaign contributions and Christmas presents, things were kept under control, but Jimmy LaFontaine hated that method of doing business. "I'd rather pay $100,000 a year tax on gambling to the State than keep up these damn blackbirds," he has been quoted as saying. "Blackbirds" was his expression for petty officeholders.



A portrait from an album of Jimmy LoFontaine pictures

There were "raids" on the Bladensburg rd. establishment from time to time, but apparently somebody in authority always had the courtesy to tip Jimmy off that he was going to receive a visit.

Lost in Stock Market

Trouble in bigger and bigger doses started his way. He lost money in the stock market. In 1930 he was held up and beaten by Milton "Milsie" Henry, a St. Louis gangster whom he had hired as house manager. Henry was later found murdered.

In 1931 a judge sentenced Jimmy to nine months and a $1000 fine for income tax evasion, and he had to pay more than $200,000 in penalties and back taxes.

In 1934, under congressional fire, the Metropolitan Police Department tore down all that portion of the high steel fence around "Jimmy's Place" which stood on District property, leaving the sprawling casino under uncomfortable public scrutiny.

Periodic harassing attacks closed the casino down temporarily, although on most occasions raiders found only immaculate soup kitchens and nary a dice or numbers slip.

In 1939, "the Philadelphia crowd" moved in and Jimmy moved out of control.

Dice Were Square

But under LaFontaine the casino had a reputation for honesty. The dice used at crap tables were habitually changed and the old set given to any player who wanted them. One story concerns a disgruntled loser who took the cubes to the National Bureau of Standards for examination and came back even more disgruntled.

Kept Out Liquor and Guns

Visitors to Jimmy's place were searched as they went in, and relieved of liquor bottles or weapons if they happened to be carrying any.

If a man made a big killing at the dice tables or at the wheel, the house always offered to send him into Washington in a limousine with a bodyguard.

When a client went broke, really broke, it was a practice to go up to a croupier and say, "Buddy, I'm going home. How about a cup of coffee?" The customer was always given at least $2.

Jimmy never got so "modern" as to allow women into his casino. Occasionally, an irate wife would call at the establishment in the daytime and demand to see him. Invariably, it was to tell him that her husband had impoverished the family by losing his all at the gaming tables.

"How much did he lose?" Jimmy would ask.

When he had the answer, he would turn over the amount to the distraught wife. Then he would get a description and full particulars about the erring husband. If the husband wanted to gamble thereafter, he had to find some other place. Jimmy had dropped the flag on him.

LaFontaine didn't want any family's rent money. He was taking in plenty without it.

But the money he made was the money he spent. In 1936 he posted $100,000 to insure the Braddock-Louis bout in Atlantic City that year. Despite his rumored wealth, for more than 45 years he and his wife lived in a most unpretentious rented house at 470 Maryland ave. sw.

The profits of "Jimmy's Place" in a normal year were said to average $200,000. Employes' salaries were in the neighborhood of $185,000 a year. It was the county's biggest industry for many years, open every night until 6 and 7 in the morning. It was said that Jimmy's Place closed only while the horses were running at Bowie and Marlboro, and the grand jury was sitting at Upper Marlboro.

Didn't Kid Losers

Jimmy was something of a philosopher, especially in matters concerning his own field.

"Nothing you can ever say to a loser will be funny," he used to remark, and add: "You need never say anything to a winner—he will do all the talking."

For the bad loser he had a good pice of advice: "You should never go into a smokehouse unless you can stand the smoke."

For those who thought they could stand the smoke, Jimmy provided many conveniences. It was easy to get to his place for example. All you had to do was show up at 6th st. and Pennsylvania ave. A fleet of limousines kept moving patrons from that point to the big house behind the green fence on Bladensburg rd.

Used Silver Dollars

In the old days, you gambled at Jimmy's with silver dollars, the familiar old cartwheels. When the Philadelphia mobsters took over, these gave way to the less romantic chips.

The body will rest at the Lee Funeral Home 4th st. and Massachusetts ave. ne., until 9:30 a.m. Thursday. Services will be held at St. Dominic's Catholic Church, where Mr. LaFontaine was baptized.

High requiem mass will be offered ot 10 a.m. Burial will be in the family plot at Congressional Cemetery.

Parking Law Changes Urged By Traffic Advisory Board

counsel to draft regulations authorizing parking on public space, under certain limitations:

1. In residential areas, "between the sidewalk and the building restriction line with the consent of the owner in legal control of the premises, provided such parking does not constitute a traffic hazard."

Lubar explained that currently no parking is allowed on public space, and said discretionary enforcement by police often means "discretionary favor for a few." He said that property owners have title to the land between their building line and the sidewalk but that this area is deemed public space subject to District control. As a result, he said, many residents cannot park on driveways on their land.

2. "In all other areas, including commercial and industrial, permits be issued permitting parking on public space from the sidewalk line to the building restriction line in accordance with the usage of the occupant of such building provided signs be erected indicating the manner of such parking, excepting where such parking constitutes a traffic hazard."

This would apply, for example, Lubar said, to the triangle-shaped vacant lot between Maryland ave. and Bladensburg rd. ne., alongside Sears Roebuck. Many motorists have complained bitterly about being barred from parking there because it is "public space," although unused.

The board recommended that the District pay for the signs required in business areas.

Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett and Assistant Police Superintendent Floyd Truscott "are in accord with the sentiments," Lubar reported.

He said it probably would result in 500 to 1000 more places for parking in business areas.

The recommendation as to reexamination of drivers involved in personal injury accidents was:

"That the holder of a District operator's permit who is involved in a traffic accident in the District resulting fatally or in personal injury and who is convicted or forfeits collateral on a charge of traffic violation resulting from such accident be reexamined in vision, the road test and the test on the traffic regulations.

"The Board of Revocation and Restoration of Operators Permits shall require the holder of said operator's permit to appear before the permit examination division for a complete reexamination.'

Traffic Director George E. Keneipp told the advisory board that current surveys indicate the delays at Washington Circle are less serious than at such bottlenecks as the Barney Circle area.

He said that tests indicated that the "ideal" time over the 2212 feet from 21st to 25th sts. on Pennsylvania ave. nw. is 1 minute and 16 seconds. Test runs yielded an average time of 1:56 in the morning rush, 1:48 in the afternoon off-peak and 1:54 in the evening rush.

Alexandrian Lines Up . . .

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

OPERA FANS—Mrs. Dorothy R. Raymond, of 1804 Mount Vernon ave., Alexandria (first on left), is among the first in line for tickets for last night's opening of the sixty-fifth season of the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York. Picture was taken early yesterday morning after the "bleacher line" of opera lovers had begun to lengthen

Usual Noise Plagues Opening Of 'Met'; Miss Garden Declines

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—The Metropolitan Opera opened its sixty-fifth season tonight before a packed house, studded with the great and near-great of New York society.

The late arrival of some social bigwigs led Earle R. Lewis, Met secretary, to threaten at one point to call police in order to silence the hubbub in the lobby.

Things quieted down, however, and Lewis didn't have to carry out his threat.

Annoyed by the high jinks of other openings, Mary Garden, 72-year-old one-time Met star, announced that she would boycott it.

She had been scheduled to join the Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt party in box three of the famous Diamond Horseshoe.

However, she announced late in the evening that she considered the exhibitionism of opera-goers in past years a "disgrace" and "shocking."

Aside from noisy entrances, however, the celebrities conducted themselves with reasonable decorum. The blond Mrs. Betty Henderson, who once exposed her leg before some of an opening-night audience in the bar, arrived smiling but with no show of exuberance.

Order Holding Tax-Delinquent Property in Falls Church Urged

An ordinance to forestall removal of tax-delinquent property from the city was proposed to the Falls Church City Council last night.

The measure, suggested by City Attorney LaRue Van Meter, would require individual permits of public movers for each job. Such permits would be denied when the jobs involved removal of property on which local personal property taxes are unpaid.

Van Meter said applicants for permits would be required to give detailed information on the type of property. This, he added, would tend to prevent "wholesale thievery" of household goods from vacant homes.

Council deferred action on the measure until its next meeting, when it will attempt to establish a scale of permit fees and penalties for violations.

In a report on negotiations between Falls Church and Fairfax on the amount of the county's school bonded indebtedness to be assumed by the city, Van Meter reported "complete disagreement."

Fairfax has asked the city to share a part of the school debt as a result of Falls Church's withdrawal from the county school system.

The council approved an appropriation of $2900 for purchase of a construction shovel. City Manager Roy F. Dunn explained the city is now paying $10 for an hour rental for a shovel, which is required almost daily for local projects.

$225,683 Budget Requested For Greenbelt Next Year

A proposed 1950 budget of $225,683 was presented to Greenbelt Council last night by Charles T. McDonald, city manager. It was an increase of approximately 5 percent over the current budget of $213,611.

McDonald said most of the increase is in administrative expense. Council agreed to discuss the proposed budget December 5, hold a public hearing December 12 and certify it to the Public Housing Administration by December 19.

The latter body, which would be called on to supply $197,313 of the proposed funds, must approve the budget before it becomes effective. Last year, PHA cut approximately $8000 from the budget it received.

Other funds come from State taxes and other sources.

Mayor Elizabeth S. Harrington said no pay increases for city employes have been included although it has been the custom to increase their salaries when Federal employes receive a raise. She said the employes now receive higher pay than comparable municipal employes.

Two Prisoners Flee Road Gang

Two men serving 90-day sentences escaped from the Montgomery County road gang near Potomac, Md., at 8 p. m. yesterday.

They are John Wolfrey, 22, a farm laborer of Gaithersburg, who was serving time in lieu of a $250 fine for failure to appear on a traffic charge involving hit-and-run driving, and Francis (Buddy) Friend, 20, an automobile garage worker of 53 Grant ave., Capital View, sentenced on an assualt and disorderly conduct charge.

Mme. Pandit Disappointed in U. S. Women

India's Ambassador, Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, pleaded for aid and understanding of her country last night and urged American women to enter politics to preserve peace.

Slightly nervous before an audience of 1700 at Constitution Hall, the attractive diplomat declared India was unable to go forward without outside help. However, she insisted, India wants only tools and materials to help her develop her own resources, not charity.

She was disappointed in the women of the United States, she said, because they let others do their political thinking. Women should show more authority, she said, adding that in India, women consider politics a notch higher in esteem than the professions and they are entering the field in large numbers.

Communism exists in India, Mme. Pandit said, and functions in the way of most Communist Parties. The Indian government has imprisoned a number of people who have attempted to sabotage its work. It is necessary because it is easy to get hold on restless people. They are restless because they have received political benefits from the new democratic government but have not received economic benefits. The government is bending all resources to provide them.

Mrs. Lee's Sons Willed Bulk Of $435,000

Mrs. Carrie K. S. Lee, who died here November 15 at the age of 81, left an estate of $435,000, it was disclosed yesterday when her will was filed for probate in District Court.

The entire estate, with the exception of minor bequests, will be divided between her two sons, Ralph W. Lee, 2d, 203 Primrose st., Chevy Chase, Md., and Col. Frederick S. Lee, Denver, Col.

Mrs. Lee's will provides that the bulk of her jewelry, appraised at $1000, be cut up for rings when her two grandsons become engaged to marry.

Mrs. Lee was the widow of Ralph W. Lee, an insurance executive. She was a member of the Washington Club, and a resident here for 50 years.

Her estate consisted of the property at 1508 L st. nw., valued at $80,000, and her home at 2610 Upton st. nw., rated at $65,000. Personal property, mostly stocks and bonds, was placed at $290,000.

Curran Asks Help To Battle Leftists

New York, Nov. 21 (U.P.).—A new radio appeal went out today to National Maritime Union members at sea to help defend the NMU hiring hall from "Communist muscle men."

The American Radio Association (CIO) said it was devoting half its weekly news broadcast to ships at sea to statements by NMU President Joseph Curran and the union vice president, H. B. Warner.

The statements referred to the "threat" of disgruntled NMU members who seized the union headquarters building here last Wednesday in protest against Curran's ouster of what he called left-wing officials of the NMU local.

"All crews must rally to defend the union hiring hall from these Red Fascists," the statements said. "Make arrangements so that upon arrival in New York all except small standby crews request time off to attend grandmothers' funerals.

"After burying the old lady, contact union and come down to defend the union from Commie storm troop goon squads who include Communist clerks, furriers and every party muscle man in sight . . . spread the word by all means, defend the hiring hall."

Warning of Philadelphia Port 'Capture' Is Given

Philadelphia, Nov. 21 (AP).—National Maritime Union (CIO) officials today said they have learned the Communist Party plans to "capture" the port of Philadelphia and the union's Philadelphia local at a meeting next Monday.

Samuel H. Rosenberg, director of public safety, said city police will maintain order at Monday's membership meeting.

Home Seems Strange to Baby After Complex Operation Here

The Washington Post

10-WEEK-OLD JIMMY LENEHAN WITH HIS MOTHER

Little Jimmy Lenehan found himself in strange surroundings in his Arlington home yesterday but, like any normal, healthy 10-week-old, he took it all in stride.

Jimmy hadn't had much chance to get used to his home at 4224 S. 32d st., having spent nearly a quarter of his short life in three different hospitals.

His most recent visit was to Georgetown, where he underwent a complex operation for hernia and removal of his appendix last Thursday.

The baby was admitted to the hospital last Monday and discharged late Sunday with no apparent ill-effects. According to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Lenehan, "You'd never know he had an operation."

Jimmy first saw the light of day in George Washington Hospital, September 12, where he was born three weeks prematurely. He came home a week later.

When he was three weeks old, some food strangled him. He was rushed to Children's Hospital in a state of shock, but was released two days later.

Chief Committee of the Western Defense Alliance, composed of Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

However, informed sources here insisted that American officials do not look to Montgomery as the person to engage in concrete commitments on matters of joint defense planning. Those questions, involving preparation of military plans under the Atlantic Pact, will be threshed out instead with the heads of the military services of the several pact countries.

For example, Field Marshal Sir William Slim, chairman of the British Imperial General Staff, will come here next week for talks of this nature. And the Chiefs of Staffs of the Pact nations will meet later next week in Paris on the specific questions of planning under the new Treaty.

Press Club Date Today

Montgomery, who says he will talk defense "to anyone who will listen," will deliver five speeches in the United States.

Today he speaks at the National Press Club and on Friday to the Overseas Writers here. Tomorrow he speaks to the Army War College.

Social engagements include a dinner last night, and another tonight, at the British Embassy. Wednesday morning, at the Pentagon, he will pay calls on Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff; Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Secretary of Defense Louis E. Johnson.

He will lunch with Bradley at Fort Myer and dine with Collins at Fort McNair.

On Thursday, he moves from the British Embassy to become the guest of Gen. Sir William Morgan, chairman of the British Joint Services Mission, at his McLean, Va., home.

Army-Navy Game

On Saturday, Montgomery will be Collins' guest in Philadelphia for the Army-Navy football game. Monty confesses that although he could solve the tactics of German General Rommel's tanks in Libya, the intricacies of football are, as yet, beyond him.

Over the weekend, Montgomery will be the guest of Gen. Bedell Smith at Governor's Island. Monday, he will call on his old friend, General Eisenhower, at Columbia University, and that afternoon will speak to the Council of Foreign Relations in New York.

He will return to Europe, by ship, on December 2, assuming he has survived the ordeal.

Sometime during his stay, he told reporters yesterday, he hopes to visit an American drug store, having heard, apparently that it is not quite the same thing as a British pharmacist's shop.

Bell Hikes Pensions; Union Fights Move

By Howard L. Dutkin
Post Reporter

The Bell Telephone system announced yesterday it had doubled its minimum pension plan payments and the move met immediate opposition from the CIO Communications Workers of America.

The union said it would bring charges of unfair labor practices on the grounds that the unilateral action bypassed the principle of collective bargaining.

But a spokesman for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. here declared that the revision, which became effective last Wednesday, is "in accordance with procedures authorized by the plan itself."

The plan, the spokesman said, is not "in itself" a part of the union contract, but he declared that a clause in the contract, although banning any reduction in payments without the consent of the union, does not prohibit increases without union agreement.

To Seek "Hill" Probe

But the CWA, which claims 320,000 phone workers as members, most of them employed by Bell, said that in addition to filing unfair practices charges, it would also seek a congressional investigation of collective bargaining in the system.

"American Telegraph and Telephone, of which Bell is a subsidiary, introduced these changes without consulting the union, even though we are bargaining with them on pension matters at the present time," asserted Joseph A. Beirne, Washington, CWA president.

"This is not only a violation of the law, but is in complete disregard of normal collective bargaining procedures," he said.

Beirne charged that "the myth of collective bargaining in the Bell System has been torn apart. It's actions like this that provoke strikes."

The principal effect of the change, the company declared, is to provide increases in the minimum pension for full-time employes having 20 or more years of service at retirement.

They will receive a minimum payment which, when added to the amount receivable from Federal Social Security, if any, will be $100 per month after 65 and $75 a month before that age. The previous minimum was $50.

Under the new plan, no social security deductions from the payment would be made until an employe reached 65. At that time the $100 minimum, less one-half social security, would apply.

A spokesman for the Bell System yesterday declared that the plan was not put in effect until discussions had been held with "employes, pensioners and union representatives."

The Bell pension plan was started in 1913 and has been revised since then, the company said.

In April, 1948, the National Labor Relations Board held that employes' pension plans are a proper subject for collective bargaining.

Man Found Hanging At Andrews Air Base

The body of an unidentified man garbed in an Army fatigue suit and heavy work coat was found hanging from a rafter in an unfinished building at Andrews Air Base yesterday shortly after 1 p.m.

The body was discovered by two civilian workmen, Gordon Hurley, 1620 B st. ne., and Fred Perry, Baltimore.

A board of inquiry is investigating.

Zinka Says Soviet Writer Of Tito 'Lie' Is Just a Skunk

ZINKA MILANOV
. . . Blames propaganda

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—Zinka Milanov had three words today for the Russian writer who said she was Marshal Tito's girl friend.

"He's a skunk!"

Mme. Milanov, Yugoslav opera star who arrived in this country for a concert tour, was still very much upset by the report in the Moscow Literary Gazette two weeks ago. The Gazette linked her romantically with Tito, alleged he had showered her with gifts and said she was an American spy in Belgrade.

"In my country," she said today in an interview just after her arrival on the liner Queen Elizabeth, "it is a terrible thing for an honest woman to be called anybody's mistress. This has hit me very hard."

She denied every word of the Moscow report.

'It was a dirty story," she said. "I have met Marshal Tito only four or five times, always at official functions. He never gave me any gifts. He never said much to me. Just, 'hello, hello. Nice to meet you. You have a beautiful voice. Thanks for coming and so forth and so forth.' That's all."

The 43-year-old singer, a blonde, animated and ample woman, grew more intense as she discussed the matter.

"I love my husband," she said. "He is very handsome. All this nonsense is very stupid, very unpleasant."

Her husband is Maj. Gen. Ljuba Ilic, architect and former Yugoslav diplomat.

Mme. Milanov said Yugoslavs are accustomed to dirty cracks from their former Russian comrades in the Cominform but this was a new low in Soviet propaganda.

"That's all it is," she said, "cheap, dirty propaganda."

"Do I know his (Tito's) wife? I don't even know he's married. Why should I know whether he is married? I know I am married."

How We Banquet on a Budget

I have to watch my pennies—even for holiday dinners. And I've found nothing gives me so much—for so little money—as wine

The wines of California make it a dinner to remember! California soil and climate are ideal for over 125 famous wine-grape varieties...produce wines that rank with the world's finest.

I use a little of the wine—about ¾ cup of Burgundy or Sauterne mixed with ¼ cup oil—to baste my turkey. Um-m-m! What wonders wine does for the flavor!

Then—the banquet touch! When we serve wine with the turkey, you ought to see how eyes light up... how good the dinner becomes

Sauterne and Burgundy Wine
COST SO LITTLE...ADD SO MUCH

SEE WHAT HAPPENS when wine comes to your dinner. See how it flatters your guests, makes them feel especially welcome. And note how wine goes with turkey and fixin's. Um-m-m! ... it brings out every bit of good flavor!

Sauterne or Burgundy? Wine costs so little now (only a few cents a glass), you can offer guests a choice. Both are nice—and easy—to serve. You just cool the Burgundy and chill the Sauterne. It's quick, simple—enjoyable.

Choose the wines of California—the favorite wines of seven out of eight American families who serve wine. The wines of California are featured wherever wine is sold.

For other good ways to entertain smartly and economically, write Wine Advisory Board, 717 Market Street, San Francisco 3, for the free booklet, "Easy Entertaining with the Wines of California."

Three more ways to add glamour with WINE

1. Champagne to make it a "party." Serve this gay, effervescent wine, well-chilled, before dinner, with dinner—or to holiday callers. You will be surprised how inexpensive the excellent Champagnes of California are right now
2. Port and Sherry to say "welcome." Set them out with your other bottles of hospitality. Serve Sherry before dinner, the Port with the dessert or after dinner
3. Hot Mulled Wine. To one bottle of Burgundy or Claret add 8 cloves, 4 tablespoons sugar, rind of 1 lemon, dash of cinnamon. Heat mixture to near boil, strain at once and serve in thick glasses or mugs. This serves 6 to 8 people

Mystery Witness Delayed by Bridges

San Francisco, Nov. 21 (U.P.).—Government attorneys produced their "Sunday punch witness" in the perjury-conspiracy trial of the waterfront union chief Harry Bridges, today but legal bickering delayed his testimony.

The day was marked by a prosecution suggestion that one of the defense attorneys be cited for contempt and by a defense motion for a mistrial. The motion was quickly denied.

Late in the day, after prolonged cross-examination of the first government witness, the prosecution called John D. Schomaker, a former business agent for Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (CIO).

Prosecutor F. Joseph Donohue described Schomaker as one of about a dozen "mystery witnesses" who will be called by the government in its efforts to prove Bridges lied when he said he never was a Communist during his naturalization hearings.

However, Schomaker was prevented telling the court whether he, himself, ever was a member of the Communist Party.

Before he could answer the question, the defense objected and court was recessed until tomorrow morning. At that time Judge George B. Harris is expected to rule on the question.

Earlier, Schomaker, 46, said he worked on the waterfront in San Francisco from 1937 to 1943, serving as ILWU business agent.

Two Bridges associates, J. R. Robertson and Henry Schmidt, are also on trial on charges that they conspired to gain citizenship for the Australian-born labor leader by testifying for him at his 1945 naturalization hearing.

Donohue, who kept Schomaker's identity a secret until today, described him as a former "local labor leader and former Communist."

$70,000 in Prizes

American Way of Life Is Honored

Phoenixville, Pa., Nov. 21.—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today handed out the first annual Freedoms Foundation awards—$70,000 and gold medals to some 200 Americans, young and old.

An award of $5000 was made in 11 divisions, including best editorials, best magazine articles, best radio programs, best advertising campaigns, best 16-mm. motion pictures, best comic strips, best news cartoon and best sermons. First prizes were $2000.

Ten unclassified awards of $1500 each were given. Recipients included Jackie Robinson, second baseman for the Brooklyn Dodgers, and United States District Judge Harold R. Medina, who presided at the trial of 12 Communist Party leaders in New York.

Medals were given to former President Herbert Hoover for his seventy-fifth birthday address, United States Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) for a speech before the National Association of Life Underwriters and Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer for an address before the Iron and Steel Institute.

Charles Francis Coe, editor and publisher of the Palm Beach (Fla.) Post-Times, won first prize in the editorial division.

The outstanding comic strip was "American Adventure," by Bradford Smith and Don Dellman.

"The Greatest Story Ever Told," an American Broadcasting Co. program was selected the best radio program.

Barkleys Find a Shangri-La At Georgia Coastal Resort

VEEP AND BRIDE SMILE HAPPILY IN ATLANTA

Sea Island, Ga., Nov. 21 (AP).—Vice President and Mrs. Alben Barkley, the Nation's favorite honeymooners, arrived at their own Shangri-La tonight.

Checking in at this quiet, luxurious resort on the Atlantic Ocean shortly after 5 p.m. The Veep smiled and said, "This is it."

Since their wedding in St. Louis Friday, the Barkley's have driven South leisurely in the black convertible the Vice President gave his bride as a wedding gift.

In overnnight stops en route—at Barkley's home in Paducah, in Nashville and Atlanta—they were affable but noncommittal about their destination.

The Vice President would say only, "we're heading for Shangri-La and getting closer all the time."

Tonight, Barkley and his 38-year-old bride found it in a second-floor apartment in a beach house away from the main hotel in the secluded haven.

Here, the Kentuckian probably will celebrate his seventy-second birthday and Thanksgiving at the same time Thursday.

A wide balcony off their suite overlooks the surf. Window walls separate the balcony from a large living room decorated in gray, white and brown. Their quarters include a handsomely fitted bedroom and a kitchenette.

Woman Slain In Crowd by Former Suitor

Brockton, Mass., Nov. 21 (AP).—A rejected suitor today shot blonde Muriel Beal, 25, to death before a noonday crowd reading news bulletins in front of the Brockton Enterprise plant where she worked as a bookkeeper, and then wounded himself.

Without warning, Robert S. Lundin, 33, a one-time truck driver, fired three shots. One hit her in the back, another in the leg as she ran and a third struck the newspaper office building.

Lundin ran—then turned the pistol on himself when police cornered him in an alley. He was reported in critical condition with a bullet in his chest.

Just as he was being carried into the emergency operating room at the hospital, Lundin told a police investigator:

"I told so many friends I was going to kill her that I had to go through with it."

Lundin met Miss Beal during his visits to the newspaper office to pick up mail. They went out on dates several times but months ago she told him she did not want to see him again.

For weeks, friends said, he had bothered her with appeals.

Fire Chiefs Elect Bladensburg Man

Baltimore, Nov. 21 (AP).—Chief William G. Perry of the Bladensburg Volunteer Fire Department was elected President of the Maryland Fire Chiefs Association yesterday at its annual convention.

Chief Herman W. Dill, Earleigh Heights, was elected vice president; Chief Charles Burton, Landover Hills, secretary, and Chief H. M. Dilg, Hillendale, treasurer.

The retiring president is Joseph Giammatteo, Glen Echo, chief.

Atlantic Rescue

Few wartime missions brought greater cooperation than the coordinated air-sea eforts which resulted in the rescue of 18 men out of the sea off Bermuda Saturday. The 18 Air Force crewmen themselves, survivors of a downed B-29, are naturally the centers of attention, for they underwent a harrowing experience aboard two tiny life afts tossed about by mountainous waves. That they were able to survive at all is a ribute to their training and the precauions the United States takes to safeguard its fliers in emergencies. But the real credit must go to the hundreds of Air Force, Navy and Coast Guard men who had been scouring the area methodically since Wednesday. Particular thanks are due the crew of the Canadian destroyer Haida, who joined the search and brought the airmen aboard after they were sighted by the B-17. It is comforting to know that the Air Rescue Service maintains 26 operating flights at bases all around the globe, and that cooperation with the Navy and Coast Guard, and indeed with other nations, is routine. When lives are at stake, unification really works.

Congressional Travel

Nearly one third of the United States Congress—120 members of the House and 30 members of the Senate—have gone or will go abroad on "official business" of one sort or another during the current congressional recess. It is estimated that the average Government cost for a trip to Europe and back runs about $1200; prolonged visits and jaunts to more distant places often cost a great deal more. And this estimate of cost does not take into account, of course, incidental expenses incurred by American diplomatic representatives overseas who entertain visiting Congressmen. Neither does it include the cost involved in sending State Department or Defense Department aides along on numerous occasions to guide, escort and educate the legislators during their travels. Nor, naturally, does it comprehend the considerable outlay on the part of Marshall Plan and other foreign governments that feel obliged to roll out the red carpet because certain Congressmen expect it of them.

For the most part, certainly, this may be reckoned money well spent. It is an injustice to disparage these trips abroad in general as "junkets." Most of them no doubt are undertaken conscientiously and entail a good deal of hard work. In view of the contemporary leadership of the United States in world reconstruction, it is of incalculable importance that the men who must pass upon and appropriate the funds for foreign assistance programs should have a first-hand knowledge of conditions in foreign lands. It can scarcely be doubted that the overseas excursions made by members of Congress in recent years have contributed greatly to breaking down the provinciality and insularity that frustrated an intelligent American foreign policy after the first World War.

But there are obvious dangers as well as benefits in these trips. A member of Congress in a foreign country is in a special sense a diplomatic representative of the United States. If his conduct is unseemly or his public utterances arrogant, he does an injury to the reputation of his country which no amount of propaganda can repair. It would be hard, for example, to appraise the loss of European good will occasioned by the recent effrontery of Senators Elmer Thomas and John McClellan. When Senator McCarran not long ago paid public homage to the dictator of Spain, he conveyed a wholly false and mischievous impression in Europe of American foreign policy.

It would be wise, we think, for Congress as a whole, to supervise rather more closely than it does the trips taken by its members at public expense. Such trips should be authorized whenever legitimate legislative business warrants them. But those who travel on behalf of Congress should be expected to report to their colleagues on what they have observed and said and done. And for the sake of American prestige, official travel should be limited to those who have genuine official duties to perform. Congress itself is the only agency that can put a stop to wasteful and offensive junketing.

The Case Of Angus Ward

All governments having diplomatic or consular relations with China, including the Soviet, have been asked to make representations to the Peking authorities in the matter of Mr. Angus Ward and his staff in Mukden. Secretary Acheson's request is "a matter of urgency." It is doubtful whether any good will be gained as a result of the approach, even if it enlists general cooperation. Indeed, many people in this country will feel that harm will be done, for the step is a public confession of impotence, and will mean a loss of American "face" in China. Conversely, the Communists would themselves lose a lot of "face" if they yielded to this kind of pressure. However, the move may be preliminary to a call for United Nations action both to free Mr. Ward and to lay down a principle for the treatment of foreign representatives.

It seems that the rules governing diplomats and consuls are not entirely clear. Secretary Acheson deals with the usage that has hitherto prevailed. Consuls do not have the diplomatic immunity that is accorded to diplomats. But "it has been the universal practice, because of the public and official character of their duties, to permit them and their staff freedom of movement, and in the event that any criminal charge is made, to permit them to remain at liberty on proper arrangement for bail, with unlimited freedom to communicate with their governments with respect to official business."

The general practice is to do what the United States did in respect of Consul General Lomakin in New York. This Russian official just over a year ago, according to an overwhelming sum of evidence, participated in the snatch of Mme. Kosenkina from an upstate farm. The New York police entered the premises after Mme. Kosenkina had thrown herself out of the window of the consulate general. There was an immediate hullabaloo from Moscow. In international law every justification existed for haling Lomakin into court for kidnaping, but, instead, the decision was taken to give him his marching orders. In the parlance of the diplomats, he was declared persona non grata, and the decision was generally thought to coincide with usage and, indeed, proper conduct.

The case of Gubichev, as we said at the time, ought to have been handled in the same way. The Russian argument that he has diplomatic immunity is, of course, absurd. Formally he had nothing to do with the Soviet Union in discharging his duties in New York; he was a U. N. official. Nevertheless, now that this case is being cited as the reason for the detention of Angus Ward, we may repeat what we said on April 1 this year on the danger of bringing him to trial, instead of giving him his marching orders. A court proceeding, we said, "would expose U. N. personnel to the dangers of similar treatment by other countries—an obviously undesirable situation." The Justice Department was much too precipitate in saddling this embarrassment upon the State Department. However, as we say, there is no analogy here for the Ward incident, though the situation of U. N. personnel as well as the practice governing foreign diplomats and consuls, requires clarification. The next step in the Ward case is clearly at the United Nations.

Balkan Embargo

One of the most hopeful factors on the clouded international horizon is the way in which the United Nations General Assembly is rising to its responsibilities. Last week the Assembly went as far as it could go toward imposing an arms embargo against Albania and Bulgaria because of the continued aid they are giving to the guerilla operations in Greece. To be sure, the Assembly cannot wholly take the place of the U. N.'s peace-enforcement agency, the Security Council. But its vote of 56 to 6 for a resolution calling on the nations to withhold arms from the offending states is a considerable weight to be thrown into the balance in favor of peace and decency. It means that the Assembly is not only alert but also courageous in using the forces at its command to discourage aggression.

So far as the actual movement of arms is concerned, the embargo to which 50 nations pledged themselves is not likely to mean much. Few if any of these countries have been supplying arms that could reach the Balkan guerillas. The U. N. Special Committee found that most of the aid to the Greek rebels came from Bulgaria and Albania, and those countries are supplied, of course, from Russia. Since Marshal Tito's split with the Cominform, Romania has in some measure taken the place Yugoslavia once held in this nefarious business. It is not to be supposed that any of these powers will heed the Assembly's resolution. If they give up aid to the guerillas, it will be because the United States' effective aid to the Greeks has made the rebel cause hopeless. Nevertheless, this action of the Assembly intensifies the pressure on the unhappy peoples that are permitting themselves to be used as tools of Soviet tyranny.

We know little of what is happening in the satellite countries except for the evidence of increasing tension that leaks underneath the iron curtain. But the very fact that Titoism is flourishing in Yugoslavia is an invitation to revolt on the part of every other people under the thumb of the Kremlin. Independence is always contagious. The rugged mountaineers of Albania in particular are said to be increasingly restive under Moscow's domination. Recently Tito denounced his 20-year pact of friendship and military aid with Albania, and Premier Hoxha, who is Stalin's Charley McCarthy in the mountainous little outpost on the Adriatic, has flown to Moscow in a Soviet plane accompanied by a Red army general. In these circumstances no move to emphasize the cost of playing an aggressive dictator's game can be counted as meaningless. To the extent that it is noised about in the Balkans, we suspect that the Assembly's embargo will aid the cause of liberation.

Health And Privacy

We seldom find ourselves in disagreement with the Washington Housing Association, which is sincerely devoted to the cause of better living conditions in this city. In its recent assault upon the decision of the United States Court of Appeals in the health inspection case, however, it seems to us that the association has gone off the deep end. Its blast against this decision is entitled "Sanctity of the Home vs. Disease and Death." The article goes on to cite the wretched conditions in many District slums. "Which comes first," the author asks, "the individual's right to the sanctity of the home, or protection of the public health?"

After reading this article one might suppose that we must choose between the sanctity of the home on one side and leaking roofs, insanitary toilets, rats, pneumonia, tuberculosis, dysentery, high infant mortality rates and overcrowding on the other. The Housing Association seems to fear that if health inspectors are required to get a warrant, when they are denied voluntary entrance to a home, we shall have a complete breakdown in the enforcement of health regulations. We think the danger is grossly exaggerated. Regardless of what the Supreme Court may decide, now that it has agreed to review the Court of Appeals' ruling, we suspect that a vast majority of homes will continue to admit health inspectors as a matter of course. If the Court of Appeals ruling is upheld, warrants will have to be obtained in cases where people refuse to open their doors to inspectors. Of course, this would make more work for health inspectors, but the maintenance of our basic, civil rights is seldom attacked because it is easier for law-enforcement officers to ignore them.

To be sure, the Fourth Amendment does not condemn all searches without warrant, but only the unreasonable ones. What are unreasonable searches must ultimately be decided by the Supreme Court. But that body has said that the Fourth Amendment "should be liberally construed to preserve the citizens' right to immunity from unreasonable search." In our opinion, that is what the Court of Appeals did. The public interest can be served only by protecting both the sanctity of the home and the public health. It seems to us that the Housing Association takes an untenable position when it looks at only one aspect of the problem.

Knotty Tax Problem

Federal officials and representatives of State and local governments are meeting together this week to discuss the knotty problem of inter-government taxes. States and municipalities have long been concerned about the steady encroachment of the Federal Government on their sources of tax revenue. Excise taxes, for example, especially amusement taxes and taxes on public utility services, that would provide them with suitable and abundant sources of revenue, have been preempted by the Federal Government, forcing local governments to rely more and more heavily on property taxes.

The rapid wartime expansion of the Federal Government's property holdings is also cause of bitter complaint, since these holdings are tax-exempt. It is estimated that in the District of Columbia alone, where more than 40 percent of the land area is federally owned, the annual revenue loss from tax exemption amounts to nearly 18 million dollars, while the loss in local taxes for the country as a whole is a quarter of a billion dollars. Hence, the clamor for abolition of tax exemption, or as an alternative, fully compensatory Federal payments in lieu of taxes. Probably this solution would be too sweeping, since certain kinds of Federal property, such as postoffices, jails, and hospitals ought not to be taxed. But, in view of the rapid and uneven expansion of Federal ownership of real property, selective taxation of Federal holdings is certainly justified.

The expanding scale of Federal spending necessitating imposition of heavy taxes, has also made it increasingly difficult for State and municipal governments to find adequate revenue without duplicating Federal taxes. In fact, duplicate and multiple taxation of the same sources of revenue appears to be unavoidable in view of the rapid growth of government spending at all levels. However, it should be possible to introduce more order and system into intergovernmental tax relationships by a limited segregation of sources of revenue, and possibly by allocation of predetermined proportions of specified taxes among Federal and local governments.

Some sort of remedial action is certainly imperative to relieve the financial distress of subordinate governmental units, and it is to be hoped that the present conference will bring forth feasible proposals that will enlist Congressional support. Otherwise the pressure for Federal grants-in-aid, which is due in part to the inadequcy of local revenue returns, will steadily increase.

PLEA TO THE FOEMEN

For but a little space forbear
To fashion hell of earth and air.

For but a little while put by
The wings of death, and let the sky

Be as it was, and once again
God rest you merry, gentlemen.

If only this: a halted fight,
That we may share one Silent Night.

Air Hogging

The November 15 letter of Lieut. Col. Jere W. Maupin, USAF, entitled "Air Hogging," is in my opinion very timely. He certainly hit the nail on the head when he said, "Airline pilots should adhere more closely to flying rules and accept the philosophy that the air should be shared and not dominated." The same goes for airports, including Government-owned and operated.

My personal observations are that airline pilots, as a class, are indigestible prima donnas, and as a group are frequent gross violators of airport control and air traffic control rules, this despite the little known fact that the CAA is partial to them regarding preference in take-offs, best en route altitudes, and priority in approaches for landing.

Most of us have personal experiences with truck and bus drivers endeavoring to dominate the roads with little or no regard for others. Airline pilots can be compared closely with them, and many of our naval aviators who have flown with me in the Naval Air Transport Service will bear out the statement that airline pilots even cut us out when we were flying hospital planes with stretcher cases on board.

File a violation with CAA against air carriers? Save your breath or your stationery; it will be sidetracked and generally ignored. NAVAL AVIATOR.

Communist Defeats

The Communist Party has been severely rebuked recently, first in the New York court which convicted 11 Communist leaders for teaching their political doctrines, and secondly at the CIO Cleveland convention which severed bonds with affiliated Communist-dominated unions.

These actions are significant in that they represent Communist losses in both judicial and non-judicial atmospheres. The legal action can well be likened to a brake designed to slow down and stop Communist Party teachings; labor has effected a retarding action in that it ostracizes pro-Communist union leaders from many union members who represent potential party members.

Momentarily reflecting upon the progress of the Communist Party in the United States, it is observed that the party has risen from within our midst to stand as a potential threat to the principles of freedom and government as wrought by the Constitution. The members of that party raise a hue and cry against occasional restrictive measures applied by our Government; they would have us believe that we are violating the Constitution when we refuse them permission to expound ad infinitum arguments supporting their political beliefs.

Yet, it is obvious that they desire only a temporary application of the Constitution because it affords them a "getaway" expedient in the accomplishment of their objective; namely, the ousting of our form of government and the establishment of a Communist regime.

The Communists protest at every turn our refusal to hear them, yet they have the audacity to flaunt our sacred Constitution before us and simultaneously accuse us of abridging certain privileges contained therein. They would have us adhere so rigidly to the Constitution that the accomplishment of their overt act would be greatly facilitated. Were this group to gain control of this country they would immediately discard the Constitution; restrictions which they would subsequently impose would not control only speech and the press, but life itself.

An unduly strict censorship is repulsive to the American way of government. It is fitting, however, that the Communists should suffer these twin defeats which, although not true censorship, are sufficiently prohibitive to afford this Nation some comfort by minimizing the spread of this scourge. Pearson And The Navy

Drew Pearson continues his vicious campaign to bring discredit on the U. S. Navy.

In his "Washington Merry-Go-Round" of November 7, there are no less than 10 misstatements. A rebuttal of only three of these should suffice to prove that Pearson still, as ever, refuses to report factually on the Navy.

Pearson—"At one time during the battle of Okinawa, virtually all of the Navy's carriers were either en route back to the United States for repairs or en route to battle after being repaired . . . Many carriers had to be sent all the way through the Panama Canal to the Atlantic Coast for repairs. The West Coast yards were too full."

Truth — Virtually all the Navy's carriers remained in the vicinity of Okinawa during the entire campaign, rendering the troops close air support and protecting the "Fleet that Came to Stay." Only eight carriers out of 35 present were damaged, and of these several remained in action. None was sunk. Not "many," but one, the Franklin, was sent to the East Coast for repairs.

Pearson—Admiral Halsey and the battleships sailed off to the north; however, "Halsey's fleet telephone did not have the range to reach a part of his fleet. This part, consisting of smaller vessels, remained along the Philippine coast virtually unprotected."

Truth—Halsey left none of his fleet. The ships left "virtually unprotected" belonged not to Halsey, but to the Seventh Fleet of Admiral Kinkaid. Only Third Fleet battleships went with Halsey; six battleships remained at Leyte under Kinkaid.

Pearson—"During the recent campaign in the Pacific, Admiral Sprague had the experience of commanding Carrier Squadron 22 with several other higher ranking admirals taking orders from him. Because operating carriers in battle formation . . . is such a skilled job, Sprague, a junior, was in command."

Truth—While there is no such thing as "Carrier Squadron 22," Pearson may have had in mind Escort Carrier Group 77.4 at Leyte. If he did he is still in error; there were five admirals under Admiral T. L. Sprague at Leyte, but at the time he was senior to all of them—one, Admiral Stump, has since become senior.

"Plea For Progress"

Your November 17 editorial concerning Negro admission to George Washington University is a true step forward in building a democratic America in the educational field.

We find that colleges further South than Washington advocate interracial student bodies. Certainly the admission of Negro students would lay a more concrete foundation for the American democratic tradition exemplified by the university's historic name. IDA GALPERT.

Winning Souls

The awful tragedy of our day is not the threat of Russian communism, but the apostacy of the Protestant church, whose ministers, largely, have lost sight of their mission, which is to save human souls. How few of them stand up for Jesus and fight sin as He fought it. How few of them bring their hearers to the foot of the Cross of Calvary and show them the God-Man hanging on that bloody tree for the redemption of their souls.

It would be a travesty on American Protestantism, if it were not such a glorious fact, that an Englishman, a clergyman of the established church, has to bring this message to America. Bryan Green is not only a rarely gifted preacher, but he seems to be a divinely inspired one. He was called to preach the Gospel, and he is preaching it nightly to thousands at the cathedral on Wisconsin ave. And the people hear him gladly.

Coming away from the cathedral the other night, after listening to one of Mr. Green's pleadings to sinners to give up their sins and turn to Jesus, I overheard the wife of a clergyman say to a friend: "The ministers of this diocese are afraid to come home now." "Why?" asked her friend. "They fear that their wives will be asking them: 'What have you been doing all these years that you have not been preaching like Bryan Green?' "

Veterans' Preference

Chairman Harry B. Mitchell of the Civil Service Commission has spoken and your Jerry Kluttz has recently published material relating to proposed changes in the veterans' preference laws.

All veterans this writer has contacted appear to be agreed on several points; i. e., a veteran should have at least a 30 percent disability before 10 points are added to his score. Veterans should attain at least 70 percent before any points are added to their test scores. No vet will agree to changes in the Veterans' Preference Act as pertain to reduction in force.

Vets should realize that adjustments will be made in the act. The degree to which adjustments will be made will be a point of issue between vets and nonvets. The vets should be on guard! This writer has great respect for Mr. Mitchell, but when he starts fooling around and attempting to dilute the vets' preference laws he is in for an argument. I suggest he first get his own house (Civil Service Commission) in order!

Anacostia Express

I have just read of the plan Capital Transit has formulated to run an Anacostia-downtown express bus at extra fare.

The express feature here proposed is certainly a most desirable move, but I strongly question the need for an extra fare. It would seem to me that the only reason for an extra fare would be a lack of sufficient paying passengers. The section of Washington to be served by this proposed line can certainly muster sufficient passengers to load these express buses adequately.

It would seem that this express line could be operated at regular fare for a trial period to determine if an extra fare is required to maintain normal operating income. If the situation should warrant such an increase, it would certainly be received in better spirit than now, with no apparent reason.

Progress In Titoism

By Marquis Childs

American Aims

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia.—To write glibly about American policy, its faults and failures, is in many instances to write about a convenient creature of the imagination. Too often in Europe instead of policy there is merely hurried improvisation that shifts with the winds of each new crisis.

But here in Yugoslavia, which is in many respects the key to eastern Europe, a deliberate and carefully calculated policy is being pursued with what seems to me to be both skill and patient understanding. The immediate goal of that policy is to sustain Marshal Tito in his defiance of Soviet Russia and the economic blockade imposed under Russia's direction by the Cominform nations.

With some tokens of assistance from the United States—granting Tito the right to import hitherto banned products such as petroleum derivatives, a steel rolling mill and so on—that goal seems in process of being attained. The help also includes a recently approved Export-Import Bank loan of 25 million dollars.

Besides the immediate objective, there is a long-term goal. That is to encourage other Titos in eastern Europe to believe that complete subservience to Moscow is not necessarily the price of existence.

In other words, the aim is to further the development of regimes that will refuse to take orders from the Kremlin and that will cease to be part of Moscow's war machine. These regimes may or may not be Communist. The nature of the government of an independent state is hardly to be determined—short of the kind of old-fashioned imperialism we are constantly accused of on the Moscow radio—by American intervention.

WHILE THEY must be taken with great reservation, there are signs that some progress is being made in the direction of the secondary goal. In the neighboring satellite states, conspicuously Hungary, "trials" and liquidations are taking place under Moscow orders, with the charge of Titoism (treason) predominant. At the very least this reflects the fear of Moscow that the pattern of Yugoslavia and Tito's nationalism will be repeated elsewhere.

In addition, rumors are constantly circulating here of new splits and splinterings in the satellites, particularly in Albania, where the economy is said to have deteriorated to zero. An almost open revolt is reported threatening the Moscow-supported regime. In this tense atmosphere, however, such rumors are subject to heavy discount.

Before it was possible to arrive at the calculated policy being followed here, first-rate diplomatic observation and reporting were essential. American newspaper correspondents stationed in Belgrade credit Robert Borden Reams, Counselor of the American Embassy and now Charge d'Affaires in the absence of an American Ambassador, with detecting the first signs of Tito's break with the Cominform.

In June, 1948, Reams sent a dispatch to the State Department in Washington that was a world scoop in that it pointed to the split which has now developed into a furious cold war between Tito and Stalin. Reams, one of the ablest younger foreign service officers, continued his penetrating reporting as the breach widened and the possibilities for exploiting it grew. At the same time in Washington was another essential ingredient—an awareness of the significance of the reports out of Belgrade.

AMERICAN policy in Yugoslavia does not imply any suddenly acquired illusions about the nature of Tito's regime. It is total communism, with little or nothing that could be called democracy in the sense in which that word is used in the West.

This sounds, of course, like "power politics," a phrase from which many Americans recoil in shock and horror. Certainly, it is politics and there is no doubt that it is one use of America's power in the world. In short, it is the kind of calculated risk America must take.

But there is another responsibility and that is to make sure that the opportunity exists here to tell America's own story. Largely because of the severe restrictions imposed by the Yugoslav government on the United States Information Service this is not possible today.

Alex. N. Dragnich, an American of Yugoslav origin, is said to be doing an excellent job as head of the information service and cultural attache in the embassy. He is handicapped by a small staff—only two American assistants and ten Yugoslavs. The time has come, it seems to me, to say definitely and firmly that the narrow restrictions must be lifted. And then Washington must make sure that the service is expanded.

The importance of Tito's break with the Soviet Union may be exaggerated. The question is how great a restraining influence it exerts on Cominform intention and performance. But as proof that the might of the Soviet Union can be defied by a dissenter it is an example of major significance.

Political Economy

Case of The A. & P.

NOT SINCE the Standard Oil case of 40 years ago has an antitrust suit aroused such wide interest as the Government's suit to break up the A. & P., largest food chain in the United States.

The Government has already won a criminal case against the A. & P. In 1946, the chain was found guilty of violating the Sherman Antitrust Act, and after losing an appeal, it paid $175,000 in fines. The practices of which it was convicted are the basis for the Government's civil case.

The New York Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., holding company for the chain, is controlled by John and George Hartford, who own more than 99 percent of the voting stock.

The chain retails through seven regional divisions with a total of 5800 outlets, and does an annual business of nearly two billion dollars.

A. & P. sells not only the standard food brands, but also its own manufactured products, which are marketed under such trade names as Ann Page, Quaker Maid and White House milk. These are produced more cheaply than national brands because of their assured market and the absence of advertising and other usual costs of distribution. In the criminal case, the court held that the profits from food manufacturing were used to subsidize the retail sales and undersell competing brands.

The court also found that A. & P. used its position as a manufacturer to force price cuts from national manufacturers. In one case cited by the Government, A. & P. was granted a discount by Ralston Purina that was 350 percent higher than that received by any competitor, in return for A. & P.'s agreement not to manufacture flake cereals for five years. According to the court, when A. & P. got preferential discounts of this kind, suppliers had to raise their prices to A. & P.'s competitors to make up for them.

In the first case, the court found that A. & P. refused to deal with middlemen, or with manufacturers who sold through them. This was done to eliminate brokers: in the words of an A. & P. officer (cited by the court), "these brokers are dieing hard."

The present suit asks the court to break up the chain into seven separate regional chains, and to divorce the manufacturing and brokerage business of A. & P. from the retail outlets. The Government contends that this will result in lower prices for the consumer.

THE UNUSUAL aspect of this antitrust case is that the Federal court found A. & P. guilty, not of a conspiracy to keep prices up, but of a conspiracy that forced them down.

The decision makes quite clear that A. & P. was ruthless in cutting costs to itself and prices to the consumer, and that it made life uncomfortable, sometimes impossible, for certain food manufacturers, middlemen and retail competitors. But since competition is supposed to do just that, the question arises why its actions should be considered a restraint of trade.

The Government contended, and the court agreed, that suppliers could only grant discounts to A. & P. by raising prices to all other buyers. If this was the case, then presumably consumers would not really benefit from A. & P.'s lower prices.

Another finding, based on the same reasoning, was that A. & P. operated as many as 30 percent of its stores at a loss and "made up" the difference by charging higher prices in the others. As Judge Sherman Minton put it, in his appellate decision: "There must inevitably be a compensation somewhere in the system for a loss somewhere else, as the over-all policy of the company is to earn $7 per share . . ."

Despite this judicial reasoning, however, it is basic economics that a rational businessman will sell at prices that yield the highest profit. If Ralston Purina was already doing this before A. & P. got the high discount, it would have absolutely nothing to gain by raising prices to A. & P.'s competitors afterward.

On the contrary, Ralston Purina would lose less by lowering prices to the competitors. This would enable it to sell a larger share of output in the more profitable market—that is, to the companies that did not get the special discount.

In short, a preferential discount to the strong A. & P. would disadavantage Ralston Purina by cutting its profits. But both A. & P. and its competitors would pay lower prices, and so, ultimately, would the consumer.

Similarly, if A. & P. operated some of its stores at a loss, it does not follow that prices would be higher in the others. The same economic laws hold here; A. & P. would have absolutely nothing to gain by raising prices, because they would presumably be set already at the level that returned highest profits.

Judge Minton pointed out that the whole system had to earn $7 a share. If A. & P. could do this while operating as high as 30 percent of its stores at a loss, it only means that the chain was in a position to earn a lot more than $7 a share and chose not to do so.

Most of the other charges against A. & P. add up to ruthless cost cutting. That is the real meaning of the preferential discounts, advertising allowances, rebates, cheap manufacturing of food and the elimination of middlemen from the distribution picture. By virtue of its mass market A. & P. eliminated waste, inefficiency, and excessive markups all along the line and passed the benefit along to the consumer.

* * * *

THIS BRINGS us to the most important question: whether, as the Government charged in the criminal case, "the picture . . . is one of an ever-broadening and ever-ascending spiral of monopoly and trade restraint in the hands of A. & P."

Since the actions complained of go back to 1925, which is a generation ago, it is surprising that no evidence has ever been presented to prove that A. & P. has in fact any greater share of the market than it did a quarter of a century ago. What studies exist show, on the contrary, that its relative position has changed very little.

The case shakes down to this: A. & P. has competed so fiercely that it has beaten down profit margins at all levels from manufacturing to retailing, and it has passed the savings on to the consumer. In the process, a number of competitors may have gone out of business.

The Government believes that A. & P. has subjected competitors to "unreasonable hardships not produced by normal competitive forces." We suspect that "normal competitive forces" ought to be more rigorously defined.

Maybe we don't like to see anyone hurt by competition, particularly from anyone so big. But the last place we'd expect to find this doctrine cherished is in the antitrust division of the Department of Justice.

Noronic Blame Laid To Owners, Captain

Ottawa, Ontario, Nov. 21 (AP).—Justice R. L. Kellock today reported that the captain and owners were at fault for the disaster to the Great Lakes steamer Noronic, which burned at her Toronto dock September 17 with a loss of 118 lives.

Justice Kellock, appointed special royal commissioner to make a Transport Department investigation, filed a 30,000-word report of his long inquiry made in Toronto, Cleveland and Detroit.

He ordered Capt. William C. Taylor, 66-year-old master of the Noronic, to surrender his master's certificate for a year, and the Canada Steamship Lines, the owners, to pay the costs of the investigation.

Precautions Recommended

His report, filed in the Supreme Court and the Canadian House of Commons, recommended sweeping safety precautions on passenger-carrying Great Lakes ships for the future.

Informed sources estimated the costs of the inquiry at between $50,000 and $100,000.

The commissioner did not go into the questions of civil or criminal responsibility. Informed sources, however, said his 99-page conclusions could be used as the basis for the Ontario attorney general to place criminal charges, and for civil suits by survivors or relatives.

Frank Wilkinson, lawyer for the Canada Steamship Lines, said civil actions asking a total of $325,000 damages from the company already have been started in Cleveland.

All but one of the nearly 600 passengers were from the United States, mostly from the Cleveland and Detroit areas. Still unidentified are seven of the 118 victims.

Fire burst out in a linen closet on C deck of the cruise ship as she was docked at night. The cause was not determined.

The commissioner found:

There was no continuous patrol to detect fire.

There was no organization in operation while the ship was docked with passengers to transmit word of a fire to trained fire-fighters.

Only 15 men out of a crew of 171 were on duty the night of the fire.

Pacemaker Prices Set By Hudson

Hudson Motor Car Co. announced yesterday its new low-priced model, just introduced, [illegible] have a list price of from $1,675 to $1,795 at Detroit.

The lower figure is for the three-passenger coupe; the higher tag for the four-door sedan.

The new model, which Hudson has named the Pacemaker, went on public display in dealer show-rooms yesterday. It is the first of the new entrants in the lower priced field.

Truman Jeers At Republican $1 Box Lunch

By The Associated Press

President Truman twitted the Republicans yesterday for planning a $1 box supper here in celebration of Lincoln Day.

Three White House callers quoted him as saying:

'You know why they are doing that? That is the only way they can raise any money."

The callers, officers of the District of Columbia Young Democratic Club, were John Foley, president; Don Junior, treasurer, and David Bunn, national committeeman.

They said Mr. Truman laughed heartily when they suggested the Republicans were hoping to line up the 'poor folks" vote and knew they couldn't get any customers at a higher rate than $1 for their February event.

The Democrats are planning a $100-a-plate dinner at New York's Waldorf-Astoria December 2.

The main business of the callers was to ask that Mr. Truman address a meeting of their organization sometime after the first of the year. They said he promised he would.

Don Junior is a son of Fred E. Junior of Kansas City, a member of President Truman's World War I outfit, Battery D of the 129th Field Artillery.

B. & O. Revenue Drop Blamed on Strikes

Baltimore, Nov. 21 (AP).—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad was doing fine until the coal and steel strikes came along, President Roy B. White told the annual stockholders' meeting today.

Then the roof fell in. The B. & O. lost an estimated 14 million dollars in revenues in eight weeks.

The President's Calling List

President Truman yesterday had the following White House appointments:

11:15—Senator Johnston (D. S. C.).

11:30—John Foley, president, Young Democrats of District of Columbia, with Don Junior, treasurer.

11:45—Chairman Spence (D., Ky.) of House Banking Committee.

12 noon—Lieut. Gen. Sir Neil Cantlie, director general, British Army Medical Service, with Maj. Gen. R. W. Bliss, surgeon general.

12:15 p. m.—Oscar R. Ewing, Federal Security administrator.

12:30—Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

3:15—Budget Director Pace.

Ancient Madder Ties
Our own English imports

No other ties in the world have the coloring and character of Ancient Madders. This is an ancient art that skilled workers in Crayford, England, perpetuate. "'Madder" red dates back to 1260; indigo blue to 1560; all the colors are always softly muted. The hand-blocking method, similar to batik, is also centuries old.

Our new collection from England brings you traditional paisleys and geometric patterns on beautiful, thirty-ounce, pure silk twill. All are fifty inches long. Colors are madder red, subdued green, blue, yellow, and brown. Select some now for Christmas gifts . . . and don't neglect yourself.

Outcome of Virginia Hearing May Raise D. C. Gas Rates

A factor which allegedly could cause a further increase in Washington gas rates was developed yesterday at a Federal Power Commission hearing on which of two natural gas companies shall serve several Virginia cities.

Both Piedmont Natural Gas Corp. and Commonwealth Natural Gas Corp. want to serve Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, Portsmouth, Petersburg, Hopewell and Suffolk. Piedmont also wants to serve cities in the Carolinas.

Piedmont's efforts to show that gas rates in Washington would be increased if Commonwealth's application is approved came out during cross-examination of R. J. Ryder, Charleston, W. Va., vice president of Atlantic Seaboard (and Virginia Gas) Transmission Corp., on his company's plan to supply natural gas to Commonwealth.

Lower Quality Due

Ryder testified that beginning in 1950, Atlantic Seaboard, which now serves Washington, would be delivering gas of a lower heating quality here. This would result from the company's using larger amounts of gas from the southwest to augment the higher-quality gas from the Appalachian region.

If the Commonwealth application is approved and there are no compensatory adjustments made otherwise, one expert told a reporter, the higher heating value gas which Washington now receives would be to a larger extent diverted to the Virginia cities.

Might Boost Costs

This, it was said, might result in an increase in costs to the Washington Gas Light Co.—and hence, possibly, an increase in rates to consumers.

The hearings, which has been in progress several weeks, had previously developed another factor which also might affect rates paid by gas users here.

Ryder had testified that beginning March 1 his company plans to ask for a tariff increase on its sales to the Washington Gas Light Co.

Gas Co. Participating

For 1950 this proposed increase would boost the present cost of gas to the company here from $5,900,000 to $6,678,000; for 1951 from $6,300,000 to $7,267,140; for 1952 from $6,700,000 to $7,814,760, and for 1953 from $7,000,000 to $8,309,780.

Effective last Wednesday gas rates for District consumers went up an average of 6.14 per cent.

The Washington Gas Light Co. is participating as an intervenor in the present hearings. Howard B. Noyes, vice president, said his firm was watching the hearings closely "to protect the interests of the company and of gas users in Washington."

2250 Dogs Given Rabies Injections

A total of 2250 dogs was given rabies vaccinations Saturday at seven stations in Montgomery County, the county health department announced yesterday.

The stations were set up in cooperation with the Maryland Livestock Sanitary Service and county veterinarian after the County Council invoked a quarantine for the major portion of Takoma Park and Silver Spring. The restriction followed biting of nine children in the Four Corners section by a rabid dog. Owners are required to keep their dogs confined or on leash until February 15.

Group Inspects Road Work In Maryland

Road improvements estimated to cost some five million dollars were inspected in southern Maryland yesterday by a touring party of State roads officials and newspaper and radio reporters.

The tour was the last of seven conducted by the roads commission to publicize its three-ear 75 million-dollar improvement program.

The party, headed by Russell H. McCain, State Roads Commissioner, watched a mountain of earth being leveled on a million-dollar bypass around Upper Marlboro.

The bypass is one of the major improvements mapped out for the highway system in Prince Georges, Charles, Calvert and St. Marys counties, largely under the supervision of Chief Engineer Joseph H. Chaney of the Fifth Road District.

One official said enough earth is being moved on the bypass, involving 7245 miles of roadway, to form a five-foot layer on the 30-mile dual lane Governor Ritchie highway between Baltimore and Annapolis.

The bypass will eliminate trafiv tieups in Marlboro by motorists using Route 301.

Other projects viewed included the site of the projected bridge over the Patuxent River to link Charles and Calvert Counties at a cost of more than two million dollars. Bids on the span are to be opened December 20.

The group also inspected the site of the Prince Frederick bypass to be constructed shortly at a cost of between $250,000 and $300,000.

The bypass will stem from the junction of Rout 2 and Route 402 and will lead to Maryland beach resorts.

Fairfax Telephone Users Cut Short

Telephone subscribers on the Fairfax exchange went without the use of their phones from 7:45 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. yesterday, except locally, when a cable was ripped apart by construction equipment.

The break occurred on Lee hgwy. near Westmoreland rd. in Falls Church. Some calls were handled through the Vienna trunk, but in most cases required a 2-to-4 hour delay to complete.

Real Estate Promoter Indicted On Larceny Counts in Fairfax

A Fairfax County grand jury yesterday indicted Richard S. Lusk, 43, head of the corporation that promoted Woodlawn Manor subdivision near Mount Vernon, on three counts of grand larceny.

At the same time—in Alexandria Federal District Court—Judge John Paul dismissed a petition seeking to force Lusk's group, Veterans Housing Corp., into involuntary bankruptcy.

The grand jury, sworn in yesterday for the November term, indicted Lusk, who lives in the subdivision, on complaint of Channing L. Pace, 3100 S. Hill st., Arlington, a Patent Office patent examiner. Pace charges he paid Lusk $3000 on a house that has never been completed and that he never received.

The involuntary bankruptcy petition filed against the corporation was dismissed by Judge Paul on grounds that three of the four petitioners—all residents of Woodlawn Manor—were unqualified as creditors under the law.

Judge Paul agreed the fourth petitioner—Pace—qualified as a creditor. The law, however, specifies that three such creditors are required to maintain a petition of involuntary bankruptcy, he said.

He held that the other plaintiffs, George M. Gohn, jr., Gustav G. Lindstrom, and James G. Chandler, since they are living in homes in the subdivision, are not properly creditors because their claims have not been liquidated.

Besides Lusk, the grand jury returned indictments against ten other persons yesterday, including charges of grand larceny and housebreaking.

FALSE TEETH
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

District Pilgrim Descendants Mark Compact Birthday

Descendants of the Pilgrims who signed the first Mayflower Compact off Cape Cod in 1620 met last night to observe the 329th anniversary of that historic occasion.

The group, members of the District Society of Mayflower Descendants, held their annual Compact Day dinner at the Kennedy-Warren Apartments.

Maj. Gen. Karl Truesdell, USA (ret.), declared the compact marked the first time people in America were able to make their own laws and elect their own officers.

"This humble beginning," he said, "laid the groundwork for such great and historic documents as the Bill of Rights and the Constitution. It was civil liberty at the ground floor."

Pay for Injury Denied Husband as Employe

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 21 (U.P.).—The New Jersey Supreme Court today decided a husband, employed by his wife, cannot collect workmen's compensation for an injury suffered at his job.

The court divided 5-2 in holding "a contract of hire between husband and wife is entirely devoid and unenforceable by law."

Leon J. Bendler, 46, of Fairview, N. J., appealed for compensation for the paralysis of his right arm incurred while he was working in his wife's embroidery plant.

Baby Taken From Parents' Car At Dance, Raped and Slain

Fresno, Calif., Nov. 21 (AP).—A 25-year-old cotton picker was booked tonight on a charge of murder in the brutal rape slaying of 17-month-old Josephine Yanez.

Deputy Sheriff Hubert Nevins said the man, Paul Gutierrez, admitted in a statement that he had "spanked" the baby a bit but had blacked out and did not remember exactly what had happened.

He was arrested this afternoon near Huron, the tiny cotton-growing community near where the child was raped and smothered and thrown in the mud.

The little victim was a daughter of Joe Yanez, 29, a ranch worker, and his wife, Teya, 22. She was kidnaped from their car just after midnight Sunday morning.

The couple had attended a dance at Huron. They couldn't get a baby sitter, so they took turns tending Josephine and her 2-month-old sister, Gloria, in the car. As they were ready to leave for home, Yanez went into the hall for a moment to talk to his wife. when they returned, Josephine was gone.

All This, This, This, This, This And 3 Fish, Too

Wilne, Eng., Nov. 21 (AP).—Samuel William Rose, 25, saw an airplane crash on the opposite side of the River Derwent while he was fishing. This is what he did:

Stripped and swam 100 yards across the flooded river;

Ripped off a wing of the wrecked plane to release the pilot and a passenger.

Made first-aid splints from pieces of a fence;

Trotted one-and-a-half miles in his underwear to get an ambulance;

Helped the ambulance men get the two injured men off to a hospital.

Then he went back to his fishing and caught three perch.

State ABC Store Safe Yields Yeggs $9307

Richmond, Va., Nov. 21 (AP).—Safecrackers over the weekend blasted a safe in a State ABC store in Richmond's West End and made off with $9307,, Jean K. Walton, store manager reported.

The thieves entered through a skylight.

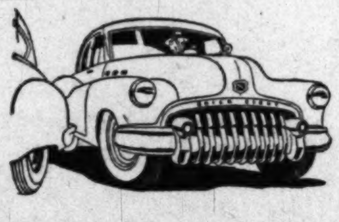
What a whale of a difference when Oil does it all!

WHAT DO WE MEAN when we say that in Dynaflow Drive* "oil does it all"?

Simply that in Dynaflow Drive, the spinning of oil in the Dynaflow unit does what you have long needed shifting gears to accomplish. For instance—



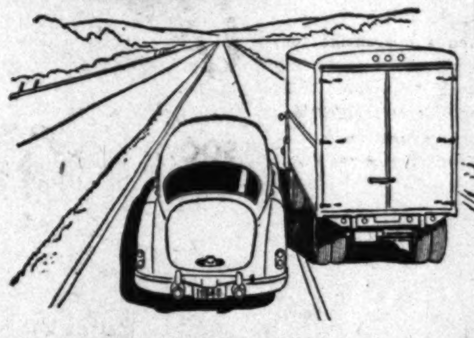
Here you are starting out. In most cars, you have to throw out a clutch and shift into low gear to get starting power. In Dynaflow, you simply set your lever in Driving position—and nudge the gas treadle.

Oil spins in a sealed drum to give you all the power needed for starting—but there's no transmission gear-whine whatever.

Now you are beginning to move. In most cars, you shift manually—into second, then third—each time repeating that press-the-pedal-move-the-lever routine.

With Dynaflow, oil simply spins in a different path within the Dynaflow unit and you move into cruising pace easy as a bird taking off.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.



Here's a slow-moving vehicle you want to pass. In other cars you may have to shift again—with a definite loss of forward motion. That means a lag before you get action—and maybe another shift back into high after you have passed.

Not so with Dynaflow. Just step on the throttle, and spinning oil takes the path to give you extra power for passing. Response is as fast as engine response—practically instantaneous.

Here's a common traffic situation. Usually you go into second or low—in order to get a good fast getaway.

With Dynaflow, just press the gas treadle, never touching the shift lever. Spinning oil will find the proper channel of flow to give you getaway power—power that's ever-smooth—and great enough to step you out smartly and with unbroken, velvety smoothness.

Does that mean you never shift at all? Not quite.

For emergency braking power, for starts on very steep hills with heavy loads, for rocking out of sand or snow, you may occasionally change to Emergency Low range. This simply puts the entire Dynaflow operation into an extra powerful range.

But for all normal driving, you can use Driving range entirely. Oil will travel whatever course is required to give you the kind of power you need without any gear-changing whatever.

To see what a whale of a difference that makes—in ease, freedom of mind, and restfulness in a long day—ask your Buick dealer for a demonstration.

That, plus some very particular advantages in economy of upkeep, will convince you that Dynaflow is truly the "drive of the future."

Far-Reaching Changes In Civil Service System Are to Be Proposed

The Congress will be asked to make far-reaching changes in the Civil Service system.

The text of a proposed special message by the President on Civil Service reforms is being drafted jointly by the Civil Service Commission and the Budget Bureau. It will be the Administration's answer and counter proposals to the personnel recommendations made earlier this year by the Hoover Commission on Government Reorganization. Among the Administration proposals will be:

1. That agency heads be given greater authority to make a choice of persons for middle and higher-bracket jobs on Civil Service eligible registers, and that the present practice of selecting one of the first three eligibles be dropped;

2. That the Veterans Preference Act be modified to provide additional job security for long-time nonveteran career employes during reductions in force, and to force veterans to get a passing mark on Civil Service tests before preference points can be added.

3. That the Civil Service Commission be given the authority to fix salaries of classified and postal employes within maximums and minimums of the various grades set by Congress, and,

4. That the commission be given the power to coordinate the work of the many agency wage boards that determine the salaries of the 500,000 so-called per diem workers.

The Administration's plan will be a compromise with the Hoover proposals. The Hoover group recommended further steps in all areas. For example, it indorsed a plan to fix the salaries of postal and low and middle bracket classified employes through area wage boards.

EFFICIENCY RATINGS: The Civil Service Commission has switched signals and it's leaning toward the Hoover Commission's recommendation on an efficiency rating system.

The Hoover group proposed that the rating not be used to either reward or penalize Federal workers; that they be used by the supervisors to bring about a better relationship, through conferences, with their employes. The commission, however, is still searching for an effective formula to be used in promotions and firings.

This is certain—the commission will go along on congressional demands to junk the present employe practice of appealing efficiency ratings unless that system can be speeded up. The major complaints against the appeals procedure are:

That the rating official is put on "trial" during appeal hearings instead of the employe; that it frequently takes a year or so to dispose of appealed cases, and that supervisors have a tendency to give inferior emloyes good or better ratings to prevent the time-consuming appeals and all the trouble accompanying them.

FIRINGS: Meantime, a committee of the Federal Personnel Council has come up with a plan to make it easier to fire incompetent workers. Members and committees of Congress have insisted repetedly that it's too complex to fire people out of Government and the Civil Service Commission has been asked to streamline its present system. The council committee recommended:

1. That the agencies make a careful check of the work record of each probational employe before he's certified for permanent status. It's a relatively simple matter to discharge an employe during his six-month probationary period;

2. That agency heads be given the power to suspend any employe up to 30 days for cause without giving him a written and detailed statement of charges;

3. That the present appeal rights of veterans direct to the Civil Service Commission be restricted. The veterans would have their appeals first heard in their own agencies, and,

4. That hearings on efficiency rating appeals be confined to agency boards under a definite time restriction and that any appeal to Civil Service would have to be on the written record.

These suggestions will get close study by both the Civil Service Commission and the Budget Bureau.

Rubens, Rembrandt: Their Contrasting Fortunes Are 'Written' On Self-Portraits

By Jane Watson Crane

Among the paintings from Vienna now on view at the National Gallery of Art are self-portraits by Rubens and Rembrandt, two of the greatest artists the world has known. They lived at the same time and in the same part of the world, but were miles apart in all other respects. Their contrasting fortunes are written on their faces.

Rubens was not only an extraordinarily prolific painter, but a man of the world. He was handsome, well-connected and a born diplomat. He was employed by princes and lived much as they did. If there were shadows in his life, he did not communicate them through his painting.

He was concerned with the outward and visible and his work reveals a world of light and splendor. Fortune favored him till the day he died unexpectedly at 63 without having suffered any prolonged illness, decline in prestige or creative powers.

A Life Half In Shadow

Rembrandt's life was half in shadow, as are his paintings. In his declining years he was both ill and broke. He had a period of prosperity, but while he never indulged himself for personal comfort, he was an ardent collector of books and art objects and his spending put him heavily in debt. An introvert, whose search was for character rather than beauty, he won admiration but little understanding.

At the height of his powers he had commissions from the rich and powerful, but was never at home in their company. His sympathies were with the underdog, and his preferred companions were the humble and obscure.

Reflection of Their Times

Rubens' home was in Antwerp, Flanders; Rembrandt's first in Leyden and later in Amsterdam, Holland. In part, the two reflect the division which occurred in the Netherlands in their time, when Flanders remained Catholic and part of the empire of the Habsburgs and Holland became a Protestant republic.

The Rubens self-portrait was painted shortly before the artist died. The Rembrandt was done when he was past middle age. Although both painted their families frequently, the only other family painting by either shown here is a study of Rembrandt's son, Titus, who stood by his father in the last years of want and misery and preceded him to the grave by one year.

8282 Attend 1st Weekday Showing of Austrian Art

Attendance at the National Gallery of Art yesterday—first weekday of the exhibition of "Art Treasures From Vienna"—totaled 8282 persons. Sunday 41,725 crowded the gallery for the opening.

Dr. Ernst Buschbeck, curator of paintings at the Kunsthistorisches Museum, Vienna, and for the exhibition, last night gave an illustrated lecture on the pictures at Catholic University before members of the American Association of University Professors.

Dr. Buschbeck, Dr. Erich V. Strommer, curator of sculptures and other objets d'art, and other members of the Viennese party that brought the collection to the United States, will leave Washington Wednesday for Austria. They will return in mid-January to superintend transfer of the exhibition to New York.

Macgill James, assistant director of the gallery, said the exhibition will be open Thanksgiving Day from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m., as on other weekdays. Visiting hours are from 2 to 10 p. m. Sundays.

Airport Heads' Views Vary on Cabbie Rights

The controversy over the rights of District cabbies at National Airport was still up in the air yesterday.

Anticabbie forces seemed to be at least in temporary disagreement as to what fares, if any, District hackers can pick up at the airport.

Jack H. Royer, jr., president of Combine Cab Service, Inc., representing nine District companies with some 1500 cabbies, said he wants to obtain official okay principally for two types of pickups:

1. Bring a District fare to the airport, then wait at the passenger's request while the passenger buys tickets or sees friends off, etc., then return the passenger to the District.

2. Respond to phone calls from those who call District cab companies from the airport.

Bennett H. Griffin, airport director, said it is a legal question which he will discuss with CAA attorneys, but added that he thinks both types of pickup are contrary to airport regulations, which in turn "closely follow" the airport contract giving Airport Transport, Inc., exclusive limousine and taxi concession.

But Moe Lerner, general manager of Airport Transport, said he has no objections to the first type of pickup and added he isn't sure but thinks there would be no objection to the second type, either.

He said his firm now operates 38 limousines and five cabs. The cabs, with meters adjusted to the Arlington County cab rate, he said, were first put on the route November 7, when the company decided to insist on its exclusive contract rights.

He said two more cabs will be put in service this week and more will be used as and when needed. He said he isn't sure how much the meter fare runs on a trip to downtown Washington, but "guessed" about $1.50.

Royer, who wrote to Griffith a warning that cabbies might boycott the airport or jack up fares unless the restrictions are eased, said cabs are meanwhile taking fares to the airport and waiting for passengers who so request.

Two Bolling Field GIs Held In Auto Theft Crackdown

Two 19-year-old Bolling Air Force Base privates were ordered held in $2000 bond for a Federal grand jury yesterday in an FBI crackdown on automobile thefts in Greater Washington.

Arraigned before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence were William Alfred Lawson and Morris Broderick Stoddard.

A third Bolling airman, Pvt. Richard J. Adsit, 20, was held under $1000 bond on Friday on the same charge of transporting a stolen vehicle across a State line. His case was continued by Commissioner Lawrence until November 30.

Lawson and Stoddard were arrested after they allegedly stole a convertible belonging to M/Sergt. Ira G. Cunningham at Bolling, on July 29, the FBI said.

The car was kept in a private garage in Southeast Washington for a week before the two airmen sold it to Adsit, who took it to Meadville, Pa., according to the FBI.

Stoddard has signed a statement admitting theft of three other cars, while Lawson has confessed to stealing two others, FBI agents reported.

The FBI said Stoddard was on three years' probation in New York City on a charge involving attempted theft of a car.

Man Caught Hiding Numbers Slips Held

Alexandria police yesterday charged a man with operating a numbers game after, they reported, they caught him stuffing about 100 numbers slips into a flashlight.

Arrested was Eddie Sumner, 38, 417 N. Alfred st., Alexandria. He was released in $1000 bond for a hearing at 10 a. m. today in Civil and Police Court.

Soldiers' Home to Maintain Control in VA Hospital Plan

The Veterans Administration will not take over the administration of Soldiers' Home under a proposed plan whereby VA would build a nine-million-dollar hospital on the home's reservation, a Budget Bureau spokesman said last night.

The proposal, now "in the discussion stage," would turn over about 25 or 30 acres of the more-than-500-acre reservation to VA for a 500-bed hospital, the spokesman said. He indicated eventual plans might call for a further transfer of land on which VA could build administrative headquarters, if Congress appropriates funds for such construction.

Maj. Gen. Howard K. Loughrey (ret.), governor of Soldiers' Home, said the proposed transfer of land for a hospital has been "taken under advisement" by the home's board of commissioners.

General Loughry said the board asked for further information and he flatly stated that the home would not be taken over by VA.

Loughry said the governor is appointed by the President, on recommendation of the Army Secretary and that the board of commissioners includes, besides himself, the Army Adjutant General, Chief of Engineers, Quartermaster General, Chief of Finance, Judge Advocate General and the Surgeon General. Many acts of the board of commisioners, he added, are subject to approval of the Army Secretary.

If the proposal goes through, the Budget Bureau spokesman said the transfer of land could be worked out as follows:

The Army Secretary, on recommendation of the board of commissioners of the home, would declare some of the land surplus to the General Services Administration. Then VA would request the site. It would be transferred to VA, with VA paying for it.

VA, it was learned, is also interested in trying to arrange, eventually, for a site for a central headquarters. Currently VA activities, manned by some 15,000 personnel, sprawl out over six locations here.

ABC Permit Renewers Must Appear

1700 D. C. Licensees Will Be Affected By New Regulation; Unit Members Critical

A new system for renewing District liquor licenses has been ordered into effect, it was learned yesterday.

The new system will require the personal appearance before the Alcoholic Beverage Control board of every applicant for a license renewal.

Thus, in sessions between now and February 1, the ABC board in formal hearings will call the roll of every person seeking renewal of a District liquor license—an estimated 1700 or more.

Payne Outlines System

Previously, they had to appear in person only in the event protests against the license renewal made a public hearing necessary.

Alan W. Payne, chairman of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission, outlined the new system yesterday. He said it was ordered to conform with a District Corporation Counsel's oral ruling that the system previously used did not exactly fulfill the terms of the ABC law.

ABC officials made no secret of the fact they liked the old system better. They fear the new one may be confusing and troublesome.

Notice of the change has been sent to liquor license holders. It refers to the public placards which must be posted on their premises giving public notice of the application for license renewal. The placards, which must be displayed at least two weeks, fix the time and place of hearing on the renewal application, and point out that protests may be made then. Under the old system, the placards fixed a deadline for filing protests; if any were received, the time for hearing them was then set.

5 or 6 Protested

Usually, five or six applications a year have been protested, ABC officials said.

About 150 placards are now being posted on the premises of early applicants for license renewal. The first hearing date under the new system is December 2. From then through January the regular hearing days renewals will be Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, in the ABC hearing room in the Municipal Center Building, 3d and Indiana ave. nw.

$1000 Fire Hits Bakery Near Avenue-8th

A two-alarm fire, which did an estimated $1000 damage to the third floor of a restaurant-bakery building, tied up traffic for a time last night on Pennsylvania ave. near 8th st. nw.

The damaged structure was occupied by Wasser's Vienna Bakery, at 811 Market sp. nw. Thomas J. Terry, 33, of 515 71st st. ne., manager, told firemen he was mixing a fruitcake on the second floor when he smelled smoke. He went to the third floor and found a men's locker room for employes ablaze.

Battalion Chief J. W. Kay estimated the damage at $1000. He said the fire was confined to the men's locker room and a small area of the third floor, which is used principally for storage. However, Terry said damage will total $3000 to $5000, including goods and supplies.

U. S. Tax Lien Filed Against Building Firm

The Bureau of Internal Revenue yesterday filed lien notices claiming unpaid income or other Federal taxes against a District contracting firm, an after-hours drinking club and a local couple.

Those named in the notices, filed in District Court, were:

The Syndicated Construction Corp., 100 Southern ave. se., alleged to have withheld $26,566.73 in Federal insurance contributions and Federal unemployment taxes in 1947, 1948 and 1949.

The Stagecrafters Club, Inc., 433 3d st. nw., alleged to owe $2587.26 in cabaret and withholding taxes and Federal insurance contributions between February and September, 1949.

Sam Gildar, 1740 N. Portal dr. nw., who according to the lien notice owes the Government $8403.08 for 1943 income taxes.

His wife, Hanna Gildar, of the same address, alleged to owe $17,109.39 for 1944 income taxes.

Gildar, who is the manager of the National Laundry Co., Inc., said he thought the tax cases referred to had been settled by his attorney. Mrs. Gildar, who is the secretary-treasurer of the Decker Distributing Co., wholesale liquor dealers, said she "wouldn't say it was true" that she owed the taxes.

Charles E. Campbell, president of the Syndicated Construction Corp., said the tax lien notice was "news" to him. He said he did not know what the situation was, adding, "If we owe the Government any money, we'll have to pay it."

Ex-School Boxer, 18, Penalized For Slapping Girl at Dance

An 18-year-old brunette who came out second best in the recent Bethesda Trade Show beauty contest yesterday won a hands-down decision over a former junior college boxing champ and football star.

Abernethy

Penalized for slapping Miss Connie Butts in the face was Gene G. Abernethy, 18, of 6300 Broad st., Brookmont, Md. The incident occurred at a Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School Halloween dance October 31.

Judge James R. Miller in Bethesda Police Court generally suspended sentence against Abernethy—on condition his father prevent him from using his automobile until February 1.

"It is a most insulting act for a boy over 6 feet tall to strike a young girl in the face with his open hand," Judge Miller told the youth, whose father, William, was also in court.

Roger C. Butts, 106 Lucas la. Bethesda, father of the girl, swore out the warrant against young Abernethy, charging assault and battery after his daughter was slapped in an argument.

The boy protested to a reporter after the hearing that "I'm still innocent."

Miss Butts said she had another date for the dance and that Abernethy came up to her and slapped her face.

An end on last year's Montgomery Junior College football team and the champion intra-mural boxer in his weight class, Abernethy is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 185 pounds.

Miss Butts, a senior at Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School who placed second in the Bethesda Trade Show beauty contest October 1, is 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 120 pounds.

At the same session of court, Judge Miller disciplined another 18-year-old boy who is a student at Montgomery Junior College.

Maurice M. Smith, 131 Kingsley ave., Bethesda, was given a 15-day suspended jail sentence and had his driver's permit taken up until September 1 on a charge of driving a car 60 miles per hour in the Bethesda residential section November 1.

Judge Miller told Smith, who was also charged with passing two stop signs, that he would not levy a fine because "your father would pay that."

The judge said Smith would be on probation for two years, a sentence he hoped would be a deterrent to "other youthful drivers."

Woman Says Swindler Got $2800 Ring

Love, sudden and almost overwhelming on a warm spring night last May 15, cost Cecelia R. Earhart a $2800 diamond ring and $12 cash, according to an indictment in District Court yesterday.

A sweet and fast-talking swain whom she had met a few days before in a New York drug store, came to Washington to visit her. In her auto, he proposed marriage repeatedly. Breathlessly he told of his sudden affection for her.

He obtained the ring from her, she told police, on the promise he wanted it only for size. He was about to have his mother's engagement ring made over for her, he said.

After obtaining it, she told officers, he asked her to wait in her car while he went into the Statler Hotel, at 4 a. m., "to see a minister." He didn't return.

He was identified as Jessie T. Vaughn, 31, originally of New Orleans. Yesterday's indictment charged him with grand larceny. Detective Lloyd Furr of the robbery squad said Vaughn, now serving a year in Chicago for a similar offense, freely admitted Miss Earhart's charges.

Miss Earhart, plump and "in her forties" told police she met Vaughn in a drug store in New York, that several days later he fulfilled a promise to come to Washington and telephone her.

The ring, she said, had a platinum setting with a center diamond of 1.7 carats, 6 baguette diamonds, and 24 other smaller ones.

On Vaughn's profession that he had to send telegrams but had nothing smaller than $500 bills, she gave him $12, she told police.

Dr. Earhart is now in Toledo, Ohio, as a home economics expert on the staff of the Rural Electrification Administration.

While assigned here, she roomed at 718 S. Veitch st., Arlington.

Eight Indicted As Perverted; 3 Are Women

Five men and three women were charged with perversion offenses in indictments returned yesterday by the District grand jury.

One man, listed as Perley D. Cooper, 23, of 923 6th st. nw., was accused of taking indecent liberties with a 2-year-old girl with intent to gratify his "lust and passions."

According to police, the infant's father walked into her bedroom September 25 to find Cooper naked in bed with her. A hospital examination revealed that the little girl had been injured, police said.

The indictment against George P. Souder, 29, of Laurel, Md., accuses him of taking indecent liberties with a 7-year-old boy. Eddie Ling Toy, 54, of the basement of 1821 Lamont st. nw., is charged with improper liberties with a 9-year-old boy.

Women Indicted

Mrs. Jean S. English, 33, of 1212 M st. nw., and Mrs. Mildred V. Stevens, 34, of 1314 N st. nw., were charged with perverted sexual practice. Mrs. English, in another indictment, and Betty Collins, 24, of 817 L st. nw., were charged with perverted practice.

Amaurrilis Mirones, 47, of 1525 M st. nw., and Samuel C. Gales, 39, of 216 K st. sw., were also accused of perversion.

Clyde Shropshire, jr., 33, of 617 8th st. ne., was indicted as having stolen a total of eight typewriters from various businesses and Government agencies here and pawned the instruments. Included were typewriters stolen from The Washington Post Co., Wells Organizations, Inc., the old District Building, the guard office at Temporary V Building, General Services Administration, Geological Survey, main Navy Building, and the Civil Service Building.

Accused of Store Theft

Luther S. Johnson, 27, of 446 R st. nw., was accused of breaking into the store of David Hirschtick, 1616 7th st. nw., and looting it of $813 in clothes.

George W. McLain, 23, Mooresville, N. C., was charged with lifting $217 in jewelry from Edward E. Ayre, Inc., of the Mayflower Hotel

Downtown Merchants Asked To Stay Open Late Thursdays

A drive to encourage downtown merchants to stay open Thursday evenings during December until Christmas was launched yesterday as the start of a campaign to recoup trade lost to suburban Maryland and Virginia.

Twenty-six retailers, meeting at the Chicken Hut Restaurant, pledged themselves to urge fellow merchants to get behind the program.

Edward I. Cowan of the Young Men's Shop told the retailers downtown parking lots now filled during the daytime are almost empty at night, providing ample space for evening shoppers.

His company, which has had Thursday night hours for several months, found 13 percent of its business on Thursdays came between 6 and 9 p. m. and was "extra business, not taken away from other days."

Sid Bertram of Bertram's Pipe Shop, chairman of the committee advancing the program, described Washington as "the only city on the entire Atlantic seaboard that does not have a night opening." He said that if the smaller stores "bring the people down Thursday nights, the department stores will open, too."

Bertram said plans for a Christmas parade and pageant have been shelved because of lack of time for preparations, but other special events will be scheduled in subsequent months to attract crowds downtown.

The Thursday night opening program was approved by the Federation of Businessmens Associations after Bertram, a delegate from the Central Businessmens Association, proposed it.

Slips Taken In Raid on Snags' House Identified

Waiter Put Numbers On Reverse Side Of Table Checks, Gaming Jury Told

By Benjamin Bradlee
Post Reporter

James Theodore (Single-Action) Trice, an admitted numbers player, yesterday identified as his own, four of the hundreds of numbers slips seized March 25 when William "Snags" Lewis and 13 others were arrested.

Trice told the District Court jury trying the 14 that he was known as "Single-Action" in numbers circles "because that's how I play them—one number at a time."

Now an employe of Freedmen's Hospital, Trice testified he worked as a waiter at Wearley's Restaurant, 418 12th st. nw., when he wrote the numbers slips found in an air-conditioned, sound-proofed room of a bungalow at 4310 46th ave. Bladensburg, Md. The Government claims the 14 defendants operated a 14 million dollar a year gambling syndicate from this room.

Written on Waiter Checks

Trice testified he could identify the slips as his because they were written on the back of waiter checks bearing his number and in his handwriting. Some of the numbers, on the back of Wearley menus, were dated March 23 and 24, just before the raid.

Speaking in a hushed voice after being warned by Judge Matthew F. McGuire that he did not have to answer questions which he felt would incriminate him, Trice also testified that:

1. After he had written his numbers he turned them over to a man he identified as John Barnes, a cook at Wearley's.

2. The numbers slips were then picked up from Barnes by a man he identified as Frank Billeci, 41, 509 Margaret dr., Silver Spring, Md., a then Times-Herald circulation man, who also has been indicted by the special gambling grand jury which indicted Lewis.

Both Billeci and Barnes were brought in to District Court and positively identified by Trice.

How Lottery Works

Earlier yesterday, vice squad head Lieut. Roy Blick appeared for the Government as an expert on lotteries and explained how the numbers lottery is operated in the Washington area.

He said local gamblers paid 600 to 1 when "straight" numbers—all three digits—were hit, unless it was a "cut" number—one which had come up too often—in which case they paid no more than 400 to 1. "Single action" bets—one one number, paid 8 to 1, he said.

Blick said numbers writers no longer are dating numbers slips out of respect for the law.

At the start of the morning session, Judge McGuire listened to arguments by Charles E. Ford, who with Myron G. Erlich represents all the defendants except Lewis, attacking the validity of the execution of the search and arrest warrants carried by United States marshals at the time of the raid.

Judge McGuire said Judge Edward M. Curran already had ruled both warrants were valid, "and I see no error in what Judge Curran has done," but agreed to "reserve" his decision on Ford's arguments.

Hunter, Passenger, Marine Die in Crashes

An Arlington man, bound for a deer hunt, and an unidentified passenger in his car were killed yesterday when the auto overturned in Virginia. A Marine died at the Patuxent Naval Air Station dispensary as result of a motorcycle accident in Maryland.

Woodrow W. Fletcher, 23, of 311 S. Adams st., died early in the day when his car skidded and overturned on Route 50, near Paris, Va. No other auto was involved, officers said.

Mr. Fletcher's family said he took no one with him on the trip to Frederick County, Va., and they believed the other dead man was a hitchhiked. He was described as under 50, of fair complexion and black hair, with a week's growth of beard.

A native of Washington, Mr. Fletcher was a driver for the Super Concrete Corp., here. He leaves his wife, who is expecting a child; a daughter, Pamela, 2½ years old; a son, Kenneth, 1 year old; his mother, Mrs. Annie B. Smith, and a sister, Mrs. Girard H. Kroon of the Adams st. address; his father, Norman Fletcher, and his grandmother, Mrs. Owen Wicker, both of Philomont, Va. A brother, Francis Fletcher, was killed in Belgium in the last war.

Funeral services will take place at 2 p. m., Friday, at the Chambers chapel, 3072 M st. nw., and burial will be at Cedar Hill Cemetery.

The Marine who died was Corpl. Bruce L. Kellogg, 24, stationed at the Navy Annex in Arlington. At Patuxent Naval Air Station, officers said he was riding a motorcycle about 2 p. m. Sunday, on Route 235, near Laurel Grove, Md., when it met with an accident. Details were not available.

He was taken in a private ambulance to the dispensary, where he died at 2:07 p. m. yesterday. Officers said his home was listed as Merryville, La., and gave his next of kin as Staff Sergt. Clyde Kellogg, stationed at Pearl Harbor.

Eugene Collins, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Collins, of Morningside, Md., suffered a possible skull fracture yesterday when he tumbled from the rear door of the family car to the pavement.

Mrs. Collins told police the car was being driven near their home by her son LeRoy, 18, with Eugene in the back seat, when the child apparently bumped the rear door latch. The family took him to Casualty Hospital, where he was reported in fair condition.

Man Held for Using False Auto Sticker

Since it isn't every 15-year-old auto that can sport a Virginia State inspection sticker, it's likely to make a policeman investigate when he spots one.

That led to the arrest of Michael M. Groggs, 23, of 423 Cameron st., Alexandria, for illegal possession of the sticker. In Alexandria Police Court yesterday, he said he bought it for $5 and pasted it on his 1934 car.

TB Seal Campaign Starts As First Supply Is Mailed

Reni

Mrs. Clark receives first Yule seals delivered in District

The District's annual Christmas Seal sale was officially launched yesterday as Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, treasurer of the United States, received the first sheet of the stamps from the local tuberculosis association.

The first of 45 million seals now in the mails for District residents, they were delivered to Mrs. Clark by E. D. Hart of 714 D st. sw., 69-year-old letter carrier from the Connecticut ave. postal station, who has the longest continuous record of service here.

The District TB Association's share of the 21 million dollar national goal from the sale of seals is $200,000, the minimum needed to carry out the work of the local group next year, according to Andrew Parker, general campaign chairman.

Figures of a dove in flight and a sprig of holly are featured on the 1949 seal.

Mrs. Clark, who was chosen for the first direct-mail sale because she is a prominent new resident, said the campaign is an annual reaffirmation by Americans and many others of the effort to help stop needless deaths and suffering caused by tuberculosis.

Hart told Mrs. Clark he began his postoffice career in November, 1913, when the seventh Christmas Seal campaign was just starting, and that he had not missed delivering them since.

Drive Chairman Parker explained that the proceeds from the Christmas Seals are used for a program of education and demonstration to raise the health standards of the city. Ninety-five percent of funds raised here are spent here, he said.

Officials to Probe Hyattsville Fire; Damage $30,000

An investigation of the blaze which caused an estimated $30,000 to $40,000 damage Sunday to a Hyattsville machine shop will be undertaken by Hyattsville Fire Department officials.

The inquiry is expected to start today after the return of Fire Marshal Earle Dorrelle from out of town. Dorrelle will be assisted by Chief William Anderson.

Seven Prince Georges County volunteer companies fought the three-alarm fire at the Connor Engineering and Manufacturing Co., 4706 Rhode Island ave., which began about 4:30 p. m. Units responding included Hyattsville, Riverdale, College Park, Bladensburg, Mount Rainier, Cottage City and Brentwood.

Mrs. Little Dead; Famed Decorator

Mrs. Louise McCarty Little, wife of a Marine general and one of a few women ever to serve on New York's Architectural Board, died Sunday in Doctors Hospital of a heart ailment. She was 72.

Mrs. Little

As Elsie Cobb Wilson, Mrs. Little was one of the country's best known interior decorators. She lived here at 3010 O st. nw., but her work was known both here and abroad. She was given charge of the rebuilding of Woodrow Wilson's birthplace at Staunton, Va., and her designs were used in decorating American embassies in Paris, Peking and Tokyo.

Mrs. Little founded her own decorating firm in New York in 1911 and run it until 1937. She was one of the backers of the New York School of Art and Design and its Paris branch. She established four annual scholarships for girls interested in design.

A native of Washington, Mrs. Little was a daughter of Capt. Edmond Cobb and Katurah Leach Addison. During World War I, she was an overseas Red Cross director. She married General Little in 1922, and accompanied him on his travels. General Little, now retired, formerly commanded the Quantico Marine Corps Base.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Cornelius N. Bliss, of Long Island. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 11 a. m. in Fort Meyer Chapel, with burial in Arlington Cemetery.

J. Myron Robeson

Funeral services for J. Myron (Dutch) Robeson, 44, assistant treasurer of the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co., will be held today at 2 p. m. at Hines Funeral Home, 2901 14th st. nw. Burial will be at Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Robeson, who lived at 5113 44th st. nw., died Sunday at Doctors Hospital after a long illness.

Gov. Lane Asked To Name Injured Officer as Justice

Gov. William Preston Lane, jr., has been asked by Montgomery County authorities to appoint Lester E. Jones, a former county policeman who suffered permanent disability in an auto accident last year, as a justice of the peace.

County Manager Irving G. McNayr said yesterday Jones would be named the extra committing magistrate at Rockville police station approved by the county council Tuesday.

Jones' application for a pension was denied by the county personnel board October 18 on grounds his disability was incurred "not in line of duty." He suffered back and spine injuries when the automobile he was entering to report to work at Bethesda station was struck by another.

McNayr also disclosed that Samuel Robertson formerly a justice of the peace at Bethesda, and Americus E. Diggs, retired Silver Spring desk clerk, have been named to the extra posts at those stations.

Power Revenues Rise

Richmond, Va., Nov. 21 (AP).—Operating revenues of the Virginia Electric and Power Co. increased $217,172, or 3 percent, in October of this year as compared with October of last year.

The company pointed out, however, that operating expenses were "adversely affected," mainly due to effects of the coal strike.

Louis H. Skinner, 66, Dead; Southern Railway Official

Louis H. Skinner, 66, assistant vice president of the Southern Railway System, died yesterday mornin at Circle Terrace Hospital, Alexandria. He had been in poor health for a year, but seriously ill only three weeks.

Mr. Skinner

Born at La Grange, Mo., Mr. Skinner was educated in public schools at St. Louis, Mo., and entered service of the Southern there in 1898. He was first a messenger, then a clerk.

Transferred to Washington in 1905, he had lived here since. He served here first in secretarial posts, then became chief clerk of the purchasing department. In 1920, he was made purchasing agent and in 1927, general purchasing agent. His promotion to assistant vice president came in 1946.

Surviving are his wife, the former Carolyn Alexander, and two daughters, Carolyn L. and Louise S. Skinner, with whom he lived at 3616 Greenway pl., Parkfairfax, Alexandria. Mr. Skinner is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Genevieve L. Youngblood and Miss Elizabeth J. Skinner of Detroit, Mich., and four brothers. They are the Rev. T. Lawrence Skinner, C.S.S.R., Detroit; C. Stewart Skinner, New Orleans, La., Walter B. Skinner, Chicago, Ill., and Edgar R. Skinner of St. Louis.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a.m., Wednesday at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Alexandria, and burial will follow at St. Mary's Cemetery. The family has requested that flowers be omitted.

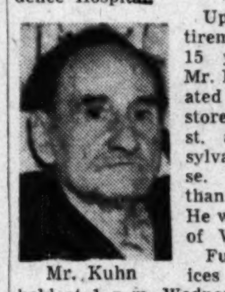
John G. Kuhn, 72, retired District merchant, who lived at 1019 E st. se., died Sunday at Providence Hospital.



Mr. Kuhn

Up to his retirement about 15 years ago, Mr. Kuhn operated a grocery store at 11th st. and Pennsylvania ave. se. for more than 30 years. He was a native of Washington.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday at the Chambers funeral home, 517 11th st. se. Interment will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, the former Christine Fischer; a son, Henry W. Kuhn; three daughters, Mrs. Freda Keane, Mrs. Katherine G. Stuart and Mrs. Madaline Maguire; a brother, Henry L. Kuhn, and two sisters, Mrs. Katherine Graff and Mrs. Sophia Prediger, all of Washington.

Burial Service Set Today for Mrs. Steuart

Funeral services for Mrs. Linda Hogue Steuart, 81, an active worker in Episcopal Church activities here, who died Saturday at her home, 3058 R st. nw., will be held at 11 a. m. today at St. John's Church, Georgetown, 3240 O st. nw. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mrs. Steuart, who came here at the age of 5 from her native Ohio, was an 1887 graduate of Central High School. She attended the old Washington Normal School and taught in the District public schools for a year.

A member of St. John's Church for more than 50 years, she was a leader in the Girls Friendly Society and a director of the society's Holiday House on Mount Vernon blvd., near Alexandria. She was also active at one time in the Twentieth Century Club, the Home Interest Club, the Edes Home and the Evermay Literary Club.

Her husband, Alexander S. Steuart, a patent attorney, died in 1924. She is survived by three daughters, Miss Emily Steuart, with whom she lived; Mrs. Harold Golder of Wooster, Ohio, and Mrs. Roland Rehm of Evanston, Ill. Four grandchildren and one great-grandson also survive.

Editor Silent On Reported Link With Miss Truman

Phoenixville, Pa., Nov. 21 (AP).—Ed Wall, editor of an AFL newspaper in Albany, N. Y., today refused to confirm or deny reports he was keeping steady company with Margaret Truman.

Wall told a reporter "I can say absolutely nothing about that."

He did say, however, that "right now I am not romantically interested in any one."

Wall, who edits a monthly publication for the AFL International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, said "I am in a very peculiar position. Really I am in a spot." He refused to elaborate.

Walter Winchell, New York Daily Mirror columnist, linked Wall's name romantically with Miss Truman's in several radio broadcasts.

Wall admitted that "some talk" began several months ago following a visit to the White House. He said the visit was "on official, personal business," adding that it had no connection with Miss Truman.

Senator Reed Estate Value Exceeds $60,000

Parsons, Kans., Nov. 21 (AP).—Senator Clyde M. Reed, who died November 8, left his estate to his widow and seven children. The will was admitted to probate today.

His 540 shares in the Sun Publishing Co., publishers of the Parsons Sun, a daily newspaper, will be held in trust, one-half for Mrs. Reed and one-half in equal shares for the children. There are a total of 1000 shares in the company.

Other property goes half to Mrs. Reed and the balance to the children in equal shares.

No inventory was filed with the will, but petition for probate said the value would exceed $60,000.

New Car Sales Here Rise 13% In 10 Months

By S. Oliver Goodman

October sales of new cars in Washington totaled 2607, slightly higher than in the same month last year but lower than in September.

This brought aggregate sales for the first 10 months to 27,721, a gain of 13 percent over the 24,518 in the like 1948 period, according to revised figures supplied yesterday by the Washington Automotive Trade Association.

Sales of used cars and trucks also showed an improved trend in the first 10 months, the association noted. Through October 31 local sales of second-hand vehicles aggregated 44,734 against 44,479 in the like 1948 period.

The figures for new car sales here compared as follows:

	1949	1948
January	2268	2338
February	1829	1943
March	2497	3200
April	3010	2755
May	2828	2339
June	3288	1585
July	4465	2921
August	2075	2701
September	2854	2145
October	2607	2591
Ten-months total	27,721	24,518

Profit Taking Eases Stocks; Trading Slows

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—Stocks beat an orderly retreat in today's market and closing prices were fractions to more than a point lower.

The modest decline started from an average price level that was equal to the highest point reached this year.

That stocks backed away from the heights was attributed chiefly to profit-taking in the wake of last week's lively advance. Trading volume on today's decline was only 1,180,000 shares, well below the pace of the previous week. It compared with 1,690,000 last Friday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average dipped .3 of a point to 68.4. Utilities held unchanged while industrials were off .5 and rails down .4.

Although selling was only moderate, the decline was fairly general. Mining and metal shares were an exception, some showing good resistance.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP).—With wheat moving up sharply in the closing minutes, grains ended on a firm note today.

During the forepart of the session the advance was carried by corn, all deferred deliveries of which set new seasonal highs. When corn gave some indications of slipping, wheat took over. The May contract went to its best price since trading in it started.

Other grains showed less strength. Oats barely held steady, slumping after December and May eked out new seasonal peaks by ⅛ cent. Although their underlying tone was firm, soybeans did not advance much and dealings were slow. Rye dropped toward the close.

Wheat ended ⅜ lower to 2 cents higher, corn was 1 to 1½ higher, oats were ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, rye was ½-1¼ lower, soybeans were ¼ lower to ¾ higher and lard was 5 cents lower to 5 cents a hundred pounds higher.

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

TASS, THE RUSSIAN news agency, could make much out of this week's news in the United States. It could report with some truth that the Army and Navy are hopelessly split and at cross purposes on policy, that the generals and admirals are at loggerheads and that open fighting will break out on Saturday.

It will, in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, before 104,000 noncombatants. Naval forces will be out to annihilate Army's football team and its unbeaten record. But the Nation has always seemed to survive this sort of military fratricide. When Army and Navy take the field on Saturday, it will be the fiftieth time it has happened.

POVICH

This is always the game in which they throw the books away, and Saturday's should be no exception. Army has learned to its pain that even a Navy team that could lick nobody else is apt to tie an Army team that hadn't lost a game. That happened as recently as last November when they played to a 21-21 tie.

It doesn't require any search of history to alert Army to the possibility of defeat by Navy, however. Army's squeak past Penn by a mere 14-13 score a couple of weeks ago serves the same purpose.

ON PAPER, NAVY doesn't quite belong on the same field with Army's talented platoons, but it has never been wise to carry that sort of reckoning into the Army-Navy game. Back in 1946, when Army's Blanchard-Davis forces were threatening to run up the biggest score of their long series, Army was happy at the game's end to hear the final gun that got an illogical Navy team off its neck and sealed a 21-18 victory for the Cadets.

The Army-Navy game is always something special in point of roughness, anyway. Both squads are inflamed to the point of piling on ruthlessly and you have the spectacle of nice kids going berserk in their passion to win the big game. Army, probably the roughest team in college football, usually out-toughs every opponent except the similarly inspired Midshipmen.

Navy hasn't beaten the Cadets since 1943, but the Middies invariably surpass themselves when they hear an opening whistle against Army. And for some reason, the Middies are always the sentimental favorites in the contest despite the fact that their regiments outnumber West Point's. Maybe it is a fact, as the song lyrics say, that "there's something about a sailor . . ."

NAVY'S FEAT OF TYING Tulane a couple of weeks ago was indicative, perhaps, of the Middies' zest for combat. In Tulane they tackled what probably is the biggest team in college ranks but the Midshipmen were very much unawed. Army may throw more speed against 'em but not as much brawn as Tulane.

Army coaches are publicly expressing their fear of Navy, but that's an old dodge. They could be more honest and admit that their man, Earl Blaik, has far more talent to work with, especially in the backfield where the Navy men, with the exception of Quarterback Bob Zastrow, are the pony type, unpossessed of Gil Stephenson's drive, Jim Cain's flashing speed and Arnold Galiffa's passing-running talents.

Zastrow has taken Navy to most of its victories with his passing, but that young sophomore will need the best day of his career to match his opposite number in the Army backfield, Galiffa. But a Navy quarterback named Reaves Baysinger caught fire a couple of seasons back to distinguish himself above anything in the Army backfield.

AT ANNAPOLIS this week, Coach George Sauer is tacitly admitting he can't match the Army power and is equipping the Middies with some razzle-dazzle stuff. He's concerned, too, with what has been Navy's vulnerability against passes, and in Army's Galiffa he'll be tested by an even more skillful pitcher than Notre Dame's Bob Williams.

Navy has been strong at the ends, though, with Ryan and Andresen a pair of stalwarts all season at those posts. Cain and Fischl of Army have been making chumps of most of the flankers all year. Navy hits hard enough to slow that pair up.

Army hits hard, too, though. They disposed of Chuck Ortmann, Michigan's No. 1 back, on the second play of the game and rendered him a stretcher case. They got Billy Roche, Harvard's only good back, out of the game on the opening kick-off. A ticket to the Army-Navy game is usually tantamount to a ringside seat.

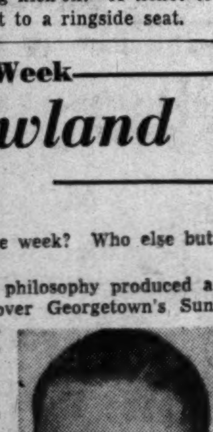
—Area Coach of Week—

GW's Bo Rowland

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

THE WASHINGTON POST'S coach of the week? Who else but Bo Rowland of George Washington.

The little humorist with the backwoods philosophy produced a city-slicker football team which bowled over Georgetown's Sun Bowlers, 28-7, in what was one of the greatest triumphs a Rowland-coached team ever registered.



ROWLAND

Bo, a vest-pocket edition of Yale's fabled Herman Hickman, was much in the same position as President Truman in his election battle against Governor Dewey. Both Truman and Rowland were decided underdogs, but both felt they would win and both did, by decisive margins.

Bo's Colonials won the ball game Saturday, but the seeds for that victory and the other George Washington successes were planted September 5, the first day of fall practice.

On that day, Rowland circled the dates of the G. W. games against V. P. I., W. & L., V. M. I., Lafayette and Georgetown. Those were the games he felt his team should win and those were the games he concentrated on.

"No use kidding," he said that day, "we can't hope to beat Virginia, Duke, Kansas and Maryland. They've got too many and too much for us, but we should take care of the others."

EXCEPT FOR V. M. I., which upset the Colonials, Rowland turned out to be an eminent prognosticator, perhaps even better than he himself realized.

Even as far back as September, he was preparing for the Hoyas. He refused to permit his star back, Andy Davis, to remove a brace from his knee until the last game of the season—the Georgetown tussle.

"Andy, I want you ready for Georgetown," he answered the constant pleas by Davis who felt he could run without the brace when the season started. "I don's want you to re-injure that leg.

The master stroke, Rowland saved for 10 minutes before game time. He didn't dally with the pregame pep talk routine of exhorting his players "to win thos one for dear old G. W." Nothing like that. He stepped aside and turned the floor over to Ray Hanken, former G. W. star and present freshman coach.

"Ray's been around here much longer than I have," he told the squad, "and he knows what a victory over Georgetown means to a George Washington man." And Ray told the Colonials. And they went out and won.

Kid Gavilan Wins Decision

Montreal, Nov. 21 (AP).—Welterweight Challenger Kid Gavilan scored an unanimous 10-round decision over Laurent Dauthuille of France tonight at the Montreal Forum. Gavilan weighed 151 and Dauthuille 154½.

Landon JayVees Beat St. Albans 'B', 19-12

Landon Jayvees defeated St. Albans "B" team yesterday at Landon, 19-12, in the traditional game for both junior squads.

From Wire Dispatches

It's unbeaten California and Ohio State in the January 2 Rose Bowl, but it's anybody's guess as to the teams in the other big post-season football contests.

California, which appeared in last season's Pasadena extravaganza, was named officially yesterday as were the Buckeyes, who tied Michigan for the Western Conference crown Saturday.

The Sugar Bowl (New Orleans), Cotton Bowl (Dallas) and Orange Bowl (Miami) are still shopping around with all expected to name at least one representative at the close of football business next Saturday night.

With the various bowls running over with candidates, the confused picture appeared somewhat like this last night:

SUGAR BOWL—It'll probably be unbeaten Oklahoma, 1949 Sugar Bowl winner, in a repeat performance. Most likely candidate to meet the powerful Sooners in once-beaten Tulane, which must get by L. S. U. Saturday to get the nod.

COTTON BOWL—Winner of the Southwestern Conference championship is committed to the Dallas game, but the champion won't be determined until Saturday after Rice and Baylor have a go at each other. Rice is unbeaten in conference play, Baylor a one-time loser. Opposition will probably come from Kentucky, Louisiana State, Maryland and Missouri.

ORANGE BOWL—Real confusion. Jack Bell, member of Orange Bowl selection committee, says choice "probably won't be made until after Maryland-Miami game December 2" which means the Terps have a chance to crash one of the bigger New Year's parties. Others in the race are Miami U. itself, which has lost only to Purdue but which must face Kentucky and Maryland on successive Friday nights; Villanova, through for the season with an 8-1 record; Virginia, which must beat North Carolina Saturday to stay in the running; twice-beaten Kentucky; twice-beaten S. M. U., and Duke, which has shut up shop with a 7-3 record.

Lambeau Still Boss Despite 'Ouster' Stories

Green Bay, Wis., Nov. 21 (AP).—Earl L. (Curley) Lambeau still is general manager of the National Football League's Green Bay Packers.

The Milwaukee Journal stated earlier today it had learned "a determined attempt" would be made to oust Lambeau at a Packer executive committee meeting

Following the meeting, Emil R. Fisher, Packer president, wired the following statement to the press:

"The executive committee of the Green Bay Packers met in the regular weekly meeting at the Hotel Northland Monday evening. Regular business of the corporation was transacted and cognizance was taken of press reports to the effect that Curly Lambeau was being asked to resign.

"The matter of asking Curly to resign has never been discussed by the executive committee or any member of it."

Fischer would not elaborate on his statement.

Touchdown Club Honors Griffith Today

Two of the American League's pioneers will attend the Touchdown's Club luncheon today when Connie Mack and Clark Griffith take over the speakers' rostrum. The occasion is the club's annual birthday party for Griffith.

Almas Temple Shriners Entertain At Interhigh Championship Game

The Almas Temple Shriners are providing the musical entertainment and interhigh champinoship trophy at Friday night's Wilson-McKinley Tech football title game at Griffith Stadium.

At 8 o'clock, a half hour before the kickoff, Shrine Potentate Renah Camalier will lead his 450-piece march band onto the field. During timeouts and at halftime, the Shrine's colorful Oriental unit will present a musical program.

The huge championship trophy will become permanent possession of the winning team. Each member of the championship team will receive a gold football and each losing team member will receive a silver football from The Washington Post.

Tickets are now on sale at the 10 public high schools and:

Ticket counter in the lobby of The Washington Post, open from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m., Monday through Saturday.

Fairway Sports Shop, 1328 G st. nw.; Sports Center, 8th and D sts. nw.; Almas Temple, 1315 K st. nw., and AAA, 17th and Pennsylvania ave. nw.

Tickets for the general public are priced at $1.25, $1.75 and $2.26, tax included.

Tickets for high school students will be sold at all interhighs.

Mail orders for adult tickets are being accepted. Address Football Ticket Counter, The Washington Post, 1337 E st. nw. Make checks payable to The Washington Post Interhigh Football Fund. Self-addressed return envelope required with postage.

At Birthday Party

Griff, 80, Intends to Carry On Actively for Long Time

CLARK GRIFFITH announced yesterday, on his eightieth birthday, "I'm going to carry on."

Surrounded by scores of friends and nine grandchildren in his Griffith Stadium offices where he presided over a cake-cutting at his annual birthday party, the white-haired president of the Washington club quelched all reports that he planned retirement.

"I have been around for a long time, and I hope to be active many more seasons," he said.

Mr. Griffith called for special introductions of "My two Wonder Boy managers, Joe Cronin and Bucky Harris," and told of his pride in the pennants they won for Washington.

"Bucky Harris is back with me and I know he will be around for a long time," said Griffith, adding with a grin, "and if he wins a pennant for me next season, it's a life job for him."

Sixty-one years before, Griffith started his baseball career as a kid for Bloomington, Ill., in the Interstate League. He became a star for the Chicago Colts of the National League, later led the American League pitchers at Chicago, won the 1901 pennant as pitcher-manager of the White Sox, and with Connie Mack, represents the only ball players who came up from the ranks and now head major league clubs.

Griffith was presented with a television set by Maj. Robert Barrett, superintendent of police, on behalf of Washington's 1800 policemen."

Stanford in Bowl

HAPPY 80'S, GRIFF—Clark Griffith celebrates his 80th birthday at the ball park office yesterday. Bucky Harris (left) and Joe Cronin, "Boy Wonders" as managers of Washington teams in the years gone by under Griff, are among many close friends who wished him well. Harris returns to manage the Nats in 1950. Cronin is general manager of the Boston Red Sox

Tech Pledges Wilson Can't Outsell Them

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

McKinley Tech yesterday took up the challenge of Woodrow Wilson to engage in a ticket-selling duel for Friday night's Interhigh football championship game at Griffith Stadium.

Alert Wilson, looking for its first grid title, got the jump on Tech last week by gobbling up 2500 tickets for the adults in the community.

After clinching its participation in the championship classic Saturday, Tech's student body yesterday joined in a rousing pep assembly to honor its team.

Then Principal Charles Bish called his student council of 60 to a special meeting. Posters, made in the school print shop, were distributed to the members, and after school was dismissed, the student councilmen made the rounds of the merchants in the Northeast section of the city, selling tickets.

1200 Postcards to Be Mailed

Among those who made the rounds with the council members were End John Wolfe and Wingback Bill Mockabee of the football team.

The print shop also rolled off 1200 postcard reminders to be mailed to families in the Tech neighborhood. The cards inform the families that all proceeds of the title game go to buy urgently needed athletic equipment for the 10 Interhigh schools.

Tech, looking for its twentieth title in 47 years, is shooting with one of its highest scoring machines in history. Led by Ray Fox, who has run for 19 touchdowns and passed for four others, the Trainers have averaged nearly five touchdowns per game.

Tech Wasn't Considered

The Trainers weren't seriously considered as championship timber even after walloping Bell 52-0, Coolidge 26-0 and Chamberlain 32-12. But when they smashed defending champion Central, 27-0, last Saturday, they established themselves as truly the best team in the Northern Division.

Wilson, playing the toughest schedule in the league, has run up an average of just under four touchdowns per game. The Tigers have a seven-game victory streak. Their biggest win was, 40-6, over Anacostia, the team supposed to capture the Southern crown.

Wilson stepped out of league competition to bat down two of the top clubs in the Catholic League, St. John's, 21-19, and Georgetown Prep, 13-0.

Browns Must Win Playoffs Before Taking AAC Title

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—Cleveland's Browns have not yet won the 1949 All-America Football Conference title, Commissioner O. O. Kessing said tonight.

Kessing said that the 1949 crown would not be determined until the final round of playoffs on December 11.

It was believed that Cleveland won the title yesterday by defeating the second-place New York Yankees, 31 to 0.

The top four clubs in the seven-team circuit begin a two-round playoff on Sunday, December 4, with the No. 1 team playing the No. 4 and the No. 2 and 3 clubs competing in the other fray. The winners will meet on December 11 and the victor then will be the champion, no matter what the club's season-long record.

Ryan's Group Pays $2,200,000, Names Greenberg Club Head

Cleveland, Nov. 21 (AP).—A group of Cleveland businessmen purchased the Cleveland Indians today and selected Hank Greenberg as club general manager for the next three years.

Ellis W. Ryan, a 45-year-old insurance executive, who took over Bill Veeck's job as president, said his syndicate paid approximately $2,200,000 for the property.

Greenberg has been vice president in charge of the Indians' farm system.

Veeck put his southpaw signature on the sales papers at a news conference in his office at Muncipal Stadium, grinning as usual.

He gave no hint of where he next will use the executive ability and magic showmanship which during his 41 months here helped his ball club wih the 1948 world championship and—in the last two seasons—draw nearly five million fans to home games.

When he and his associates bought the property June 22, 1946, Veeck paid a reported $1,250,000 for it. His personal profit from the deal was estimated at $500,000 for a stock holding of about 30 percent.

In addition to the Indians' franchise, Ryan's purchasing group got ownership of League Park and working agreements with 13 minor league clubs, including San Diego in the Pacific Coast League and Oklahoma City in the Texas League.

The new owners, Ryan said, hope to "retain the entire Tribe organization" and to devote themselves to "a bold effort to make and keep this city first in baseball." He added that Veeck has offered to give them "every bit of his help we want."

"I'm no Bill Veeck," the blue-eyed, graying new boss of the Tribe said, "but my associates and I hope to keep Veeck's progressive policy in operation."

"We have plenty of financial backing, but we won't throw any money out the window."

The only Indian under contract on the club's current 40-man roster is Manager-Shortstop Lou Boudreau. Ryan declined to say whether he would retain Boudreau as field general—a policy Veeck followed with reluctance.

Greenberg, as general manager, will divide with Ryan duties that Veeck combined during his tenure as president. Ryan said he and Greenberg would "talk about Boudreau tomorrow."

In addition to Greenberg, Business Manager Rudie Schaffer was named by Ryan to stay with the new Tribe organization.

Dressed in his never-varying brown jacket, white sport shirt and tan trousers, Veeck came here from Chicago for the sale ceremony. He said he intended to leave here tonight for his mother's home in Hinsdale, Ill.

"No one will ever have three nicer years than Cleveland gave to us," he said. "You walk in here and you've got yourself all primed to be bright and cheery and effervescent. Then you think—I'm not going back, and you don't feel so breezy."

Veeck's explanation of why he sold so profitable a property was:

"The only way a man can make any big chunk of money under the present tax setup is to sell something he has created and to take advantage of the capital gain provision.

"I could have borrowed the money I needed in any one of several places, but I couldn't have paid it back in less than 20 years because I couldn't make enough money out of salary and dividends after taxes. . . . I don't want my children to be in hock to a creditor."

The sale to Ryan ended a string

Veeck, Tribe Sued for $1,200,000

Cleveland, Nov. 21 (AP).—A retired Cleveland businessman who owned 38 1/3 shares of stock in the Cleveland Baseball Corp. sued the corporation and outgoing President Bill Veeck today for $1,200,000.

The stockholder, Jack H. Harris, charged Veeck, who sold his interest in the ball club today, with "usurpation, abuse and misuse" of his authority as club president in dealing with Indian farm clubs in Oklahoma City, Dayton and Zanesville.

On behalf of himself and other holders of the 1125 shares in the corporation which sold out today, Harris asked:

1. Direct damages of $950,000 and return of $250,000 his suit charged Veeck borrowed on or about November 1, 1949, without proper authority.

2. A court order asking Veeck to render an accounting of all monies received and all profits realized by him in connection with transactions and dealings as Tribe president.

Harris, who tried for two months to negotiate a deal with Veeck for purchase of the Indians' franchise, claimed in his suit that Veeck's private ownership or control of the Oklahoma City, Dayton and Zanesville farm club franchises was financed with $175,000 borrowed from the Cleveland club without authority.

Caps, Knicks Meet Tonight

The first 1949 Uline Arena meeting of the Caps and New York Knickerbockers, bitter professional basketball rivals, will be staged tonight starting at 8:30.

The National Basketball Association argument, to be followed by a rematch tomorrow night in New York, will have important bearing on the standings. Washington's Caps are in second place in the east but right behind, with a mere 1½-game gap, are the New Yorkers.

Last season the two teams met six times and split even, the caps finally nosing out their New York foes in the semifinal round of the championship playoff, two games to one.

The New Yorkers are introducing a new acquisition tonight in Connie Simmons, 6-foot-8-inch center, who was acquired in a trade that sent Sid Tanenbaum and Tommy Byrnes to Baltimore.

Freddie Scolari, Washington's brilliant guard, will return to a starting role tonight after having been sidelined by injury while Feerick and Bones McKinney also will see more action.

A Catholic Youth preliminary starting at 7:15 o'clock brings together St. Teresa vs. Blessed Sacrament.

Tulane Named S. E. C. Champs

Atlanta, Nov. 21 (AP).—Tulane today became the unofficial 1949 football champion of the Southeastern Conference.

A statement by Conference Commissioner Bernie Moore cleared away gathering confusion and installed the Greenies in the title role.

Tulane now has five straight wins and, ending the season with Louisiana State Saturday, can do no worse than five and one. Kentucky has a 4-1 mark.

Oklahoma Drops to Third Spot

By Jack Hand

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—California has moved into second place behind Notre Dame in the Associated Press weekly football poll.

The next-to-last voting of the season finds Notre Dame still way out front with 113 of the 151 first-place votes cast by football writers and sportcasters across the Nation.

California moved into second place with 24 firsts after its convincing 33-14 triumph over Stanford to win the Pacific Coast Conference crown.

Oklahoma dropped a peg to third position, being hard pressed to grab a 28-21 verdict over Santa Clara. Eleven writers put the Sooners in the No. 1 spot.

Army, the other member of the "big four" held fourth place, although idle getting ready for Saturday's big game with Navy.

Baylor and Tulane made the top 10 grade, supplanting Southern Methodist and Virginia. Tulane's 28-14 win over Virginia sent the Cavaliers crashing into the lower regions.

The total vote with points figured on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis (first votes in parentheses).

1. Notre Dame (113)	1459
2. California (24)	1266
3. Oklahoma (11)	1173
4. Army (1)	963
5. Ohio State	618

Fights Tonight At Turner's

Pat Thomas, the Southeast slugger, seeks to avenge a loss in his last meeting when he takes on Walter Hamm, another local lad, in the featured bout of four 8 rounders tonight at Turner's Arena.

Hamm had Thomas on the floor three times early in their last meeting, but lacked the punch to put him away for the knockout.

Tonight's 8-round distance should prove to Pat's advantage, the last encounter was only 5 rounds, and Pat was coming on in the late rounds, but still sustained his only loss in 10 pro fights.

In another all-local match, Roland Randall, with one loss in 7 pro fights, meets Johnny Holt. Hold owns a decision over the same Julian Kozer who beat Randall and is rated a good, stiff puncher.

Two undefeated welterweights clash in another eight—Leon Daughtry, a Washingtonian, with six straight wins, takes on Bobby Dawson, New Yorker, with a string of 15 wins. Mel Bartolomew, New Orleans welterweight, recommended by former triple champ Henry Armstrong, will oppose Billy Patterson of New York 6 straight wins, takes on Bobby

Tatum Hopes West Virginia Pulls No Tricks Thursday

WILL West Virginia use Maryland as a guinea pig again?

Only Thursday and the Thanksgiving battle at College Park will tell.

Last year, up in the mountains of Morgantown, W. Va., Coach Dud DeGroot pulled two surprises on the Terps, they both worked and the Mounties scored a 16-14 upset victory.

He switched Jim Walthall from defensive safety man to offensive halfback. Walthall scored both West Virginia touchdowns.

Surprise No. 2 was converting offensive center Dave Stephenson to a line backer. The change worked wonders—for Stephenson. He made 60 percent of the tackles and was one of the chief reasons the Terps were waylaid in the hills of West Virginia.

Stephenson and Walthall are back again. To date, the Mountaineers have done nothing which should spread alarm in the ranks of the Terrapins, but Coach Jim Tatum, as ever, isn't too sure.

"IT'S HARD TO convince our boys that West Virginia is better than its 5-lost record indicates," he says. "But I know that they are. They went all out to beat Pittsburgh. They had 'em licked for 2½ quarters and then lost, 20-7. That took a lot out of the team. They were routed, 52-20, by Boston University the next week.

"But I know they have the potential for a good, solid football team. Other coaches have told me that they have so many good players up there that the big problem has been selecting the best. It would just be our luck to have DeGroot find the right combination against us."

Tatum's Terps, beaten only by rugged Michigan State, wind up physical preparations for the game today. Tatum has two more days in which to impress upon his players the fact that West Virginia won't be taken easy. MORRIS SIEGEL.

Where to Buy Terp Game Tickets

With many students away on Thanksgiving holiday, more tickets are available to the public for Thursday's Maryland-West Virginia game at College Park. They may be purchased at Fairway, 1328 G st. nw.; Mitchell's Sports Shop, 2806 14th st. nw.; Bethesda Sports Shop, 7012 Wisconsin ave. nw., and Ritchie Coliseum, College Park, Md.

Hollar Returns to Redskins; Marshall Replies to Challenge

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

BACK TO the Redskins, after a year with the Detroit Lions, came Fullback John Henry Hollar yesterday.

The 225-pounder from Appalachian State brings the Redskins up to the 32-player limit as they prepare for Sunday's meeting with the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds.

The Richmond Rebels' challenge to the Redskins for an exhibition game was enthusiastically accepted by George Marshall, Tribe president . . . "We'll be more than pleased to play the Rebels on December 11, as they suggest," Marshall said, "but it will have to be between the halves of our regularly scheduled game with the Rams in Los Angeles." . . . Marshall expressed satisfaction with the Rebels' offer of a $10,000 guarantee but said he thought part of that money should be turned over to Joel Williams, Rebel center whom the Richmond club accused Marshall of trying to "lure" into major league football for higher pay.

A surprise announcement, shrouded in much secrecy up to this point, will be made by the Redskins this afternoon . . . Coach Herman Ball's much-beaten forces may be headed toward their worst won-lost record of all time, but they can still act as "spoilers" . . . In their season's finale, facing Clark Shaughnessy's Rams, the Redskins could knock Los Angeles out of the Western title with a victory . . . They beat the Rams in an exhibition, remember? . . .

The key play in Washington's 31-21 loss to the Chicago Bears on Sunday, according to most observers, came in the first Tribe offensive . . . With a 7-0 lead on Herb Shoener's fumble recovery and 33-yard dash, the Redskins were moving toward a 14-0 margin when Harry Gilmer got off a 47-yard pass to Goode . . . The play carried to the Bear 22, but was called back because a Redskin back was illegally in motion . . .

Williamson Puts Virginia In 16th Spot

By Paul B. Williamson

Virginia, 28-14 victim of Tulane Saturday, dropped from sixth to sixteenth in the only major change in the system's weekly ratings.

Tulane replaced the once-beaten Cavaliers, springing up to sixth place.

The "Big Five" remained exactly as they were, with Notre Dame first, followed by Oklahoma, California, Army and Rice. California, Army and Rice, Maryland's Terps are ranked thirty-first and George Washington 101st.

GROOM IT WITH KREML

TO AVOID "SCALP SCUM" AND MAKE HAIR LOOK NEAT

There's nothing better than Kreml to neatly groom thinning hair or sparse locks. Kreml doesn't look the least bit greasy, sticky or gooey. No scummy, dirt-catching film shows through on the scalp. Kreml always keeps hair and scalp looking and feeling so clean. AND SO VERY IMPORTANT—Kreml removes dandruff flakes (more noticeable with sparse hair); it lubricates a dry scalp, giving it a delightful tingle. Change to Kreml today.

My Ned, $18.40 Shot, Wins Bowie Feature

Arcave 2d, Rope Trick Runs Third

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Bowie, Md., Nov. 21.—After belying its reputation as a "long-shot track" in recent years, Bowie appears to have resumed its hellsapoppin' ways. For the second program in a row, the featured event went to the moonshooters today.

Today's top rack, the Leonard Purse was won by David O. Evans' My Ned, paying $18.40 after the crowd of 7000 had heavily played Mrs. Jack Carson's Kinsman, a colt who hardly got up a gallop.

My Ned, going a distance for the first time in his career, won by two lengths. S. W. Labrot, jr.'s Arcave was second and five lengths in advance of Isadore Bieber's Rope Trick.

The winning son of Neddie is one of 107 horses purchased by David O. Evans, New Jersey industrialist and newcomer to racing, within the last two years.

Field on Nine

The race which drew a field of nine was scheduled as a tune up for Thursday's Endurance Handicap. Arcave was the only one of the four eligibles to make a creditable showing. My Ned was not named.

Apprentice Joseph Culmone rode My Ned and his backers had few if any anxious moments. The colt sprinted into the lead from the outside post position leaving the gate and ran a "you can't catch me" race.

Jockey Chris Rodgers made repeated attempts to drive Arcave to the flying pacemaker but My Ned always had a speed answer to each threat. Rope Trick closed some ground but those waiting for Kinsman to make a move are still waiting.

The victory was only the second in six starts for the winning 2-year-old. Before shipping here he had won a Garden State Park sprint by six lengths. He worked creditably at a mile on two occasions before going postward today.

The daily double was the popular "Woolworth special" and the tickets carried the numbers 5 and 10. J. A. Bell, jr.'s Superba won the first race under the handling of Dick Stark. The second went to W. L. Brann's Molasses Phil, ridden by Jimmy Lynch.

At Bowie.

Dear Folks:

Since the dawn of racing, a foul has been called a foul in most circles. However, somebody came along and termed "foul claimed" as a crude way of putting it and so the designation of "objection" was applied.

When it is necessary to tell the public via the electric board that some jockey is carrying a complaint to the stewards, Bowie is going to flash "inquiry." Some of the track regulars were mystified when the word "objection" was first lighted in Maryland and there's going to be a rush for the dictionary at this brand-new one. I was kidding one of the officials about it and he just smiled and said, "Just another proof that Bowie is the State's most progressive race track." See you on the rail.

BILL.

Is There A Whiskey Shortage?

IS EIG'S THE ONLY STORE THAT SELLS WHISKEY?
WHY THE LINE OF PEOPLE IN FRONT OF EIG'S?

These and similar questions were asked by people with amazement who passed by EIG'S and saw the lines in front of our store, Thursday, November 17th, the first day of our 15th Anniversary Sale.

The answer to the above question is, there is no whiskey shortage. Eig's—of course, is not the only store that sells liquor. The thousands of people who flocked to our store on the opening of our 15th Anniversary Sale were value-wise customers.

W & M Meets Oklahoma in 1951

Williamsburg, Va., Nov. 21 (AP).—William and Mary's football team will play the University of Oklahoma during the 1951 season, Athletic Director R. N. (Rube) McCray said today. McCray said the game has been scheduled for September 29, 1951, at Norman, Okla.

Bill Veeck Gets $2,200,000 For His Cleveland Club of rumors, starting last July, that Veeck intended to sell out.

Ryan, who becomes the seventh president of the Cleveland baseball club, intends to devote his full time to the job. Although it is his first venture into organized baseball, he said his "love for the game dates back to the days of Tris Speaker."

Ryan listed these six Clevelanders as members of his purchasing syndicate:

George A. Medinger, president of the Fostoria Industrial Service Co., who is new vice president of the baseball club, succeeding Greenberg.

Donald W. Hornbeck, partner in the law firm of Miller & Hornbeck, new club secretary, succeeding Ben F. Fiery.

Harry E. Small, executive vice president of the Bank of Ohio, club treasurer.

Guy W. Waters, president of the Rausch Nut and Mfg. Co.: Nathan Dolin, manager of the Cleveland Arena box office, and Jack B. John, vice president of Ryan's insurance company.

Waters and two other Clevelanders—Bernard F. Bernet, president of the Industrial Supply Co., and Mathew A. Baxter, investment banker, serve with the four club officers as directors of the new corporation.

West Goes Against Aguilar Friday

Washington's Sonny Boy West fights Mexico's featherweight champion, Ernesto Aguilar, in the ten-round feature of the Liberty Athletic Club at Uline's Friday.

West, who yesterday agreed to make 135 pounds for the Friday night match, won a split decision over Alfredo Prada, South American titleholder, in his last fight locally two weeks ago. Aguilar will weigh in at about 133 pounds.

'Gull' Stroke Aids In East Potomac Golfer's Par Hole

George Harvey Bloom credits an "act of God" with a par on the first hole of East Potomac's F course yesterday and wishes it would happen more often.

Bloom hit a short drive on the hole, about 100 yards on the 285-yard par-four hole, and watched all three of his playing partners, John Ewing, Walter Simmons, and Pat Walsh, outdrive him.

However, one of a flock of seagulls on the course picked up the ball in its bill and carried it about another 120 yards before dropping it.

One of Bloom's pardners commented, "That's an act of God." Bloom was charged with no penalty stroke and went ahead to par the hole.

Tidwell Named Most Valuable

Atlanta, Nov. 21 (AP).—The running, passing, kicking and play direction of Travis Tidwell makes the stocky Auburn quarterback the Southeastern Conference's most valuable football player.

Tidwell took the lead for the highest individual honor in deep South football on the first ballot and never was pressed.

Coaches and sports writers gave Tidwell nearly twice the support which Sophomore Babe Parilli of Kentucky received as runner up. Tulane's Eddie Price was third, Florida's Charles Hunsinger fourth and Kentucky's great tackle, Bob Gain, fifth.

Quackenbush Captains Yale

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 21 (AP).—Bradford Quackenbush of Aurora, Ill., an end, today was elected captain of Yale's 1950 football team. He succeeds Levi Jackson.

Quackenbush is 19 years old, 6-foot 1-inch tall and weighs 189 pounds, and a junior.

Stribling Fills In

Binghamton, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP).—Ken Stribling, Washington, D. C., middleweight, today was substituted for George Chape of Paris as the main event opponent of the Lee Sala of Pittsburgh on Wednesday night's boxing card here.

Five Cavaliers Selected for All-State Honors

Virginia placed five players and William and Mary four on the Associated Press' All-Virginia team, announced yesterday.

Fullback Johnny Papit, Quarterback Whitey Michels, defensive End Bob Weir, Guard and Capt. Johnny Thomas and Tackle Dyke Jones were members of the once-beaten Cavaliers who were honored.

Other positions went to Halfback Buddy Lex of William and Mary, Center Joe McCutcheon of Washington and Lee, Tackle Lou Creekmur of William and Mary, End Vito Ragazzo of William and Mary, Halfback Bob Miller of Emory and Henry, and Guard George Hughes of William and Mary.

Joyce Leads Hoyas To Freshman Harrier Victory

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—Dick Shea, a slim unheralded sophomore from Army, won the IC4-A individual cross-country title today, after trailing Don Black, the favorite, for more than 3 miles.

Carl Joyce of Georgetown won the freshman race and his quintet the team title with 40 points. St. John's was second and Cornell third.

Shea's victory, plus third, tenth, eighteenth and twenty-first places, enabled Army to topple Michigan State, the defending champion. In winning, the Cadets scored 54 points to 72 for second-place Manhattan and 104 for third-place Michigan State.

County Football Times Changed

The Prince Georges County High football league yesterday announced several changes in schedule for its remaining games. All games will still be played at College Park.

Friday's game between Mount Rainier and Bladensburg and Saturday's Maryland Park-Laurel game have both been moved up from 8 p. m. to 2 p. m.

The December 2 game between Maryland Park and Bladensburg remains at 8:15 but the December 3 Hyattsville-Greenbelt game has been pushed up to 2 p. m.

The final game of the season, originally set for the night of December 9 between Laurel and Maryland Park has been moved back to December 10 at 2 p. m.

G. W. Frosh-Navy B Game Canceled

The undefeated George Washington Freshman team last night announced cancellation of its last scheduled game with the Navy "B" team.

The action was taken because injuries have reduced the able-bodied G. W. backs to four, too few to complete the game which had been scheduled for Friday.

Leahy Sorry Choo-Choo Didn't Play

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 21 (AP).—All-America Tailback Charlie Justice of North Carolina, who missed "the bigest game of my life" when he sat on the sidelines while his teammates played Notre Dame, got a letter from Irish Coach Frank Leahy today.

"Just a note to let you know how sorry I was that you were unable to play against Notre Dame," Leahy wrote. "I say this even though I know that your presence would have caused the score to be different."

Leahy's letter to the North Carolina star continued," I have long been one of your strongest admirers because when a youg man can receive as much publicity as you have for your years and remain as level-headed as you have, he becomes a tremendous credit to intercollegiate football.

"Thus, every college football team in America has benefited by the marvelous representation you have made as a gentleman-athlete."

Sen. Douglas Sees Health Program Lost

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 21 (AP). United States Senator Paul Douglas (D., Ill.) said today the American Medical Association's campaign to defeat President Truman's national health program has succeeded.

"I do not think the Ewing bill can pass Congress," he said.

In an address to the thirty-fifth national conference of Catholic Charities, Douglas suggested Federal health insurance should be "confined to catastrophic illness."

Douglas said catastrophic illness is that sickness which wipes out a family's savings and prevents the money-maker of the family from continuing at his job.

The Senator said he is "sending up a trial balloon" for a Senate bill that would provide payment for medical and hospital bills that exceed $150 to $200 in any year.

Douglas said he estimated his plan would cost the wage earner about 1 percent of his income as against 3 percent under the Ewing Bill. He said the 1 percent would cover care for the family, regardless of the number of its persons.

Apples Glut Market

Petrolia, Ont., Nov. 21 (U.P.)—Fruit growers here said today that hundreds of bushels of apples were rotting in the orchards because of a lack of markets. They said warehouses were loaded to capacity and some farmers were feeding apples to livestock.

Slashing Victim Declared Suicide

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of suicide yesterday in the death of Mrs. Carol F. Murphy, 34, of 1709 N st. n.w., who died Sunday night.

She was found by her husband.

Sought in Assault, Duffy Surrenders

John C. Duffy, 42, key witness in a recent Prince Georges County grand jury probe of a reported "slot machine war" in the county and wanted by Hyattsville police on two charges of assault with intent to kill, voluntarily surrendered himself last night at the Hyattsville police station.

Duffy, operator of Duffy's Tavern, 4308 Rhode Island ave., Brentwood, was sought on assault warrants sworn out by his wife, Iolene, 29, of 835 4th st. ne., and her sister, Mrs. Olgo Catalano, 26, of 837 4th st.

Fight Opens On Pollution Of Potomac

Two Alexandria organizations, with the aid of technicolor motion pictures, last night opened a campaign to do something about the "20 million gallons of raw sewage" dumped into the Potomac daily.

The Alexandria chapter of the Izaak Walton League and the John Alexander chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution showed an 800-foot film on pollution in the Potomac River between Four Mile Run and Huff Run, near Alexandria.

Purpose of the film was to inaugurate a campaign "to educate the public for the time they must decide on increasing the city's indebtedness for the construction of a sewage treatment plant," according to Dr. Carson L. Fifer, president of the Alexandria Chapter, Izaak Walton League.

Dr. George Lemeshewsky, member of the staff of Alexandria Hospital, commented on the "extensive pollution" that flows from 18 city sewer lines untreated into the Potomac.

The film was made last month, but "if it had been taken during the summer, it would have shown a number of children swimming in these waters," Dr. Lemeshewsky said.

Stanley King, Alexandria member of the Izaak Walton League, said the city has assumed the maximum bonded indebtedness allowed by law.

The alternative to building the necessary treatment plant would be issuance of revenue bonds amortized by individual citizens paying for the services, he said.

It causes many infectious diseases, injury to fish and wildlife and discomfort to the public, he declared.

Dr. Fifer said the film will be equipped with a sound track and will be made available to organizations interested in combating river pollution.

Goss Is Reelected Master of Grange

Sacramento, Calif., Nov. 21 (AP).—Albert S. Goss, Washington, D. C., was reelected today to his fifth consecutive two-year term as master of the National Grange.

Convention delegates voted to hold next year's national convention in some Minnesota city to be selected later.

Franklin C. Nixon, Vincetown, N. J., was elected chaplain to succeed Joseph W. Fichter, Oxford, Ohio; and Bryan V. Holmes, Milburn, Neb., was elected steward to replace Homer Shride of Emden, Mo.

Reelected were: Henry D. Sherwood, Pine Plains, N. Y., overseer; Edward Bolter, Middletown, Md., lecturer; W. G. Armstrong, Niles, Mich., treasurer; and Harry A. Caton, Coschocton, Ohio, secretary.

Harris & Ewing

YOUR youngster's eyes will get as big as little Michael Bumgardner's when he sees your beautifully baked Thanksgiving turkey, catches a whif of its tantalizing aroma! Michael is the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Bumgardner. His mother used a sage dressing for stuffing the turkey, baked it long and slow in the good old-fashioned way.

Here's How to Tame That Bird in Hand

Tough or Tender? It All Depends on You

By Lucia Brown

WILL YOUR THANKSGIVING TURKEY be golden brown and beautiful, with tender drumsticks and delicate white meat, ooozing with savory juice?

Or will it be stringy and tough, covered with puckered dry skin, certain to bend the best-tempered knife blade?

It all depends on the cooking, once you have a good bird in hand. Treat the turkey right and you're in for a treat when the gobbler comes out of the oven.

If you buy a frozen turkey, you can save cooking time by thawing him before roasting. Take off wrappings and cover turkey loosely with a clean cloth or waxed paper. Allow about two days for defrosting in the refrigerator for a large whole bird.

Takes Longer if Unthawed

IF THE BIRD is to be cooked immediately after defrosting, it may be defrosted at room temperature, allowing at least an hour per pound. If it has not been thawed at all before baking, allow one and a half times as long as usual to cook.

It's a good idea to prepare stuffing and bird ahead of time. But refrigerate both separately. Ready-to-cook birds of top quality will need little preparation. Just remove any annoying pin feathers, wash and dry the turkey, and brush with butter or other fat.

The amount of stuffing you need depends on the size of the turkey. Your chosen recipe will undoubtedly tell how big a bird it will stuff. Be sure to fill neck and body cavities loosely, as stuffing swells in the baking. Sew the cavities shut with a big needle and coarse thread. Fold back the wings an dtie the legs together or slip under band of skin at cavity opening.

Be Sure to Turn It

TO ROAST A WHOLE TURKEY evenly, place it on the rack in a roasting pan on one side of the breast first. Then during the cooking, turn to the other side and then to the back.

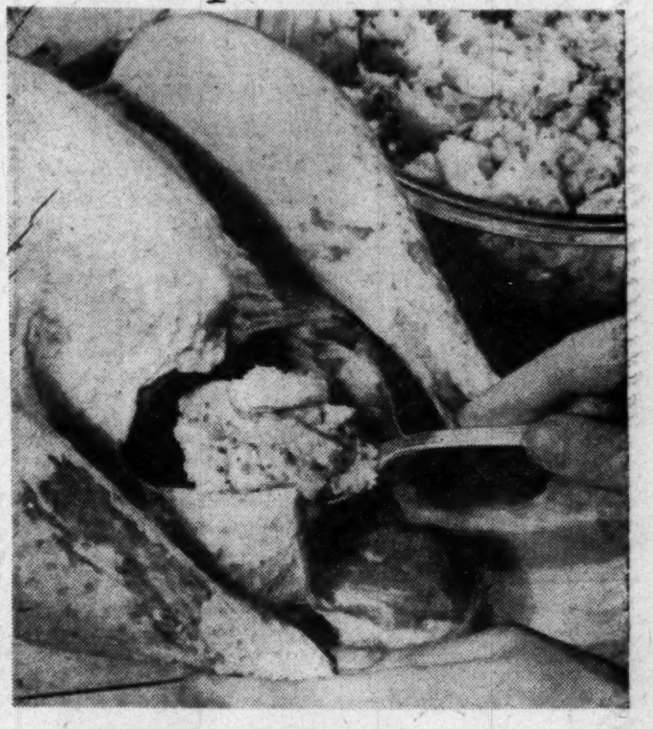
If you have a V-shaped rack, place breast down and when half done, turn breast up and finish roasting. Baste, if desired, with a mixture of butter and hot water or with drippings in the pan. Hot cider may be used instead of water. Slices of bread arranged over parts which brown faster than others will insure an even browning. Or you may dip a piece of cheesecloth in a mixture of butter and water and lay it over the whole turkey during the first part of the baking.

Time Table for Roasting

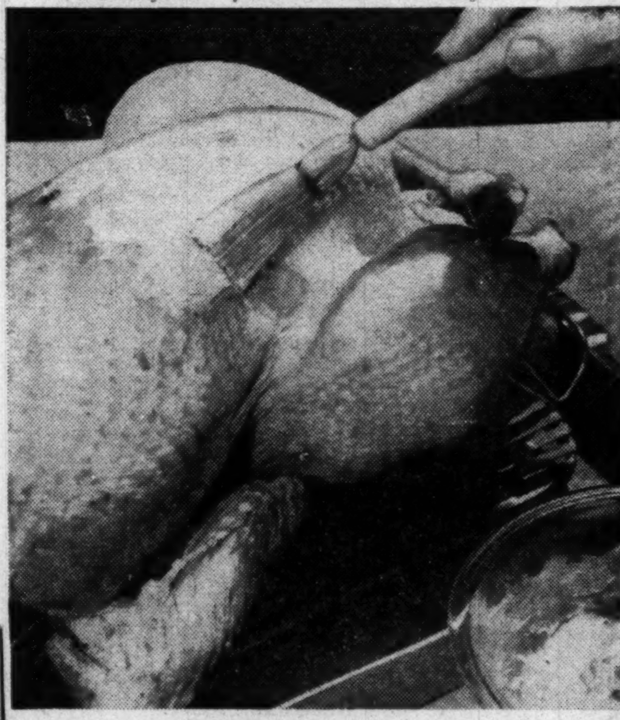
HERE IS A TIMETABLE for roasting the whole bird:

Ready-to-Cook Weight (Pounds)	Oven Temp. (Fah.)	Time Hours
21 to 25	250	8 to 9
16 to 20	250 to 275	6½ to 7½
12 to 15	275	5 to 6
8 to 11	300	3½ to 4½
5 to 7	325	2½ to 3

You'll want to cook the giblets separately if you plan to have giblet gravy. Whole gizzards and the heart need to simmer at least 1½ hours. If the liver is cut in half it will take 30 to 60 minutes.



IF YOUR turkey technique is good, you'll stuff the bird loosely. The dressing swells during cooking, gets soggy and may burst from the neck and body cavities



BRUSH the outside of the turkey with creamed butter or other fat after the neck and cavity are stuffed and sewed closed. Fold back wings and tie legs

Newcastle Didn't Need Coals and Turkey Gets Bird

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

Carrying coals to Newcastle is an old story. A newer twist is taking a turkey to Turkey. And that's just what the citizens of oregon State are doing. Gene Malecki, president of the Pacific Turkey Exhibit, is flying to Istanbul today with a 30-plus-pound bird which will reach Turkey's President Inonu as a token of American friendship precisely on our Thanksgiving Day. Once in Turkey with his turkey, the Oregonian is going to make a tour of the country and will have plenty to tell when he returns home.

Backward Look

NOW the tragic spate of aviation accidents is over we remember with considerable wryness a descent into the Azores—last June. At the time the landing seemed exceedingly funny. But lately we've wakened with fingers crossed and in a cold sweat.

The plane was humming over the Azores. No land or sea was in sight. A blue sky glistened above, whipped cream clouds bulged voluptuously below. For brief instants dark mountain peaks fanged through the opalescence. In adjoining seat a soldier snored a gentle cadence. He had fallen asleep immediately after the Frankfurt takeoff, explaining first that three different innoculations had been injected simultaneously into muscle instead of soft flesh. A generous potion of alcoholic soporific had soothed to unconsciousness any ensuing anguish. Tentatively, just as a sliver of brown mountain jagged through the clouds, he half opened an eye.

"I hope the pilot manages to miss these mountains," he croaked. Startled, we replied idiotically "They don't look very big."

"They are, though," he continused, brightening, "I was stationed here 14 months and once a British plane smacked against one of them."

"Was any one hurt?" we asked politely.

"All killed," he exclaimed with

Cranberries Good in Salad, Too

Would you like your cranberries in salad instead of a sauce this Thanksgiving? Here is a delicious recipe:

CRANBERRY WALDORF RING

½ cup fruit juice
½ cup sugar
2 cups fresh cranberries
1 package lemon gelatin
Apples
Celery
Walnuts

Combine water, juice and sugar in saucepan; bring to a boil. Add cranberries and cook until all the berries pop. Drain off and measure liquid. If necessary, add additional water or juice to make 1½ cups liquid; reheat. Dissolve lemon gelatin in hot liquid, then cool and chill until thickened. Stir in reserved cooked cranberries and pour into ring mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on large platter and fill center with combination of chopped apple, celery and walnuts dressed with mayonnaise. Garnish with whole cranberries, waterress and apple slices. Yield: four portions.

CORRECTION

Mary Haworth's Mail

Wife of Man Recently Assigned to Mission Abroad Has Misgivings About His Interest In Widow Who's Also Going; Fears Triangle

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband has accepted a position in foreign service that will take us abroad. My children are enthusiastic about the assignment, as was I until recently, but now I have misgivings about being happy there.

In the foreign service pre-training school where students are briefed by a lecturer, but where there is no general discussion, my husband has met a widow who is assigned to the same post. He told me about her, remarked that she is striking looking and later brought me a newspaper clipping so that I might see her picture.

Then recently as I was tidying his desk at home, I found in his papers a draft of a letter he was writing to the man abroad whose post he is taking. The letter mentioned the widow, saying in part, "Mrs. X appears to be a quite clever little girl and I have been much impressed by her, and by many complimentary things I've heard about her——," etc.

Man Says Wife's Being Ridiculous

IF ERIC were in a position to know from experience something about the lady's work or intellect or professional training, such a tribute might be justified. But mere observation of her, as a listener in a fortnight's class, hardly documents such a statement, therefore I felt he was impressed by her as a woman, and instinct said "Trouble ahead."

I'm not the jealous type and never go to Eric's office or telephone him there unless necessary, but with this situation literally thrust upon me, I decided it should be discussed before we reached the foreign post where we would all be together socially. I felt we ought to dispose of it now, rather than harbor uncertainty in my mind.

However, when I broached it to Eric he took issue with my attitude, said it was ridiculous, that the matter needed no discussion, as it was none of my business, Mrs. X being a business acquaintance, etc. I am a professional person too, or at least I was before the babies came, so I feel such things can be discussed openly. May I have your comment on the situation? G. L.

Man's Judgment Somewhat Cloudy

DEAR G. L.: It appears that Eric is flushed with a mild infatuation for Mrs. X, who doubtless is a clever woman, skilled in captivating persons whose approval and cooperation she wishes to utilize, else she wouldn't have reached the job she's in.

Thus I can imagine it might be all in the day's work to her—a routine exercise of professional finesse—to bag Eric's interest and adroitly feed it, deliberately to make him a booster for her, when she learned they were to share a new post together,

However, it would reflect on Eric's judgment if he gauchely assumes her motives are romantic rather than shrewd; yet the flustered way in which he rebuffed your inquiries suggests that he has been secretly nursing that conceited impression. Thus I think it is he who is being ridiculous, also absurdly inconsistent.

Case for Defense Isn't Convincing

FIRSTLY, he enthuses to you about the lady, not once but twice, so that you can't help but remember the name. Nextly he leaves a fan letter about her under your nose. Enough to spark wonder in any wife of ordinary social intelligence. Then when you ask him what's the pitch, he says excitedly that its none of your business, needs no discussion, she being remote from your life, etc.—which obviously doesn't make sense in view of the record.

Challenged about his drum beating for Mrs. X, he was sharply defensive and nastily rude because he felt afraid of your questions, resented your jarring intrusion into his day dreams and foolishly blamed you for his discomfort, and thus altogether was too upset to think clearly, speak blandly or do anything but shut you off quickly.

In short, his rejoinder to your concern about his crush seems lacking in poise, insight, foresight, reason, civility and social maturity, the very qualities a man should have in abundance, and keep in constant working order, to be a fit representative of his country in a foreign post. Granted that your grounds for anxiety may be slight, or that he could make a good case to that effect, still the sincerity of your attitude properly called for sympathetic open treatment of the subject—and he was remiss in refusing that. M. H.

Mother Care Courses Offered

Two Red Cross mother care courses are being offered to the public at Walsh House, 2020 Massachusetts ave., beginning December 1, according to Mrs. Herbert S. Dudley, chairman of nursing service for the District Red Cross.

One, for prospective mothers only, is a daytime class, to meet December 1, 8 and 15, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. Miss Elizabeth Van Wagner will instruct the course.

The other is an evening class, to be held from 7 to 9 p. m. on November 29, December 1, 6, 8 and 15. Mrs. Genevie Shanahan will instruct it. The evening class is open to both parents and prospective parents, as well as others interested in the care of mother and child.

No charge is made for this instruction, and enrollment may be made by telephoning the District Red Cross Nursing Service at Hobart 6800.

VIRGINIA PASLEY, former Washingtonian and author of the new "Christmas Cookie Book," bakes some of her favorites for an eager audience of young friends

Make Your Christmas Cookies Now

A BOOK that's brimful of Christmas joy—and practical suggestions—is a new one published by Little, Brown & Co. Called "The Christmas Cookie Book," it's written by Virginia Pasley and will make the young in heart from 8 to 80 yearn for the Yuletide.

Pictures of cookie angels and Santas, gingerbread men, bells, trees and fudge bars dance across its fly leaves.

Mrs. Pasley once made her home in Washington, which adds to the interest of her book here. She was Washington correspondent for the New York News during the war. Her husband, Fred D. Pasley, is now U. N. bureau chief for the New York News. They live in Jamaica, N. Y.

Here is one of her cookie recipes. It's listed under "Cookies That Keep." So make them any time now.

BLACK WALNUT DROPS

2 teaspoons water
1 pound brown sugar
1 cup chopped black walnuts
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
3 to 4 cups cake flour.

Beat whole eggs with water until thick, add sugar, gradually all the while, then nuts and flour sifted with soda and salt. Form in small balls and bake on an ungreased cookie sheet in a moderate oven—about 350 degrees — for about 15 minutes. These cookies improve with age, but will need to be softened by the addition of a cut apple to the cookie jar or tin box in which they are stored.

"THE Fireside Cookbook" (Simon and Schuster) is another new and mouth-watering volume. This one's by a man, James A. Beard, an associate editor of Gourmet magazine. Gay color pictures and line drawings by Alice and Martin Provenson add to its charm. The jacket is unusual in that it opens up into a beautiful decorative chart for your kitchen wall.

Mr. Beard gives basic recipes for preparing most foods, followed by fascinating variations. The latter will prove most intriguing to his readers, for he includes favorites from many schools of cookery — French, Italian, Swiss, German, Near East. They'd be wonderful to have when entertaining.

Holiday Fashion Preview

Dressy Separates Spice Up That Jaded Wardrobe

By Peggy Preston

SINCE ALL OF US are heading into what we hope, at least, will be a festive holiday season, it's time to take stock of our wardrobe situation.

Looks pretty dull, does it? A bit jaded after a tough fall season? Well, if you have, say $30 to spare, you can brighten it considerably by buying a set of "separates." These are the skirt and blouse combinations that are the handiest little fashion items of the season. They can be switched around in any number of interesting ways becoming day, afternoon or evening ensembles with the ease of a quick-change artist.

Add Blouse to Skirt

IT may be turned into several other costumes, as well. By adding an evening blouse to the skirt, you have a costume that is suitable for a formal dinner, or theater party. The blouse, matched with a jersey, flannel or tweed skirt, makes an effective luncheon-in-town outfit.

The satin-jersey combination is but one of many availble in shops around town this week. Taffeta, faille, velvet and velveteen are among the fabrics employed. Skirts may be full length or short, as you wish, and the blouses are offered in all manner of styles and trim.

If you own a full length evening skirt, purchased several seasons ago, you might shorten it this year just for the fun of having a change. Add an evening sweater of pastel yarn, with a design of bright beading or sequins. Off-the-shoulder blouses still among the most becoming things a woman can wear, should not be forgotten despite the fact that they are no longer a fad.

Amateurs Take Runway

AMATEUR models from the ranks of B'nai B'rith Women, Argo took to the runway yesterday at the membership tea given by that organization at the Lafayette Hotel.

Participating in the fashion show that was a feature of the event were Mrs. Leo Bernstein, Mrs. Carl Flocks, Mrs. Nathan Bernstein, Mrs. Jerry Bernstein, Mrs. Bernard Kilsheimer and Mrs. Mildred Fisher. They modeled a collection of dresses and suits from Herman Becker, Inc.; furs from Jandel's, and shoes from William Allen.

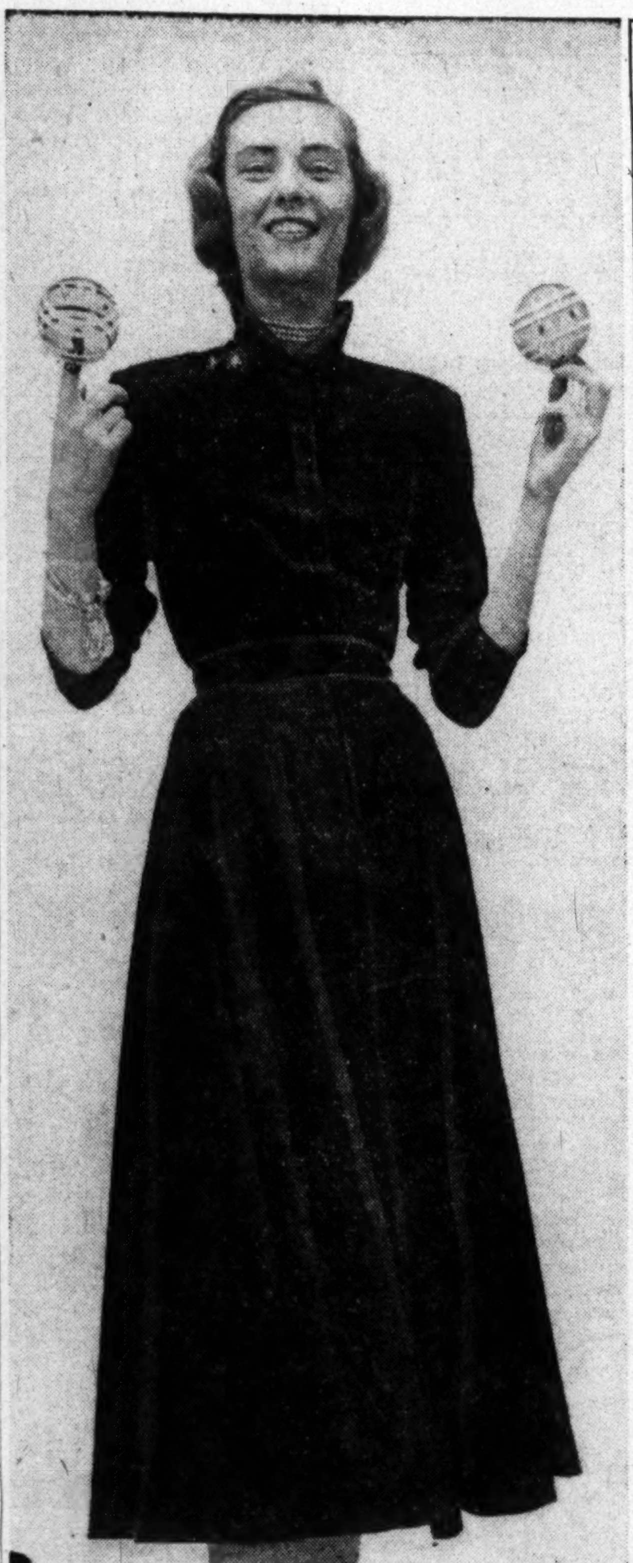
Mrs. Hazel Markel of WTOP was commentator for the show.

Katharine Kimberly To Become Bride

Mrs. George Widmayer Heath of Gloucester, Va., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Katharine Lamar Kimberly, to Arthur Gray, son of Mrs. Harry Franklin Lowman of Petersburg, Va. and Washington.

The bride-elect is the daughter of John Brown Kimberly, formerly of Hampton, Va. She attended St. Margaret's School in Tappahannock, Va. Mr. Gray was graduated from Augusta Military Academy and attended the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg.

No date has been set for the wedding.



A GIRL'S best friend during the forthcoming holiday season is apt to be a set of "separates"—those blouse and skirt combinations that can be dressed up or down, according to the demands of the occasion. Here we have an exceptionally pretty set which combines a satin skirt with a snug jersey blouse. Satin touch is carried through in the covered buttons, Peter Pan collar and cuffs. Colors are black and navy blue. You'll find it in sizes 10 to 18, at Peck & Peck's

If Correctly Styled, You're in the Velvet

AS YOU know by now, it's the biggest velvet season in years—velvet dresses, velvet hats, velvet bags, velvet blouses, velvet gloves, velvet suits. Now we have velvet-trimmed coats, too, and I think these are almost our smartest winter coat fashion.

They are nearly always fitted and in broadcloth with velvet collars, cuffs, pocket flaps, or handsome velvet frog fastenings. A velvet-trimmed coat need not always be black. It is smart in colors, too—either with matching velvet trim as on navy or brown, or contrasting as black velvet on gray or bright red.

U. S. Point 4 Plan Outlined by Thorp

By Genevieve Reynalds

WILLARD THORP, Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs, declared yesterday that the Administration is trying to negotiate treaties with foreign countries which will give some assurance that American businessmen's investments will be protected.

The guarantee program, he explained in a luncheon address to the Women's National Democratic Club, would be directed by the Import-Export Bank.

The Assistant Secretary of State pointed out that such guarantees would assure the businessman that he could obtain dollar returns on his profits. At present, he must often take his profit in the currency of another country.

Encouraging foreign investment is one aspect of the Administration's Point Four program to aid backward countries. Many of the programs would be conducted jointly with the cooperation of the individual countries, the United Nations and the United States Government, according to Mr. Thorp.

For example, the United States Government would furnish skilled technicians for developing industry, experts in agriculture and forestry, and teachers, doctors and sanitation officials.

Compares Health in Areas

HE ILLUSTRATED the need for technical and medical facilities through a series of charts showing the difference between developed and undeveloped countries. In some undeveloped areas there are 17 doctors for 17,000 persons (on the basis of prewar statistics). In most developed areas there are 126 doctors fo reach 17,000 population. Life expectancy in the undeveloped areas is 30 years as against a 63-year life expectancy in the United States.

Statistics show that in 1939, per capita annual income in undeveloped areas of the world was less than $100 per person. In partially developed areas, the annual per capita income averaged $200. In the United States the per capita national annual income was over $500.

Changes Are Envisioned

"OVER TWO THIRDS of the world's population live in these undeveloped areas," Mr. Thorp explained. "Since the war, people have become more and more restless. Many for the first time realize that they could have a better life. This is due to troop movements, influx of magazines from more prosperous countries, as as well as promises of various governments."

He pointed out that if a backward area develops economically, culturally, and educationally, it may jump from a low position to a significant one in world politics.

Thorp warned that giving financial assistance, or merely shipping in heavy machinery alone, will not solve the problems of backward areas. They must be helped educationally as well as industrially. He showed, again by statistics, that in backward areas about 78 percent of the population is illiterate.

Teachers' Shortages Cited

TEACHERS' SHORTAGES provide another problem. In backward areas there are 176 teachers per 100,000 persons, whereas in developed areas there are about 400 teachers per 100,000.

He said that the Administration would press for the furtherance of its program to aid backward countries during the next Congress. He said, however, that it is a cumulative program and will go on for many years.

Thorp emphasized that such a program will help to create the good will we want in the world and will help to raise our own standards of living. By raising the standards of living in other countries, we can make them become larger purchasers of our goods.

Mrs. Colby Heads House of Mercy Board

MRS. BENJAMIN COLBY has been elected president of the Ladies Board of the House of Mercy, the Episcopal home for unmarried mothers. She succeeds Mrs. William Draper Blair.

Other new officers who will serve with Mrs. Colby include Mrs. DeForest Anthony, first vice president; Mrs. S. E. W. Kittelle, second vice president; Mrs. Laurence G. Hoes, third vice president; Mrs. Hannah G. Hill, recording secretary; Mrs. Philip N. Israel, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Howard P. Bailey, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Draper Blair, treasurer, and Mrs. Norman L. Munster, assistant treasurer.

The Ladies Board also announces election of two of its members to the Board of Trustees of the home. They are Mrs. Albert Cushing Read and Mrs. T. Perry Lippitt, jr.

Proves the Alger Formula

FROM A "JOB" as a match-factory laborer to a "career" as a tobacco company official is the feminine Horatio Alger success story of Miss Elizabeth Pepperell, member of the London Altrusa Club. The 32-year-old British woman will arrive in town today to be the house guest of Mrs. Raleigh Gilchrist, D. C. Altrusan. On Friday, the Washington Altrusa Club will honor the visitor with a party at 8 p. m. at Mrs. Gilchrist's home, 4939 30th pl., nw.

Miss Pepperell, personnel director for a large tobacco concern in Great Britain, started at the age of 15 to work in a match factory. Despite long working hours, she managed to get a degree in sociology and personnel relations at the University of London plus two scholarships for study of labor relations in Sweden and Denmark.

Hospital Board Sets Shop Debut

The Women's Board of Providence Hospital is opening the Providence Economy Shop at 1246 20th st. nw., this week to help raise badly needed funds for the hospital, which is operated by the Sisters of Charity.

Mrs. J. Raymond Raedy is president of the Women's Board of Providence Hospital. The shop will be opened formally on Wednesday, and will be open from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily, except Sundays and holidays, for the sale of contributed articles, and other articles to be sold on a consignment basis.

Miscellaneous articles will be offered for sale at the shop including household goods, wearing apparel, glassware, dishes, mirrors, pictures, art work, musical instruments and other useful articles donated by benefactors, Mrs. Raedy said.

"Providence Hospital has helped so many thousands of Washingtonians since its founding in 1861," Mrs. Raedy says, "that we think Washingtonians would like to help Providence, especially at this time when the hospital needs assistance. Because of its many charity patients, and because of the social welfare and other services it renders without distinction to race, creed or ability to pay, Providence Hospital each year operates at a financial loss.

Mrs. Raedy also announced that an informal preview for board members and other invited guests will be held from 2 to 5 p. m. Tuesday, at the shop. Hostesses will include Mrs. Howard Mitchell, Mrs. Michael J. McInerney, Mrs. Matthew McGuire, Mrs. Robert Conlon, Mrs. Magruder MacDonald, Mrs. Francis J. Keane, Mrs. Joseph C. Monoghan. Lady Berendsen, wife of the New Zealand Ambassador, who is an honorary member of the board, will attend.

The committee in charge of the Providence Economy Shop consists of Mrs. Charles F. Hill, Mrs. Allen J. Krouse, Mrs. Fred J. Lovell, Mrs. Stephen A. McCarthy, Mrs. John P. Moore, Mrs. James O'Keefe, Mrs. Jerome Sansoucy, Mrs. Frank R. Shea, Mrs. Alfred J. Suraci and Mrs. Raedy.

Visiting Brazilian General Honored At Ambassador's Cocktail Party

By Marie McNair and Elizabeth Maguire

BRIG. GEN. EUDORO BARCELLOS, Director of Engineering of the Brazilian army, is a visitor in town until Thursday, and with his staff is at the Shoreham Hotel.

Yesterday he met high-ranking Army and Navy officers and their wives at a cocktail party given by the Brazilian Ambassador, Mauricio Nabuco, at the embassy. Receiving with the Ambassador was his sister, Miss Caroline Nabuco.

Members of General Barcellos' staff who were at the party were Col. Otacilo Terra Ururahy, Lieut. Col. Reubens Noronha Miranda, Lieut. Col. Francisco Amanajas de Carvalho and Maj. Eduardo Domingues de Oliveira.

Among the guests yesterday were Gen. and Mrs. John S. Bragdon, Gen. and Mrs. Glenn Edgerton, Engineer Commissioner and Mrs. Gordon Young, Maj. Gen. Douglas Weart, Commandant of Fort Belvoir, and Mrs. Weart; Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Leroy Irwin, Lieut. Gen. and Mrs. Raymond Wheeler, Gen. and Mrs. Robert Walsh, Admiral and Mrs. Aubrey W. Fitch, Admiral and Mrs. W. O. Spears, Admiral and Mrs. Julius Furer, Gen. and Mrs. Thomas Larkin, Col. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Maj. and Mrs. Herman Dietz.

Notables on Guest List

OTHERS were Dr. and Mrs. Charles Fenwick, Mr. and Mrs. Halbert Sloat, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Evans, jr.; Col. and Mrs. William S. Culbertson, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Littell, Mrs. Emerson Bigelow and Mrs. Arthur Doig.

Embassy staff members there were the Naval Attache and Mme. Ache, the Military Attache and Mme. Amaral, the Air Attache and Mme. Duncan, the Brazilian Minister and Mme. de Mello-Franco, and the Assistant Military Attache and Mme. Fragoso.

Earlier in the day General Barcellos was honored at a luncheon given at the Pentagon by Lieut. Col. Jackson Graham, USA, who is to be his aide and tour director during his stay in this country.

Entertain for Navy

REAR ADMIRAL BRIAN B. SCHOFIELD of the British Joint Services Mission, and Mrs. Schofield entertained yesterday for Navy friends, including a number of embassy attaches. The party was from 6 to 8 p. m. at their house on 33d pl.

In the gathering were Captain and Mme. van Foreest of the Netherlands Embassy, Commander and Senhora de Belo of the Portuguese Embassy, and Senhora de Belo of the Portuguese Embassy, Captain and Mrs. Araldsen of the Norwegian Embassy and Captain and Mme. Cabanier of the French Embassy.

Also, Admiral Sir Frederick and Lady Dalrymple-Hamilton, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Alfred Melville Pride. Vice Admiral and Mrs. Arthur Dewey Struble, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Edwin Dorsey Foster, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Thomas Inglis and many more.

Married in Florida

OF INTEREST to Washington is the announcement of the marriage of Catharine Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Jeffers of Key West, Fla. and Washington, to Lieut. (j.g.) Charles Kittelle Moore, USN, son of Rear Admiral Charles J. Moore, USN (retired), of Washington and Mrs. Moore of Washington. The wedding took place in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., on November 12.

Mrs. John Howard Broadbent of Baltimore entertained at luncheon yesterday at the United Nations Club for Mrs. Tunstall Smith, also of Baltimore.

Other guests were Mrs. Charles C. Windsor, Miss Margaret Lindsay, Mrs. Herbert Breakey, Mme. Ivan Jurkovic, Mrs. Cole McFarland, Mrs. Daniel Webster Prentiss and Mrs. Arthur R. Rupley, jr.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Broadbent later attended the tea given by the New Zealand Ambassador and Lady Berendsen in honor of members of the English-Speaking Union. Mrs. Broadbent entertained the Ambassador and Lady Berendsen at tea last year at her home in Baltimore.

Farewell for Crawfords

AS A FAREWELL to Maj. Gen. Roscoe C. Crawford, who is retiring from the Corps of Engineers, and Mrs. Crawford, a dinner was given last evening by Maj. Gen. and Mrs. David McCoach, jr., at the Army and Navy Club.

Among the guests were Lieut. Gen. and Mrs. Raymond Wheeler, Lieut. Gen. and Mrs. Robert Eichelberger, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. E. L. Peterson, Col. and Mrs. Lacey Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Tompkins, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. R. Gordon Young and Maj. Gen. and Mrs. D. L. Weart.

NEWS NOTES:

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Henry of Wiscasset, Me., and St. Petersburg, Fla., are honeymooning again. They are here to celebrate their sixty-third wedding anniversary at the Willard Hotel where they came following their marriage in Chelsea, Mass., on Thanksgiving Day, 1886.

The three-year courtship, Mr. Henry explains, was not due to shyness on his part, but because he was a striving youn man in the wool importing business, he was reluctant to take enough money from the till to buy the ring. The Henrys, who spend a lot of time traveling now, expect to be back again next year.

DATE-BOOK DATA:

The Egyptian Ambassador and Mme. Rahim have invitations out for a dinner on Saturday evening, December 3, the same evening that the Norwegian Ambassador and Mme. Munthe Morgenstierne will entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Holdrege will be hosts at dinner Monday evening, December 5, entertaining in honor of Mrs. Paul Healy.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Ryan will give a cocktail party on November 26 in the Louis Sieze Room of the Shoreham.

glum satisfaction. The conversation lapsed for half an interminable hour while the plane continued to circle, searching for a break in the clouds. At last the downwards coil commenced.

"I sure hope he hits the runway right," remarked the GI, once more happily alert."

"What's the matter with it? Too short?" we tried to suppress a quaver.

"No, not too short. Just very, v-e-r-y soft at the end. I was standing right beside it one day when a plane landed short, turned a somersault and smashed to bits!

"Outside mist whirled by the window. There was no runway in sight.

"It must have been a small plane—to turn a somersault," we reassured ourselves aloud. "Oh, no. The same as this!" he yawned lazily.

The mist was dissolving the ground coming up fast. Suddenly we spotted the airstrip. The wheels jounced ground. "All killed!" our pal caroled gaily.

Games to Play At Dinner Party

I am planning an informal dinner party some time between Thanksgiving and Christmas. The 12 couples (mostly from my husband's office) are between 28 and 60. Can you suggest a few appropriate games besides a scavenger hunt or bobbing for apples?

Is it proper to ask each couple to contribute to the buffet dinner. I plan on having roast turkey, cranberry jelly, cole slaw, potato salad, hot biscuits, punch, coffee, fruit cake, pumpkin pie, nuts, pickles, and olives. I'll contribute the turkey, punch, coffee, and hot biscuits. Would paper plates be all right?

R. I. S.

Such games as charades or twenty questions are fun for a large adult group.

In case you don't remember how charades go, divide the players into groups of four or five players each. The first group leaves the room, decides upon, returns and acts out a word, syllable by syllable. The remaining people in the group must guess the word from the actions. The group guessing the word acts out the next one. Words which lend themselves to acting out are penmanship: pen, man, ship; pilgrimage: pill, grim, age; anticlimax: Aunty or anti, climb or clime, ax, etc.

Twenty questions might also be fun. In this game one person writes the name of an object on a piece of paper, folds it, and places the folded paper in sight of all but so the group cannot read the word. This done, the others in rotation try to guess the object by asking questions which can be answered by "Yes," "No," or "I don't know." to win they must guess the name of the object in 20 questions. The player naming the object selects the person to be questioned next.

The easiest aand perhaps the most satisfactory way to entertain a group of this size is to provide equipment for a variety of card games such as bridge, rummy, or hearts so that all can have their choice of activity. This way, those who do not wish to play games will be free to sit and visit.

If your guests are a well-acquainted group such as an office group and you plan the party together as a cooperative dinner, it would be quite appropriate to ask the guests to contribute to the dinner. But, if the group is not entirely an office group and therefore not well acquainted, joint planning would not be possible and it would be a little difficult to ask the guests to bring some of the food.

Perhaps another couple or two, whom you know well, would like to serve as cohosts with you and your husband. If you do this the invitations could be issued jointly and the problem of preparing all of the food could be divided.

If your food is to be cold with the exception of hot biscuits, paper plates would be fine. For serving hot turkey with gravy, china plates would be more suitable perraps.

The following information might well interest J. H. K. who is quoted in your column of today as being interested in purchasing in oversized bed and appropriate linens and blankets.

We purchased such a bed four months ago and have been extremely well pleased with it. Our bed is made up of two twinbed box springs, each mounted on six legs, and topped with one solid expanse of foam rubber mattress. This system makes for ease in moving the bed into a small apartment, as a latex mattress can easily be rolled and lifted. Of course, too, the job of turning an inner spring mattress of that size would be tremendous.

We were concerned about adequate linens for our mammoth bed, but that turned out to be a minor problem. Oversize percale sheets were far beyond our budget, but we found that a well known New York Department store carried muslin sheets in size 99 by 120 inches for the comparative pittance of about $4.25. Using the bottom sheet in the customary fashion is quite satisfactory, but we found that we prefer to put the greater dimension of the top sheet across the bed rather than up and down. Incidentally, a double bed size quilted mattress pad serves quite well when used with the length across the width of the bed.

As for blankets, we find that a double bed size electric blanket is just barely wide enough to do the trick without any width left over to tuck in. So far, that has been quite satisfactory, and in the event that this winter proves to chilly for such a system, we have decided that it would be a simple procedure to cut an ordinary blanket in two and sew half on either side of the electric blanket. That would afford more than sufficient width for a deep tuck in.

As a blanket cover, or top sheet, we use an extra length (120) inch ripple spread turned sideways. That holds the blanket in place quite well, too.

We're so "sold" on our wonderful bed, that I sincerely hope you will be able to pass this information on as an indication that it is possible—on a fairly tight budget, too! J. E.

Thank you for these practical suggestions!

A friend of mine would like to purchase a used wedding gown to send overseas. Could you tell me if there is a store in Washington or nearby Virginia that would sell an article of this type? S. S.

There is a shop in Alexandria which sells used wedding gowns—it can be reached by calling Alexandria 0649.

Please tell me if there is any way of removing a small scorched spot from a pink satin drape. Mrs. H.

If the scorched mark is light you may be able to remove it by sponging with clear water and then dusting powdered sodium perborate on it. Sodium perborate is a mild bleach which is safe to use on rayons and silks, but since it may affect the color it is important that you test its effect on an inconspicuous spot before applying to the stain. If you find it to be safe on the color, rub the perborate into the stain and let stand for 20 minutes. At the end of this period, brush out. The entire treatment may berepeated if the scorch is lightened, but not removed.

FCC Test of Color Video Takes 5 Hours

Six Federal Communications Commissioners and news and magazine reporters were treated to varied color television programs yesterday, the climax of seven weeks of FCC hearings on the new telecast medium.

The programs were competitive demonstrations put on in Tempo E building at 4th st. and Adams dr. sw. by the Radio Corp. of American and the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The Allen B. DuMont Laboratories also had regular black and white receivers in the demonstration rooms for simultaneous tune-in of the same programs.

Urges Further Development

DuMont's participation was to support its argument that no color system yet developed can match black and white reception and that the FCC should not approve any system, pending further development.

Cameras of the three systems were set up side by side in a Wardman Park Hotel studio. The scenes were taken, broadcast and received in three Tempo E rooms simultaneously.

Commission members viewed the telecasts privately with officials and technicians.

The broadcasts began shortly after 9 a. m. with a wrestling match, followed by interviews and test color patterns. An Elder Michaux sermon and singing by his choir was next.

Commercial Products, Too

Then followed views of prints of famous paintings, maps, weaving demonstrations, animals and birds, minerals, charts and graphs, flags and other colorful subjects. The five-hour program closed with a demonstration of commercial potentialities, showing canned goods, breakfast foods, fruits and cigarette packages.

Most of the programs were transmitted to New York and back by coaxial telephone cable, then broadcast by local stations over the air for pick-up at the Tempo E Building.

A similar demonstration will be put on today at 9 a. m. The FCC, which is endeavoring to find out if color is ripe for general commercial public use, will have a demonstration of a third type of color television in February. This type is being developed by Color Television, Inc., of San Francisco, and will be show competitively against RCA and CBS.

Bell Heads Red Cross Campaign

Daniel W. Bell, president of the American Security and Trust Company, will head the 1950 American Red Cross Metropolitan area campaign as general chairman, J. Clifford Folger, District chapter chairman, announced yesterday.

D. W. Bell

Bell, Undersecretary of the Treasury from 1940 to 1945, formerly was treasurer of the American National Red Cross and was a member of the national central committee.

Last year he was president of the Community Chest Federation, National Capital area.

In accepting the appointment, Bell, who lives at 3816 Gramercy st. nw., said:

"I am strongly aware of the numerous worthwhile Red Cross activities which require the financial as well as moral support of the thousands of friends of the organization in this area."

He cited the new national blood program; services for veterans, servicemen and their families; the national disaster program, and the health and educational services of the local chapters, which include first aid, water safety, nutrition, and home nursing.

Stage Show Dramatizes Mental Quirks

By Mark Barron

New York, Nov. 20 (AP).—A Broadway theatrical audience witnessed tonight the premier of psychodrama play business, a showshop which presents people who perform their own personal dramas with spontaneous dramatizations of incidents from their own lives.

Produced and directed by Dr. J. L. Moreno, psychiatrist, the drama was presented in the Mansfield Theater, the first of 27 productions which will be depicted each Sunday night until May 21.

In the performance tonight, an Irishman told of his worries about coming to New York, settling himself in this new country and then finding a yearning to go "back to the old country."

He enacted scenes of his childhood with his parents, memories of his life as a young man in Dublin before he came to New York.

His chief problem, he said, was that he thought his boss was a louse.

Otherwise, he said, he had no problems and had no intention of going back to Ireland.

After the performance tonight, Dr. Moreno invited questions from the audience and there was a general discussion in which Dr. William H. Kilpatrick, professor emeritus of Columbia University, and Dr. Jacob Greenberg, associate superintendent of the New York public school system, joined.

Boy Is Saved From Death By New Drug

Denver, Nov. 21 (AP).—The new antibiotic polymixin has been used successfully in treating an 11-year-old boy whose lung ailment is almost invariably fatal, Dr. Harold I. Goldman said last night.

The boy, Bernard Klitzner, New York City, was brought here in June for treatment of a condition diagnosed as intractable asthma.

Examinations also disclosed a funguslike growth in the lungs termed pseudomonas aeruginosa, Dr. Goldman said. About 80 percent of the boy's lungs were affected.

Several drugs were tried without success. After many consultations with experts throughout the Nation, Dr. Goldman obtained a supply of polymixin from the Burroughs Wellcome Pharmaceutical Co. The drug, supplied free by the firm, was valued at $4000.

Dr. Goldman said "we don't know for sure but we think the body resistance has now been raised to the point where it can fight the infection itself. If so, Bernard will get well."

Pulaski Bus Survey Offered In Bias Case

Richmond, Va., Nov. 21 (AP).—The State Department of Education today offered a helping hand to localities fearful of the results of a Federal court opinion in the Pulaski County discrimination case.

Although taking no sides in the court dispute, the department offered to make supplementary transportation surveys to make sure school divisions were routing their school buses so that no discrimination charges could be leveled.

Last Monday the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit ruled in Baltimore that there was racial discrimination in the high school facilities of Pulaski County. Pulaski County Negroes are offered high school educations only at the Christiansburg Industrial Institute, in Montgomery County, under a regional agreement.

The section of the opinion that disturbed State officials was the finding of discrimination in the fact that the Negro students had to be transported a greater distance and for a longer period than the white children.

The Pulaski County School Board now is studying the advisability of appealing the decision to the Supreme Court.

The State Department of Education, when requested by the localities, makes surveys to determine the most economical and efficient routing of school buses. Eighty of these surveys have been made since 1943. The last one made in Pulaski County was in November, 1944.

Dowell J. Howard, acting superintendent of public instruction, said today the surveys in the past determined the most efficient bus routes irrespective of whether the students were white or Negro.

Both in the new surveys and in the supplementary studies, the department will now place emphasis on the type of routing required to solve the problem of discrimination cited in the court decision.

DDT Losing Sting Against Mosquitoes

Efforts to conquer the pesky mosquito through use of DDT insecticide appear doomed to failure.

The Agriculture Department reported yesterday that strains of the insect resistant to DDT have been found along the east coast of Florida.

Previously, the department had reported discovery of strains of houseflies which also were resistant to the new insecticide.

Obviously disappointed, the department said the value of DDT as a means of controlling certain insects that annoy or transmit diseases to man is "apparently disappearing before the very eyes of the entomologists who developed the remarkable chemical for the United States armed forces during war."

The department recalled early successful use of the insecticide in mosquito-infested areas of Florida.

Freedom from mosquitoes in the area following use of the insecticide was considered one of the miracles of present-day insect-control practices, it said.

The department said "certain new promising" mosquito insecticides are under study at its entomology laboratory at Orlando, Fla.

"A few of these," the agency said, "appear to be promising as substitutes for DDT."

The department said DDT had turned some of the mosquito-ridden salt marsh areas of Florida into year-around recreational and resort areas. Previously they were virtually uninhabitable during certain seasons of the year.

Now the DDT-resistant mosquito threatens to reconquer these areas.

Iron Curtain Nations to Hear Louder 'Voice' From Greece

By The Associated Press

The Voice of America soon may be heard in greater volume behind the Iron Curtain.

The State Department announced yesterday it will share with the Greek government in the operation of a new radio transmitter now nearing completion at Saloniki, Greece. The new station is expected to start up early next year.

The "voice" will use it during evening hours to relay official American broadcasts to Communist Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania, and also to Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia.

The new station is a 50-kilowatt medium wave transmitter, broadcasting on 804 kilocycles. The announcement said it would enable Balkan listeners who do not own short-wave receivers to hear the American broadcasts.

"Voice" broadcasts to this part of the world now are being sent short-wave.

The new installation, built by the United States under an agreement with Greece, is expected to have little appreciable effect on the East-West radio jamming war.

Russian stations have been throwing up a screen of interference against American and British broadcasts for several months. Some of these broadcasts, however, are believed to be getting through.

The United States Congress this year voted $11,500,000 for strong new transmitting equipment to penetrate the screen but this as yet has not been constructed.

Garner Reaches 81, Goal Is Life of 93 Years

Uvalde, Tex., Nov. 21 (AP).—Cactus Jack will be 81 Tuesday.

That's another milestone for John Nance Garner, 32d Vice President of the United States, toward an ambition to live to be 93.

Garner, ruddy-faced and white-haired, said when he retired from politics in 1941 he wanted to live that long "so that more than half my life can be that of a private citizen."

For 46 years, Garner was in public life—as a Texas legislator and Congressman, Speaker in Congress and Vice President.

STOPS LAXATIVES—FEELS BETTER!

"Have been eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN 3 years and it's wonderful! Now I don't ever need a laxative, feel so much better. I've told plenty of others too!" Mrs. Jerry Russell, Route 8, Maryville, Tenn. Many other grateful ALL-BRAN users write the same. You may be helped, too, if constipated due to lack of bulk in the diet; start eating an ounce of crisp, toasty ALL-BRAN daily, drink plenty of water. If not satisfied after 10 days, send empty box to Kellogg's, Battle Creek, Mich. DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

One on the Aisle—

Musical Comedy Hails New Queen

By Richard L. Coe

ONE HOPES that the producers of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" have taken out hefty insurance covering all possible fates against the person of Carol Channing.

For Miss Channing is about to become the year's musical comedy queen. Photos soon will be flooding the press and she'll undoubedly be a Life cover girl before the year is out, our civilization's mightiest accolade.

Carol is the diamond-loving Lorelei of that long-line book to the teeth. Tall, blonde and buxom, she's cut her hair in the boyish bob of the '20s that the avant garde is making the gals' headdress of the '50s. Her fingernails have that white polish of the '20s.

Miles White, designer for "Oklahoma!" and "Bloomer Girl," has decked her out in the durndest, most lavish gowns any gold-digger of the period could have coveted. And Carol's contributed a tripping, mincing walk that's the funniest since Beatrice Lillie hiked herself in front of the "Inside U. S. A." chorus for that chant to Peeeetsbugh.

Lest you are adrift about "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," the musical comedy is now at Philadelphia's Forrest Theater, where it will be for the next two weeks. It opens at New York's Ziegfeld December 8, and seats in both spots are moving fast. If you're going to the Army-Navy game, go early or stay late to see Miss Channing.

That "Gentlemen" will play the Ziegfeld is fateful, as Lorelei would say, because Ziegfeld longed to turn Anita Loos' humorous book into a musical, but she and her husband, John Emerson, had already turned it into a straight comedy. This had a long run with June Walker as Lorelei and Edna Hibbard as her wisecracking pal, Dorothy. The movies took over with Ruth Taylor in 1928, Alice White playing Dorothy.

Long-Plotted Musical

The musical metamorphosis has long been dreamed of, but not until Carol Channing pranced through "Lend an Ear" last season was the perfect musical Lorelei in sight. Carol's chorus girl in that one cinched it. Miss Loos and Joseph Fields have done the book, cleverly, too, Agnes de Mille has "done" the dances and John C. Wilson has staged the whole, as he did for "Kiss Me Kate," which makes Wilson something of a white-haired boy in his once rebuked musical field.

From this, do not get the idea that this Herman Levin-Oliver Smith production is unalloyed delight.

It's main flaw is a completely poor, tuneless derivative, uninspired score by Jule Styne, composer of "High Button Shoes." When one thinks what Cole Porter might have done for this yarn about the dizziest gold digger of them all, one feels boiling in oil is small punishment for Styne.

The result is that unless Lorelei and her pal, Dorothy, are on stage, the songs and dances never get anywhere. Miss de Mille has contributed little, but I'm inclined to blame this on the lack of a good score. Muriel Bentley, for so long a joy of the Ballet Theater, makes her musical comedy bow in totally hapless fashion that's hard to understand. Surely the de Mille-Wilson combination ought to make more of her than this.

Music Hard to Overcome

The performance we saw was only the third, and there had been no time for rehearsals since opening night. Since all involved are smart in the ways of theater, it will undoubtedly be in much better shape for the New York opening night test. But the Styne score (lyrics by Leo Robin) is a stumbling block that can't easily be overcome.

For all that, Carol Channing's wide-eyed Lorelei is one of the joys of the theater year.

When a titled Englishwoman tries to sell her a diamond tiara, Lorelei gasps, in a husky squeak: "I never thought of putting diamonds there . . . I thought I had at least one of everything until I saw a diamond tiara."

Standing at a window overlooking the Place Vendome, Lorelei sighs to Dorothy: "Look at all those famous, hysterical names!" Then softly, or as Lorelei would say, with reverents: "Coty, Lelong, Lanvin, Cartier."

Carol's Own Diamond

Or, as with the best of this musical, straight from the 25-year-old best-seller, "A kiss on the hand is very nice, but a diamond lasts for-ev-er."

A Bennington College girl who understudied Eve Arden in "Let's Face It," Miss Channing has another "Lend and Ear" sidekick with her, Yvonne Adair, who plays Dorothy with great style you're inclined to overlook.

For "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" is Carol Channing's own show, a diamond that wouldn't be worth a jellybean without her.

Blood Factor Found Clew to Deafness

Philadelphia, Nov. 21 (AP).—The University of Pennsylvania Hospital today said it has found a clew that apparently explains why some children are born deaf or with hearing defects that later lead to total deafness.

The hospital said the RH negative blood factor "can be directly responsible for impaired hearing in the children of parents who have what is known as RH incompatibility."

The RH factor refers to a substance in red blood cells. About 87 percent of normal persons have this RH substance in their blood streams and are called "RH positives." The remaining 13 percent are "RH negatives."

The hospital explained that when an RH negative woman marries a man with RH positive blood, she often is unable to bear a healthy child. Her unborn baby's blood can cause her own blood to produce antibodies that may spell death, serious illness or defects for her child. Such a condition is known as RH incompatibility between parents.

The hospital's discovery was made through studies of 50 children afflicted with cerebral palsy, many of whom also had hearing defects and speech disorders.

RH blood tests, without exception, the hospital reported, showed that the RH blood factor was involved in each of the cerebral palsy-hearing defect cases.

The hospital said it now plans new tests with children who are not cerebral palsy cases but who have hearing defects and speech irregularities.

Eastern Shore Hospital Head Resigns in Morale Dispute

Cambridge, Md., Nov. 21 (AP).—The head of Eastern Shore State Hospital resigned today, saying that unless something is done about staff morale at the State's mental institutions it "may expect one messy situation after another."

Dr. Robert B. May announced he would leave his post December 14 to become clinical director of Willmar State Hospital at Willmar, Minn.

Maryland's General Assembly shook up the State's mental hospital system last winter in a furor. The powers and duties of the commissioner of mental hygiene were enlarged. Dr. George H. Preston, then the commissioner, and all of the superintendents were taken out of the merit system for State employes and the term "acting" in effect added to their titles.

Dr. Preston resigned in July. No successor has yet been appointed.

"Everything depended, and still depends, on the appointment of a new commissioner," Dr. May said in resigning today.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK.—Harnett Kane, the Louisiana historical novelist, came to New York last week to interest Raymond Massey in a dramatization of his "Bride of Fortune." Kane would like Massey to play the co-starring role of Jefferson Davis—an event which he assures Massey, whose best known role is Abe Lincoln, would not be treason . . . Kane, incidentally, tried to order New Orleans coffee in Toots Shor's. In describing it to the restaurateur, he said: "It must be as pure as an angel, strong as love, black as the devil and hot as hell. "He prescribed large portions of chicory. "You don't need a knife and fork to cut it—but it helps," he added. "A spoon should be able to stand up in it, and when the spoon tilts, we throw the coffee into the Mississippi — where some people think it originally came from."

The Virgin Islands, now competing with Nevada for the divorce trade, will start competing with Puerto Rico for new industrial enterprises, offering income tax-rebates to people who establish new businesses which do not compete with present ones there . . . Bernard Baruch's will, in which he'll bequeath his estate to his favorite charities, involves only a portion of the wealth he had. Baruch already has given away most of his fortune to causes he deems worthy . . . James Cain has been on a boat through the Louisiana bayous, following the trail of Gen. Nat Banks, the subject of his next novel.

Eddie Borden, the former fight reporter and manager who now operates a London handbook, returned to New York for a brief visit and one day had a reunion with Tony Canzoneri in Lindy's. In describing how true a champion Canzoneri was, he told of the afternoon in Stillman's gym when Tony suddenly decided to work out and no sparring partners were available. Borden, who never had fought, volunteered to box two rounds with him. A Broadway tailor, standing nearby, whispered to Canzoneri: "I'll give you a suit, free, if you knock Eddie down" . . . In the first round Tony whispered to Borden: "Throw a right." Borden swung, and Canzoneri stepped in, caught the punch on his shoulder — and Canzoneri went down.

John Hersey's new book, "The Wall," will be a Book-of-the-Month Club selection. It's a story about the Warsaw Ghetto.

Col. Smith of Marines Named Sherman Aide

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 21 (AP).—Col. John L. Smith, USMC, a World War II "ace" who is now on the staff here of the commander, Air Force, Atlantic, has orders to report for duty as aide to Admiral Forrest Sherman, USN, Chief of Naval Operations, Washington, it was announced today.

Smith, whose wife is the former Miss Louise Outland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Outland of Norfolk, has been on duty here since July, 1948. Smith came to Norfolk from duty at Quantico.

The Family Scrapbook

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

The Great Indulger

Some years ago an author writing about a certain type of father coined the phrase, "The Great Indulger."

She was referring specifically to the man who felt that nothing was too good for his daughter. Usually such a feeling indicated overattachment. The unduly strong affection seems to come most often in families where husband and wife have found their affection for one another not too satisfying.

Of course, it isn't fathers alone who are "great indulgers." Mama, too, can come to feel that her boy can do no wrong and that nothing is too good for him.

We know that everyone needs to be loved. This is particularly true of children if they are to grow normally. But parental love can be as blind as romantic love. It is important for children to be loved. But it is also important that they do not gain a distorted idea of their own worth. The child for whom nothing has been too good is the adult who expects from husband or wife the continuation of a kind of coddling that makes for anything but desirable family relations.

Children should not be protected at every turn. They need to stand on their own feet and they need to learn that most of the things they want will have to be earned and not accepted from the hands of some adoring person.

Grateful to You

This week we call Thanksgiving week . . . And so I want to say . . . The deep and heartfelt gratitude . . . I offer you today . . . I want to thank you for your smile . . . And for the great extent . . . To which your love has given me . . . Such real encouragement . . . Your every word has urged me on . . . To glory and success . . . And every moment at your side . . . Has brought me happiness . . . I thank you for your patience and . . . Your constant faith in me . . . The goodness of your golden heart . . . And all your sympathy . . . I thank you for each rainbow bright . . . And every sky of blue . . . And for the blessing that is mine . . . To share this life with you.

All Is Not Well Along The Party Line

A party-line subscriber who wishes to remain anonymous writes:

"Even more useful than a gadget to show when a party line is in use would be something that would force people to quit gabbing after a reasonable length of time, and give others a chance.

"Please don't use my name, or I'll have to wait for the phone an extra hour, while my dear neighbors tear me apart for daring to mention the subject."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Completely housebroken poodle; a fine pet." (Chestnut 1225 after 7 p. m.)

"If any recreation center needs an upright piano, they can have mine for the cost of moving it." (Metropolitan 5233.)

"Eight-month-old cat, mostly black with some beautiful white markings." (Temple 0211.)

"Sleek, abundantly healthy, lively cat, 6 months old; housebroken." (Shepherd 8055.)

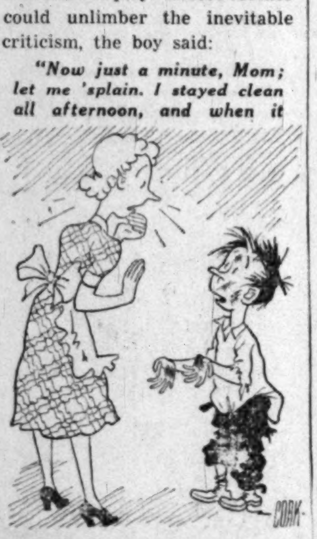
KID STUFF

Mrs. R. H. Adams of 101 Fairhaven ave., Alexandria, Va., tells this one on her son, who came home filthy dirty after a hard afternoon of play. Before Mother could unlimber the inevitable criticism, the boy said:



"Now just a minute, Mom; let me 'splain. I stayed clean all afternoon, and when it started getting dark I headed straight home. But I guess I didn't get here fast enough, and a little of the night-time fell on me."

WHAT A WAY TO RUN AN AIRPORT!

For a long time, the taxicab situation at National Airport left much to be desired. Now it's completely ridiculous.

Under the old setup, the Government sold exclusive hacking rights to a concessioner. Washington cabs could deliver passengers to the airport, but were forbidden to solicit business for a return trip.

However, if you saw a cab discharging a passenger and hailed it because you didn't want to wait for the regular limousine, that was okay, just so the hacker didn't "solicit" your business.

That was bad because most cab drivers found themselves returning from the airport empty—so they had to charge double rates for the outgoing trip, to make up for the deadhead ride back. The public got soaked, through no fault of the hackers.

But now it's even worse. Even if you try to hail a passing cab, he's not permitted to pick you up.

And if he is caught answering your hail, he's subject not only to a $500 fine, but a 6-month jail sentence, as well.

That's where I think airport officials have completely blown a gasket. Enforcing a commercial concession with such an unreasonably high fine plus the threat of a jail sentence is a mighty high-handed way of "serving the public."

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

It's just like a man to beef about his wife's stockings cluttering up the shower curtain rod, but not to do anything constructive about it.

My husband fastened a small towel rack to the back of the bathroom door. Now I have a place to hang my stockings and they don't get in his way.

Mrs. H. Victor James,
3304 Chauncey pl.,
Mount Rainier, Md.

Dear Mrs. James:

I put up two extra towel racks and we still have stockings on the shower rod. Any other suggestions?
Bill.

KEEP MOVING, BOYS

J. H. Gavin of Arlington, Va., thinks many drivers need a course of instruction in the purpose of "acceleration lanes."

An acceleration lane is supposed to facilitate entrance to a superhighway (such as Shirley hwy.). It is usually between an eighth and a quarter of a mile in length, and is designed to permit traffic entering the highway to attain highway speed, and thereby merge safely with highway traffic.

District Liner Gavin points out that the motorist who stops at the entrance to the highway not only stacks up the line of cars behind him, but later creates a hazard on the highway, because from his dead stop he cannot keep pace with the general flow of traffic for several hundred feet.

What we need, he says, are signs which say: "Don't Stop; Keep Moving."

Along Our Street

with Aunt Penny

This morning, I visited Mrs. Evans to see if she had any old clothes for next week's rummage sale. A few minutes after I got there, little Charlie Evans came running into the house with tears streaming down his face. He'd been playing ball and had hurt his finger quite badly.

Mrs. Evans' telephone party line was in use at that moment, but when she explained that she wanted to make an emergency call, the party who was talking gave up the line at once. Then Mrs. Evans called the doctor, who said he'd be right over.

To me, this example of telephone courtesy and understanding brought home the importance of sharing our party lines. I think that when everyone on the line is thoughtful and considerate, it makes the service more useful and pleasant all the way around.

Merry-Go-Round

Both Sides Mellowed By Strikes

By Drew Pearson

The Nation will be months recovering from the effects of the coal and steel strikes, but the disputes demonstrated one healthy fact: American industry and labor have "grown up" in their labor relations. The strikes were attended by almost no violence.

MOREELL

It hasn't been many years since violence and bloodshed were the rule in major strikes. As recently as May, 1937, Chicago police pursued and shot down steel union pickets, killing four instantly and fatally injuring six others in the May Day massacre at Republic Steel.

However, except for a few minor outbreaks in coal-mining areas, both management and labor recently demonstrated that the American spirit of fair play can be made to work in labor disputes. Much credit belongs to CIO President Phil Murray and his steel workers for peaceful, self-policed picket lines; also to certain employers, notably the Jones & Laughlin Steel Co.

Former Admiral Ben Moreell, far-sighted president of Jones & Laughlin, saw to it that union pickets at his plants got free hot coffee and doughnuts almost every night. Moreell also ordered that huts, equipped with electric heaters, be built for the pickets and even installed a telephone in a hut at the Aliquippa, Pa., plant so the strikers could communicate with union headquarters.

Moreell also made a practice, whenever possible, of personally visiting the picket lines for a friendly chat. There was nothing patronizing about it. The salty, likable former sea dog respected the position of the strikers as much as they respected his.

There were some bright moments, too, in the grueling 52-day coal strike. In the past most company stores shut off credit during strikes. However, this year practically all the big coal companies continued credit during the long strike. In the South, several operators provided hot meals for miners' children when they heard the youngsters were going to school without breakfast.

All in all, it was a far cry from the hot tempers and tear gas of a decade ago.

Swedish Hospitality

Those insulting digs at Swedish hospitality by junketing Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma contrasted with the story of another Senate subcommittee that visited Sweden at about the same time.

While Senator Thomas charged that the Swedes snubbed him, the subcommittee on housing led by able Senator John Sparkman of Alabama, returned with glowing accounts of Swedish hospitality. The Sparkman subcommittee included Allen Frear of Delaware, Ralph Flanders of Vermont and John Bricker of Ohio.

Bricker proved himself a real ambassador of good will in a speech at the Stockholm city hall, lauding Sweden on its efficient housing program and the cooperation shown him and his colleagues. The white-thatched Ohioan injected some American good humor into the proceedings by denying that Senator Frear was his son—even if the Delaware Democrat did call him "Pop."

Bricker later got a big hand in Rotterdam when he remarked that he had a special reason for "feeling at home here, because my folks came from Holland in the seventeenth century."

Unfortunately, however, this good will didn't cop the same headlines as the sensational Thomas technique of how not to win friends abroad.

"Do you really think I'm his father?" Bricker asked the girl.

"Oh, yes, sir," said the young lady, without hesitating a moment.

Fatherly Senator Bricker

There was only one thing white-haired Senator Bricker, aged 56, wanted to forget about Sweden—a certain cigarette girl in Stockholm.

After dinner one night, the girl stopped at the table where Bricker and four Senate colleagues were seated.

"I'll buy a cigar for my father," announced 46-year-old Frear, nodding toward Bricker.
